BEST REPORT OF THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN CONVENTION DAILY IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

THE WEATHER.

For Boston and vicinity: Partly cloudy tonight; fair Thursday, cooler; fresh northwest to north winds.

HEARST'S
BOSTON AMERICAN
THE TWENTIETH CENTURY NEWSPAPER
AND NEW YORK JOURNAL

NIGHT EDITION

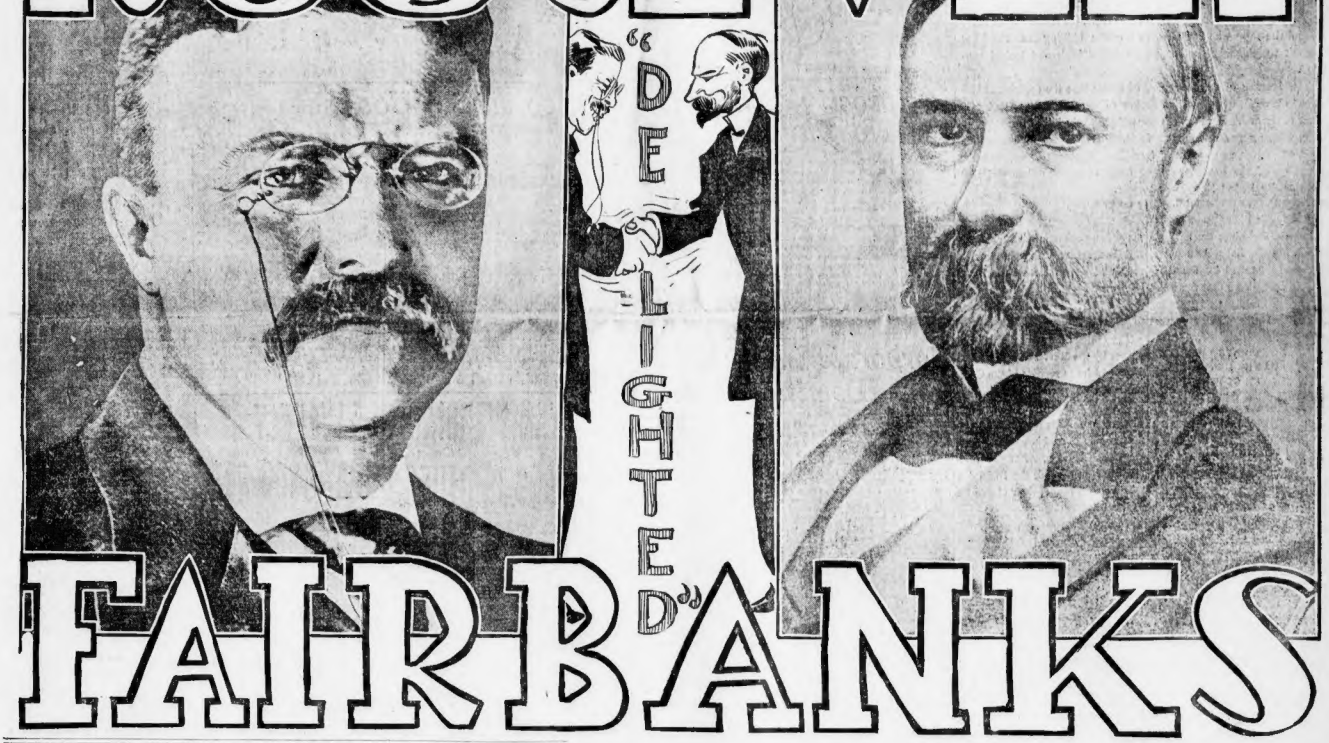
12 PAGES

12 PAGES

VOL. 1—No. 92. WEDNESDAY BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1904.
Copyright, 1904, by the New England Newspaper Publishing Company.
WEDNESDAY PRICE ONE CENT.

HITT WITHDRAWS; TO NAME FAIRBANKS BY ACCLAMATION

ROOSEVELT



FAIRBANKS

RUSSIANS LOSE OVER 5,000 MEN IN BLOODY BATTLE AT HAI-CHENG

St. Petersburg Has Rumor of Two-Days' Battle and Heavy Losses.

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, June 22.—A St. Petersburg dispatch says it is rumored that in a two days' battle at Hai-Cheng the Russians lost 168 officers and 5,000 men.

An earlier dispatch said that the war office had been unable to confirm the reports of heavy fighting at Hai-Cheng, but the general staff had expressed the belief that a big battle had taken place in that vicinity.

1,200 RUSS LOST IN JAP AMBUSH

LONDON, June 22.—A dispatch from New-Chwang, June 21, to the Daily Mail, says that General Kondratovitch, with a force of 8,000 Russians, were ambushed in Wafungko ravine June 19 and routed with a loss of 1,200.

The Russians were evidently marching south to the relief of Stakelberg, when they were surprised by concealed Jap artillery nine miles southeast of Kai-Chow.

Before Kondratovitch could extricate his men the Russians lost heavily, the casualties being placed at 1,200 killed, wounded and captured.

RUSS LOSE 3 SHIPS; 140 MEN

TOKIO, June 22.—The crew of a junk which left Port Arthur a few days ago, and Kondratovitch Ambushed at Vafungko and Loses 1,200 Men.

which was captured by the Japanese, report that two Russian destroyers and the steamer Shih Tai Ping struck mines at the entrance to Port Arthur harbor and were destroyed. One hundred and forty Russians, they say, were killed.

STAKELBERG'S FATE IN DOUBT

LONDON, June 22.—St. Petersburg is anxiously awaiting news of the big battle at Kai-Chou.

That an engagement of unusual proportions has been fought is beyond doubt, as immense numbers of wounded Russians have already arrived at Liao-Yang and Hai-Cheng.

There is great anxiety as to the result of the battle on account of the apprehension at General Stakelberg's fate.

Momentary Spell of Interest When Speaker Cannon Formally Begins the Regular Proceedings of the National Convention---Tariff Plank a Stumbling Block---Revolt at Roosevelt Arrogance May Cost Him the Election----Hitt Withdraws.

(BY BOSTON AMERICAN LEASED WIRE.)

CONVENTION HALL.

CHICAGO, JUNE 22.

THE SECOND DAY'S SESSION OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION WAS CALLED TO ORDER AT NOON TO-DAY BY TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN ELIHU ROOT. AT THAT TIME THE ATTENDANCE WAS NO LARGER THAN YESTERDAY. MANY OF THE DELEGATES WERE LATE IN ARRIVING.

BEFORE THE PROCEEDINGS BEGAN SENATOR CULLOM ANNOUNCED THE WITHDRAWAL OF CONGRESSMAN HITT FROM THE VICE-PRESIDENTIAL RACE. THIS MEANS THAT FAIBANKS WILL BE NOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION.

OF THE VISITORS TO THE CONVENTION, OFFICIAL AND OTHERWISE, A NUMBER ARE IN CHICAGO FOR THE FIRST TIME. THESE HAVE SEIZED ADVANTAGE OF THE PERFUNCTORY CHARACTER OF THE WORK OF THE FIRST TWO DAYS TO TAKE IN THE SIGHTS OF THE CITY. KNOWING THAT EVERYTHING WAS PRE-ARRANGED IN WASHINGTON, AND WOULD TAKE PLACE AS PER SCHEDULE, THEY

Continued on 24 Page 1st Column.

ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEV

FORECAST OF CHIEF PLATFORM PLANKS

(1) Republican tariff legislation, when necessary, on a strictly protection basis. The tariff rates to be reduced—if at all—only on articles in which there is no competition. Commercial reciprocity when it can be had, under a protective tariff, and when it can be had without injury to any industry.

(2) Trust policy to consist of the enforcement of the laws which the President has had put on the statute books for that purpose; no declaration of any hostility to trusts, as such.

(3) The colonial policy of the administration indorsed, from a to z; also the Panama policy; also Alaskan boundary arbitration.

(4) No declaration in favor of a shipping subsidy, per se, but friendliness to the growth of American commerce.

(5) No declaration as to where the party stands on the fight between capital and labor (too full of gunpowder).

(6) Generally in favor of currency that shall meet the needs of business with safety.

(7) The stock resolutions.

(8) President Roosevelt's record as just, wise, etc.

ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEV

ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT

REPUBLICAN POLITICIANS, LED BY NEW YORK, IN REVOLT AGAINST ROOSEVELT'S BOSSISM.

Continued from First Page.

HAVE PUT IN THEIR TIME VISITING THE STOCKYARDS AND OTHER PLACES OF INTEREST.

ENTHUSIASM TO-MORROW, OF COURSE.

TO-MORROW, HOWEVER, WHEN THE NOMINATIONS ARE MADE, IT IS LIKELY THAT THE COLISEUM WILL BE CROWDED. THE NOMINATING SPEECHES AND THE ENTHUSIASM THEY USUALLY EVOKE AFFORD THE EXCITING MOMENTS OF A CONVENTION.

WHILE THERE WILL BE LESS AT THIS CONVENTION, PERHAPS, THAN AT ANY OTHER IN THE HISTORY OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY, THERE WILL BE STILL ENOUGH OF INTEREST TO BRING OUT THE DELEGATES AND ALTERNATES AND THEIR FRIENDS IN FULL FORCE.

TO-DAY, AS YESTERDAY, THE CONVENTION HALL PRESENTED A BRILLIANT SCENEWHEN THE GATHERING HAD ASSEMBLED. IT WAS A PERFECT JUNE DAY. A DELIGHTFUL BREEZE BLEW OVER THE CITY FROM THE LAKE. THE TEMPERATURE WAS ABOUT 75 DEGREES, AND THERE WAS NO SUFFERING FROM HEAT IN THE HALL OR OUT.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN GRACE THE SCENE.

A great many beautiful women were present, in light Summer gowns, and their waving fans added to the color given the scene by the profusion of flowers on the platform and throughout the hall. The flags fluttered continuously in the breeze, the bands played lively airs, and the men who had assembled at the bidding of President Roosevelt to give him the nomination settled back and looked contented.

The feature of the afternoon, of course, was the speech of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the House of Representatives, and permanent chairman. It was a characteristic speech, full of terse Anglo-Saxon, with many facts and few frills. It was an administration speech, of course, as was that of Secretary Root yesterday, but the personality of the speaker aroused more enthusiasm than did that of the coldly logical New York lawyer.

RECIPROCITY STRADDLE.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions, including the national platform of the Republican party, was eagerly awaited by the delegates. It was known that the tariff plank agreed upon declared for "the cardinal principles of protection." The plank also provides:

"THAT THE RATE OF DUTY SHOULD BE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE COST OF PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES AND ABROAD. THE RATE OF DUTY SHOULD BE READJUSTED ONLY WHEN CONDITIONS HAVE SO CHANGED THAT THE PUBLIC INTEREST DEMANDS IT. ALL SUCH CHANGES SHOULD BE MADE BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

Another paragraph in the tariff plank is a declaration for "commercial reciprocity which is possible only under a protective tariff and whenever reciprocity arrangements can be perfected without injury to industry."

The convention was opened with prayer by the Rev. Thomas E. Cox, after which the reports of the Committees on Credentials and Permanent Organization were read. Chairman Cannon was next introduced and began his speech. During the afternoon, after the platform has been read, the State delegations will report their choice for national committeemen.

"UNCLE JOE" HAS HOUR OF TRIUMPH

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION IS SWAYED BY THE SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—"Your Uncle Joe" Cannon had his hour of triumph to-day. The Speaker of the House, who opened the Vice-Presidential nomination, ran the great convention with all the ease and grace of the expert parliamentarian.

The day was flawless, clear sunshine, a fresh breeze from the lake and temperature near seventy-five. The delegates passed most of the morning out of doors, before the hotels on the lake front, where many of the State headquarters are. Senators and Governors lined up along the curb or walked up and down, watching equipages on the drive, or looking at the sails outside the breakwater.

"A Holiday Convention," Remarks Senator Depew

"What a holiday this convention is," remarked Senator Depew to Governor Durbin, of Indiana, and Representative Hull, of Iowa. "I feel quite as though I were at the seashore, with nothing to do except to be idle and look at the water."

"It isn't strenuous," said Mr. Hull, "but always interesting. A national convention seems to me more expressive of the peculiar genius of our people than any other institution. A convention is always unique. For one to be dull is an impossibility."

That scrap of dialogue represents the way most delegates and spectators look upon the convention. It might give the observer a lesser estimation if it were a combat, and yet have more suggestive character.

"It is the kind of gathering I would be willing to exhibit to the diplomatic corps," said Representative Watson, of Indiana, in the corridors parliament, "and I am sorry Sir Mortimer Durand did not follow his intention of attending the convention. He would have seen a thoughtful, cheerful, orderly coming together of every American and colonial type, and in some of the delegates the Ambassador would have seen also line, so to speak, of descent through which that type cannot distinguish between citizens of home and foreign origin."

A band, engaged by the Pennsylvania delegation, gave a concert during the morning. Women visited the headquarters in the hotels with flowers, or called to get autographs of statesmen, or just to see them from a distance. The turmoil of carriages and automobiles was extraordinarily large.

Nobody in a Hurry to Reach Convention Hall

No one was in quite as much of a hurry to go to the Coliseum as on Tuesday,

TO-DAY'S PROGRAM AT THE CONVENTION

Call to order by Temporary Chairman Root.

Prayer by the Rev. Thomas E. Cox.

Reports of the committees on credentials and permanent organization.

Introduction and speech of Permanent Chairman Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois.

Reports of the committees on rules and order of business.

Report of the committee on resolutions, including the platform.

Reports by State delegations of their choices for national committeemen.

the case with which every cardholder got his seat yesterday and the care the assistant sergeants-at-arms took to secure to every one his privileges cause a more leisurely progress toward the hall to-day. Besides that, the doors were opened half an hour later, at 11 o'clock instead of 10:30.

Many delegates walked the mile separating the Coliseum from the hotel district. They found the hall bedecked with flowers were on the rostrum. Sparrows were twittering among the girders overhead. The band in the stand up near the birds played national airs.

MRS. FAIRBANKS TO KEEP HER HUSBAND.

CHICAGO, June 22.—"I think the position of Senator—and of a Senator's wife, too,—is a perfectly delightful one, don't you? It—I mean the position of Senator—is one of dignity, and influence, and social prestige, and all that, and I enjoy Washington life immensely." Mrs. Fairbanks, the wife of the Senator of Indiana, had been asked how she would like to be the wife of a Vice-President.

"You know that whatever the Senator decides to do, I shall know that it is best, and shall help him in every way."

A FEW OF THE PRESIDENT MAKERS AND A FAIRBANKS EPISODE.

ROOSEVELT ROOSEVELT ROOSEVELT
I SEE MY FRIENDS COMING
THE HAWAIIAN DELEGATION ARRIVES
I DON'T CARE TO SAY ANY THING
GOV. PARDEE OF CALIFORNIA BROUGHT HIS BIG BLUE GLASSES IN CASE THE SUN MIGHT BE HOT. KEEP 'EM.
VICE PRESIDENT? YES?
GOOD MORNING SENATOR. ARE YOU A CANDIDATE
NOW ABOUT IT SENATOR
YES? NO?
WOT'S SAI
GOV FRANKLIN MURPHY OF NEW JERSEY
HOW FAIRBANKS STACKS UP WITH A CROWD

Reciprocity Straddle; No Tariff Concessions

CHICAGO, June 22.—The long and animated sessions of the resolutions sub-committee of the Republican National Convention has resulted in what is regarded as a straddle on both protection and reciprocity. The committee declares for the "cardinal principles of protection" and further that the "rate of duty should be the difference between the cost of production in the United States and abroad. The rate of duty should be readjusted only when conditions have so changed that the public interest demands it. All such changes should be made by the Republican party."

This long paragraph was adopted in relation to reciprocity, after an exciting and protracted contest, by a bare majority. Several votes were taken on this subject, and it was reconsidered two or three times before being finally agreed to. It is a declaration for "commercial reciprocity which is possible only under a protective tariff, and whenever reciprocity arrangements can be perfected without injury to any industry."

The opposition to the reciprocity plank was led by Mr. Blythe, of Iowa. Representative Dalzell and Senator Hanna brought Senator Lodge and Senator Forsker persisted in an effort to secure the declaration.

It was urged that reciprocity had been indorsed by previous platforms, and more particularly in the last speech of President McKinley at Buffalo, and had been followed by the present administration in carrying out the policies of the McKinley administration.

More time was spent on this subject than all the remainder of the platform, and the opponents only consented to agree when it appeared that the fight might be taken into the Committee on Resolutions and possibly before the convention.

Roosevelt's Boss-ship Causes a Party Revolt

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—There is a revolt against President Roosevelt's boss-ship of the Republican party, and particularly of the Republican national convention. Echoes of this revolt reach here from all parts of the country. So open has it become, and so sinister are the mutterings, that the President's lieutenants have warned him of the need of suppressing some of the more dissatisfied leaders.

In New York State the dissatisfaction is intense. Governor Odell is the actual Republican boss in the State, notwithstanding apparent deference to Senator Platt. Unless Governor Odell is won from his present attitude of hostility, Republican chances of carrying New York will grow more remote as the time for election draws near.

The dissatisfaction will not affect the action of the convention. President Roosevelt will be nominated to-morrow beyond peradventure. He will be nominated because he holds the strings of party power in his own hands. The men who have gone to conventions in years with wills of their own and courage to express themselves are puppets in his hands. The domination of the entire party situation to-day is Cæsarlike.

Notwithstanding the subserviency of the leaders, the surrender of the money kings of Wall Street and their assurances of financial support, the President's closest friends are apprehensive. His New York supporters, Secretary Root and others, are in a panic. The utter lack of enthusiasm for the candidate yesterday was only too significant. It brought to the minds of every one the recent utterances of a prominent United States Senator:

"Every one is for Roosevelt, but no one wants him."

The longest applause which greeted the name of President Roosevelt yesterday lasted twenty-eight seconds. That is not as long as the applause which greets the posting of a newly earned run by the Boston baseball team on the bulletin boards of the BOSTON AMERICAN office.

With these facts and conditions before them, the Republican leaders have become seriously alarmed. It is no secret that many of the delegates, particularly those from New York, fear that the right kind of a Democrat as President Roosevelt's opponent will be able to carry New York State next Fall.

Corporate Interests Dominate Committee

CHICAGO, June 22.—When Senator Lodge, chairman of the Resolutions Committee, announced the composition of the subcommittee to draft a platform, even old party leaders were amazed at the high-handed manner of riding rough-shod over the party rank and file. Of the thirteen members of this subcommittee, nine are lawyers, one a banker, one a merchant and one a manufacturer. Of the nine who are lawyers, one is a member of the House, two are lawyers employed by great railroad corporations, and the other is a lawyer, it is strange to say, he has no corporation affiliations.

At a national convention the States, through the delegates, are supposed to have something to say in the management of affairs and to have some voice in the proceedings, but at this convention the ordinary delegate has been completely ignored, and between the extraordinary interference of the White House crowd and the control of the senatorial junta a delegate is of as much consequence as the boy who beats the big drum in the band.

With this committee it was not to be expected that the tariff revisionists, or the critics of the administration along this line, would have much consideration.

The report in circulation to-day on the statement of a leading Republican Senator is that a couple of weeks or so ago certain prominent protectionists, who believe that the tariff is a thing too sacred to be touched by profane hands, asked Mr. Roosevelt what would be done about the tariff at Chicago, and were assured that nothing would be said in which they had any form or manner object.

The Republican press of Chicago warns the conventions that if the great tariff reform sentiment of the Northwest is ignored, there will be danger ahead.

ALL OPPOSITION TO CORTELYOU REMOVED

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Secretary Cortelyou of the Department of Commerce and Labor left here yesterday afternoon for Chicago, to attend the meeting of the Republican Convention. He will arrive in Chicago this evening.

Advices received by President Roosevelt and other leaders here from the convention leaders indicate that doubt of Secretary Cortelyou's selection as National chairman has been removed entirely.

Such opposition as existed to Mr. Cortelyou has been dissipated, and the belief in authoritative quarters here is that he will be elected unanimously by the new National Committee as it is unwilling subsequent to the adjournment of the convention.

It is pointed out that much of the opposition that existed to Mr. Cortelyou's selection as national chairman was based on the statements made in various forms, that he was at one time a Democrat, and that he is at heart a free trader.

Mr. Cortelyou was one of the founders of the Young Men's Republican Club of Hempstead, N. Y., says an official high in the Republican party. He was an active member of the Plumed Knights, and did hard and effective service in the Blaine campaign. Upon the advent of the Democratic administration, in 1885, he tendered his resignation and left the Federal service."

GOLD HEADED CANE TO DELEGATE DAVIS

CHICAGO, Ill., June 22.—The Massachusetts delegation surprised Robert C. Davis, of Fall River, the oldest delegate, by presenting him with a gold-headed cane. It is handsome. Massachusetts delegates, Republican National Committeeman Crane, 1904, Hon. Robert T. Davis, 1860-1904, Lincoln-Hamlin.

The presentation speech was made by John D. Long. "It is an honor which few public men of any party have enjoyed in the republican party so long and faithfully," he said. "The Massachusetts delegates feel that in honoring the man who helped nominate Lincoln and who will aid in nominating Roosevelt, they are honoring themselves."

Mr. Davis's response was cheered by the whole delegation. He told of his numerous conventions, from 1860 to the present year, and hoped to be able to come again.

REPORT FAVORS THE SPOONER DELEGATION

CHICAGO, June 22.—The sub-committee of the Committee on Credentials reported to the full committee in favor of the Spooner delegation from Wisconsin.

LYNN WEDDING AND BROTHERS

Joins First of 2 Sisters

Miss Marie Van Derpoele and Michael F. Phelan were married by Monsignor Arthur J. Feeling with a nuptial mass in St. Mary's Chapel at Lynn this morning. The bride wore white satin with chiffon overdress, trimmed with lace. Her veil was rose point lace, a family heirloom. Charles Dyer, of Boston, acted as best man, and Miss Adeline Van Derpoele, the bride's sister and fiancee of the groom's brother, was bridesmaid.

The marriage of the latter couple will take place one week from to-day. The two brothers will then become brothers-in-law by blood to their uncle John Griffin, the brother of their mother and husband of the former Miss Tillie Van Derpoele, the elder sister of the bride.

The late Charles J. Van Derpoele, the father of the Misses Van Derpoele was the inventor of the overhead trolley on which the family still receives royalties.

$5 WEEKLY BY WEST NEWTON INSTRUCTOR TO PAY $100 NOTE

Dispatches from Philadelphia state that Professor Albert C. Robbins, the instructor in the West Newton English and Classical School, who was arrested at his home in West Newton a week ago last Sunday as a fugitive from justice, was arraigned in court in Westchester, Pa., to-day on a charge of defrauding the Malvern National Bank.

He was placed under bonds to pay $5 weekly until a note for $100 and costs shall be cancelled.

Professor Robbins was popular with his pupils and in society in West Newton, and his arrest was a great shock to his friends. The warrant was secured from the Newton authorities by detectives Tate and Gallagher, of the Philadelphia police, and Professor Robbins was handed over to them by Philadelphia without extradition papers.

Subsequently it is said to have proceeded to the officials of the Malvern National Bank that he had certain real estate in Maine and by means of such representations to have obtained money on his note. Later, it was alleged, the bank officials learned that he did not own the property.

168 CLERKS IN P. O. PROMOTED

Postmaster Hibbard to-day received word from Washington that $16,800 had been appropriated by Congress for use by the Boston Post Office in increase of clerk salaries. This represents 168 promotions.

A request for 300 promotions was sent to Washington by the Postmaster. Boston fared much better than other post offices about the country, as less than one-third of the amount appropriated last year was given by Congress this year. Last year there were 1,200 promotions, at $1,200,000, against 4,500 this year, at $450,000.

BOWDOIN SENDS OUT BIG CLASS

BRUNSWICK, Me., June 22.—Today's programme of the Bowdoin College commencement began with the annual meeting of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity in Hubbard Hall. The graduation exercises of the Medical School of Maine included an address by the Rev. Herbert A. Jump. The Hubbard grand stand was dedicated shortly after 11:30 o'clock, with an address of presentation by the donor, General Thomas H. Hubbard, LL.D. Professor Frank N. Whittier, A.M., accepted the gift in behalf of the college.

Exercises commemorative of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Nathaniel Hawthorne were held. The address was by Bliss Perry, L. H. D. This was followed by the presentation by the class of 1878 of a bust of Hawthorne, with an address of presentation by Professor Alfred E. Burton, dean of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and an address in acceptance by Professor F. C. Robinson, LL. D. A reception by Mr. and Mrs. Hyde is arranged for this evening.

UNCLE SAM'S LINOTYPES WILL DISPLACE 500 MEN

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Contracts calling for the delivery to the Government printing office before October 15 of seventy-four typesetting machines, at a cost approximating $255,000, are ready for the signature of representatives of the manufacturers and of the Government.

By the introduction of typesetting machines the 500 extra hand compositors employed during the sessions of Congress will not be needed.

BERLE DECRIES QUOTATIONS

FITCHBURG, June 22.—The eighth commencement at the State Normal School was held to-day. The theses read were as follows: "Imagination in Play," by Wilfred C. Thayer; "Humor in Children," Ellen F. Cronin; "Children's Ideas of Town Officials," Florence C. Lindsay. The graduates are:

Advanced course, sixth class—Mabel A. Chatfield, Chelmsford; Gertrude M. Tompson, Mary L. Dolan, Leominster; Emma Foster, Irene G. Lindsay, Leominster; Florence Sawyer, Irene G. Lindsay, Leominster; Florence Pitchburg; Katherine Bartlett, Leominster; Gertrude A. Wagner, Leominster; Elizabeth A. Sheehan, Annie F. Slattery, J. Florence Slattery, Kinsley M. Tait, Fitchburg; Harriett E. Woolridge, Lunenburg.

The address to the graduates was on "Literature as a Personal Resource," by the Rev. A. E. Berle, D. D., of Boston, who, in the first part of his address decried the "quotation habit" that is used by some as a pretence to literary knowledge. He rather deprecated the learning of too much of quotation by school pupils. It did not tend to a sound literary knowledge, he maintained.

CLIMBS POLE OF FIRE ENGINE AND STOPS RUNAWAY

FALL RIVER, June 22.—Local firemen are discussing with much interest the bardihood of William Mahoney, a Westlake mill weaver, who stopped a pair of frolicsome runaway fire engine horses at imminent peril of his life.

He bolted after a runaway steamer whose crew had been thrown, and succeeded in getting on the render. He then proceeded to make way forward over the driver's seat, having to crawl around the boiler. Even then he was unable to reach the reins, for they had dropped down on the back of one of the horses. Mason, therefore, climbed the pole to get the reins, with which he succeeded, after a desperate struggle, in getting the horses under control.

BABY KILLED BY FALL.

FALL RIVER, June 22.—Nellie Martineau, two years old, fell from a third story window and died in an hour.

WOMAN HURT IN RUNAWAY PANIC

There was a panic on Washington street to-day when a horse driven by James A. Blake, a Watertown business man, plunged and dashed through the crowded thoroughfare near Bennet street.

Mrs. B. M. Underhill, of Everett, was knocked down and trampled upon in the mad rush for safety. She was treated at a neighboring drug store, and later sent to her home in a carriage.

The animal took fright at an engine constructed for work on the Washington street subway.

VERMONT MEN FOR ST. LOUIS

Democratic Convention Assembles to Elect Four Delegates-at-Large.

ONE CONTEST DEVELOPED

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 22.—The Vermont Democratic State Convention has assembled here to select four delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention. It is believed that the Vermont delegation will be sent without instructions. A State ticket will also be nominated.

Two district conventions, to select delegates for St. Louis, were also called to order to-day.

One of the first things which the State Committee did to-day was to seat the contesting delegation from Rutland.

The Rutland caucus instructed its delegates to support Dr. J. D. Hanrahan for national delegate, while the element known as "the regular Democrats," bolted the caucus and elected delegates favorable to Thomas Brown.

A third candidate for the fourth place appeared to-day in the person of E. E. Burke of West Rutland.

Another agreement reached was the practical selection of John D. Senter of Montpelier as Vermont national committeeman. Mr. Senter will succeed Hinsdill. The other candidate for the place was D. D. Smalley of this city.

The delegates-at-large who are regarded as certain of election are Elisha May, of St. Johnsbury; R. A. Ballard, of this city, and C. W. Fleischer, of Barre.

G. D. Tilden, of Bennington, and J. J. Thompson, of St. Albans, are the only candidates mentioned for district delegates from the First district.

In the Second district the delegates have agreed on Oscar Miller, of Newport, for one place, with a contest between Fred Carleton, of Montpelier, and D. T. Donnelly, of the same city, for second place.

It is believed that Eli H. Porter, of Wilmington, and C. L. McMahon, of Stowe, will be nominated for presidential elector.

$165,610 AWARD AGAINST CITY

Charles T. Gallagher, trustee of the will of Charles Burnham, was awarded $165,610.21 for land damages against the city of Boston by a jury in the third session of the Superior Court, before Judge Bishop this morning. More than 100,000 feet of land were involved, which was taken by the city for the Strandway in South Boston.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

DYSPEPSIA EASILY CURED

No trouble to cure dyspepsia when you go at it right. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, being natural digestives, relieve the stomach at once, and by their use regain its strength and health. They are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. Send for booklet telling how. There is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

CITY OF BOSTON.

Commission on Height of Buildings in the City of Boston.

Public hearing will be given, under the provisions of Chapter 335 of the Acts of 1904, respecting the limitation of the height of buildings, under said Act, in the Common Council Chamber, City Hall, on

On June 29th, 1904, relating to the territory bounded as follows, viz.:

The purpose of the hearing is to assist the Commission in establishing the boundaries of the districts referred to in Section 3 of said Act in such a way that the City is to be divided, and wherein the height of buildings is to be limited as provided in Sec. 3 of the Act. This section reads as follows:

Sec. 3. The City of Boston no building shall be erected to a height of more than one hundred and twenty-five feet above the grade of the street in any district designated A, and no building or part thereof shall be erected to a height of more than eighty feet above the grade of the street in any district designated B. These restrictions shall not apply to grain or coal elevators or sugar refineries in any district designated A, nor to steeples, domes, towers or cupolas more ed for strictly ornamental purposes, of limited area, and which do not exceed the above height or less in any district.

NATHAN MATTHEWS, JR.,
JOSEPH A. CONDRY,
HENRY FARNAM,
Commissioners.

BAY STATE WOMEN, AFTER WITNESSING THE PROCEEDINGS, PRONOUNCE

CONVENTION THE CLIMAX OF MISMANAGEMENT

Mrs. George F. Lowell Says the Republican Leaders Might Learn Parliamentary Law from Women's Clubs

Mrs. Effie M. Fales Sees in the Lack of Enthusiasm An Omen Hardly Favorable to Success at the Polls

Headquarters Massachusetts Delegation to Republican Convention.

CHICAGO, June 22.

Two Massachusetts women attended the Republican convention and went away without enthusiasm.

They were Mrs. George F. Lowell, of Boston, State president of the Women's National Republican Association, and Mrs. Effie M. Fales, vice-president of the Dorchester branch of the association.

Mrs. Lowell and Mrs. Fales were among the Republican women who gathered at the Palmer House and received the women who came as delegates—there were two of them in the convention—and the wives of delegates. Their headquarters in one of the handsome parlors of the hotel was thronged during the day with women from all over the country who are affiliated with the national organization.

The women went to the convention and sat together. For some it was the first trip. For others, among them Mrs. Lowell, the affair was nothing new.

Following the convention, the Chicago Women's Club threw open the doors of its clubhouse, on Michigan avenue, and entertained lavishly.

To the BOSTON AMERICAN, Mrs. Lowell gave her impressions of the convention.

By Mrs. George F. Lowell.

You observed that it was not the women who ran that convention. It was the men who did everything that was done. Had women had anything to do with it, the convention would have been run differently.

Frankly I was much disappointed. I had looked for something different. It would seem as though an organization composed of the best men in the country would have been able to arrange details so that there would have been no such awkward mistakes as were made there to-day.

We women sat together. We watched the conduct of affairs closely. To some it was a new experience and when they heard the applause of the delegates they thought it was quite exciting. But to those who had been to other conventions, the crowd in the Coliseum yesterday not only seemed to lack enthusiasm, but also to lack knowledge of parliamentary law that it is supposed should be most exact in such an affair.

Climax of Mismanagement.

Then the cheering for Roosevelt was so untimely. When we heard Mr. Root speaking of Hanna and McKinley we hardly looked for an immediate expression of Roosevelt enthusiasm.

When the picture of Roosevelt was brought in, placed on the platform, where it could be seen by only half of the platform, unveiled before the proper time and then quickly removed, it seemed to us as though the climax of mismanagement had been reached. I tell you we women looked at one another and smiled. Now, if it had been our convention things would not have been done that way. We would have looked after those little details. We would have seen to it that the picture of Roosevelt was brought in at the proper time for an enthusiastic demonstration. We would then have placed it in the centre of the platform, where it could be seen and cheered many times.

Could Learn from Women.

There are things, apparently, which the brilliant parliamentarians among the men of the Republican party can learn from the women. They should attend some of our conventions and see how we do things. It is a matter of regret to us that the convention went off as it did. They did not seem to be the usual amount of enthusiasm. There was nothing done to wake delegates up at the proper moment. Instead of that, they cheered at the wrong time and the cheers lacked that strength, vigor and continued enthusiasm that ought to characterize such an event.

And now let me tell you, as I told the session of the Women's Club, for what we women are organized. We are not organized to lead, but to follow; not to antagonize, but to assist those in the responsible positions of the party. We therefore do not seek office or compensation, but we do feel that we can voluntarily gave that did the women while the Civil War, to do with that same heroic love for home, country and future generations that women are organized to-day to stand side by side with the men to urge and encourage every good movement and with advice and help to do so support and, protect the principles for which our fathers and brothers fought to-day.

The Race for Gain.

There are two grave reasons why American woman should interest herself in politics as well as municipal politics. One is that the influx of foreign immigration is so great, bringing to our shores people who have no love for our flag or republicanism, yet given the power of the ballot in so short a time, while our boys grow into over twenty years without this opportunity to express their choice in government. For another reason, the very fact that our country is so rich, our resources so great that many of our American men have seemed to have lost their ambition and responsibility in the race for gain or having acquired it, have settled down in the pleasure of life and ease they grow indifferent to any duty they can shirk, and there is nothing so demoralizing as idleness. As men and women we rise and sink together. If our men are neglectful they sink; if the canons they have thrown a stumbling block in the path for those who are looked upon as responsible for our country's success.

There are but few women who cannot do something with their influence for the betterment of the conditions of humanity. As Republican women we have not suffered any remarkable success. The time is not ripe for us to take any marked stand. We are simply a bud of promise.

Mrs. Fales Skeptical.

Mrs. Fales was somewhat dissatisfied in what she saw and heard. "It was my first convention, and I expected to see something exciting. The cheering woke me up some, but it was not what I expected. I was told they went wild when the name of their leaders were mentioned and cheered for five minutes. They seem to take it so much for granted that everything will go right that they don't want to do. Now, of course, I do hope that President Roosevelt will be elected again, and he will be as good a President as he has been, but it does seem to me as though it would be some good if they only got a dark horse once in a while. I should like a real contest this just a little and make the party get out and work, and get excited and elect him by a good majority. If only we women could vote we would show them about these things they would be more go to their tribe."

BRYAN SITS IN NEW YORK FOR HIS BUST

NEW YORK, June 22.—William J. Bryan submitted to an hour's sitting before W. W. Mamatt, a young sculptor, of No. 47 Washington square, yesterday, while the finishing touches were put on a life-size bronze bust of him. Mr. Manatt who is only twenty-nine, is a son of a former chancellor of the Nebraska University, a close friend of Mr. Bryan.

FAMOUS REPUBLICANS AT THE CONVENTION.

ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEV ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEV ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT ROOSEVELTROOSEV

(Snapshot Photographs by an AMERICAN Reporter.)

Senator Spooner of Wisconsin, Governor Yates of Illinois, Governor Herrick of Ohio and Charles W. Dick, Senator Hanna's political heir, are very prominent during the proceedings.

ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT ROOSEVELTROOSEVELTROOSEVELT

CANNON CLAIMS FOR REPUBLICANS CREDIT FOR PROSPERITY, AND LAUDS ROOSEVELT

"UNCLE JOE" CANNON IN JOVIAL MOOD.

(Copyright, 1904, by the Philadelphia North American.)

Speaker of the National House, in Assuming the Gavel as Permanent Chairman of the Convention, Reviews the Record of His Party.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, of Illinois, on assuming the gavel as permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention, spoke in praise of the administration of McKinley and Roosevelt, and claimed for the Republican party the credit for national prosperity. He spoke as follows:

SPEAKER CANNON'S SPEECH.

THE Republican Party was born with the declaration that slavery was sectional or local, and that freedom was national. It has ever been a national party, its policies benefiting every section and every man in the Republic. It made its first successful contest for power in 1860, with Abraham Lincoln as its standard-bearer. Secession followed.

The war for the maintenance of the union was waged for four years, and such a contest of arms the world had never seen before, and perhaps never will see again. In the end, slavery was abolished and freedom became universal within the borders of the Republic. With a bankrupt treasury and bankrupt credit, the party, under the lead of Lincoln, went forth to the policy of Washington and wrote upon the statute books the revenue laws imposing duties on imports that would produce revenue, and at the same time protect every citizen of the United States in diversifying the industries of the Republic.

It was a contest for free men and for free labor everywhere within our borders. The policy of protection has been the shibboleth of the Republican party from that day to this. Under this policy, from an insignificant manufacturing country in 1860, by leaps and bounds, while we still remained first in agriculture among the nations of the earth, we have become more than first in manufactures.

America Leads World With Her Manufactures

More than one-third of all the manufactured products of the whole earth is produced by American capital, by American labor, which works shorter hours than any people on earth, and has more steady employment than any people on earth, and on the average receives, conservatively stated, one and three-fourths dollars compensation where similar labor elsewhere receives but one dollar.

Our manufactured product yearly is greater than the manufactured product of the people of Great Britain, Germany and France combined, and this product is substantially consumed by our own people, finding a market within the borders of the Republic. Although our exports of manufactured products is rapidly growing, last year they were over $400,000,000—25 per cent.—of our total exports.

It is not a few men of great wealth that make good markets, but it is the well-paid millions that work to-day and consume to-morrow, with interchange of their respective products among one another, and the prosperity of the farmer, on one hand, and of the operative upon the other, depend on the prosperity of each as producers of their respective products and as consumers of the products of others.

We are one harmonious whole, and if one or more of the great industries is seriously affected those engaged in that line of production cease to be valuable customers for all other productions of the country. If we did not sell one particle of our immense products outside of our own borders, we would still have the best market on the face of the earth.

It has been said, and truly said, that our market amongst ourselves is of greater importance to us than the uncertain markets of all the world, amongst all the peoples of the world; and while our people are seeing to it that our foreign markets shall grow, and we are now the greatest exporting nation on earth—yet it is absolutely necessary that we should see to it that we continue the policy which enables us to dominate our own markets and to continue the present and growing wage to our own people.

I can perhaps best present to you the progress of the country by stating that the wealth per capita of the United States in 1850 was $307, while in 1900 it was $1,235, and by stating further that the total wealth of the United States in 1850 was $16,000,000,000, and in 1900 it was $94,000,000,000 (ninety-four billions), and now over one hundred billions.

Progress as Measured by the U. S. Post Office

But I can give a better illustration of the progress of the country under the leadership of the Republican party by referring to the Post Office Department—that great service that gathers no penny of money except by the voluntary contributions of the people of the Republic. Since 1860 the rates of postage have been practically reduced more than one-half.

In 1860, the year that the Republican party first came into power, the receipts of the Post Office Department were in round numbers $8,500,000, while the expenditures were $10,000,000—a deficit one and one-fourth times as great as the income. The revenues of the city post office of Chicago last year were greater in amount than the total postal revenues of the whole country in the year 1860.

Last year the revenue of the postal service was $134,000,000, and it was only $4,000,000, or less than three per cent, and this, too, notwithstanding the very large growth of rural free delivery, involving an expenditure of $10,000,000. This year the revenues have not been ascertained, but will safely increase by $10,000,000, and in the coming year by another $10,000,000; all of which measures, and truly measures, the commercial, the business, the social and the intellectual prosperity and well-being of the people.

How "Wolves" Would Protect the Poor Sheep

For more than sixty years the Democratic party has denounced protection as robbery, and their cry has sometimes been "A tariff for revenue only," sometimes for "Progressive free trade throughout the world;" but whatever the expression may be, they have always been ready, when clothed with power to run the dagger into the protective policy. And such is still the position of that party.

In the closing days of the late session of Congress Representative Cockran, of New York, preached the pure Democratic faith, and there never was in my recollection such a demonstration as came from the Democratic side of the House, when, with flaming eyes and wild gesticulations and enthusiastic faces, they sprang as one man, with cheer after cheer interrupting the business of the House until they could mark their approval of the policy in which they believed.

It is time that in magazine articles and by careful speech and sentence, here and there, men like Senator Gorman, Representative Williams and others, while denouncing protection as robbery, say that if the Democratic party is clothed with power it will not destroy the system overnight; yet they each and all avow that they will journey to the direction of a tariff for revenue only and of free trade. In other words, if they are given power, the American manufacturer and laborer will be gradually starved to death instead of being destroyed at one stroke.

It reminds me of one of Aesop's fables, where the wolves proposed to the sheep that they should discharge the dogs, their natural protectors, and place themselves under the protection of the wolves. Does capital on the one hand and labor on the other desire such protection?

Says Profits, and Not Deficits, Cause Strikes

But the little politician cries out that strikes abound here and there in the country. Yes, they do, but contrast that fact with the fact, where an adjustment is not made and where arbitration fails, are quarrels between organized labor and organized capital about the division of the profits. As has been well said by another many years ago, there were not many strikes when the currency had full power under Grover Cleveland, because there were no profits to divide.

There are profits to divide now, and with a people who work shorter hours and who are on the average more fully employed, and with a higher wage than was ever paid before in the history of the human race for a similar amount of work, they will not be led into destroying that which renders these things possible because of a local trouble here and there touching a division of the profits.

But it is alleged that great industrial combinations have been formed and overcapitalized, and that they oppress their employees on the one hand and the consumer upon the other. It is true that extraordinary combinations have been formed, and that they have been, in the main, capitalized to their full value, and by the aid of the printer and engraver securities have been issued in many instances to many times the value of the properties combining, is also true.

The Republican party, ever ready to keep pace with the industrial development of our country, has enacted legislation within the Constitution, prohibiting such combinations, and President Roosevelt, our President and your President-to-be, has kept his oath to see to it that the laws are executed. And by the decisions of the highest courts, the Republican legislation has been sustained and the laws are being enforced.

All are equal before the law—the high and the mighty, the meek and the lowly, the capitalist and the laborer, whose capital is his muscle intelligently directed, the rich and the poor—all have the same right and opportunity before the law, and all—all must abide by and obey the law. Our civilization is built upon obedience to the law. "By this sign we conquer."

We enter the coming campaign with the record of the Republican party, under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, feeling that we have made progress, and marked progress, along the line of law and order, contemporary with the development of our material interests.

How Wind and Water Commence to Shrink

In addition to this, and as a further illustration of the condition of the country, let me call your attention to the fact that the people of the United States now have far greater wealth than the people of any other country on earth. Capital is abundant; interest rates are decreasing, and capital seeks investment. And while the law prohibits unlawful combinations, great blocks of competitive private capital have been and are being invested in all the industries of the country. It can be easily foreseen that when a legitimate plant comes into competition with a plant that is capitalized for two or three times its value, the overcapitalized plant will go to the wall. It is an open secret that within the last two years the shrinkage from overcapitalization has been many, many hundreds of millions of dollars.

The prosperity is all there now, as it was two years ago, but the wind and the water and the gas have disappeared, greatly to the advantage of the people of the country. And yet on the average, I say again, our people are better employed, and at a better wage, and have been for the last twelve months, than ever before. And notwithstanding this great shrinkage of fictitious values, the millions of people throughout the country who live in the sweat of their faces, do not know thereof, and are not affected thereby.

The trust buster who is always "busting" the trusts by words, but never by action, would lead the people to believe that all the production of the country is under the direction of unlawful combinations. Behold, how plain a tale shall put that down. The statistics carefully and honestly gathered by the Government show that comparatively little, after all, the great force that regulates production and the price.

If you take all the alleged trust properties engaged in production in the year 1900, they produced 14 per cent., while the independent factories produced 86 per cent—of the factory product of the country. It is impossible to permanently corner capital and muscle and the raw material which nature has produced in such abundance.

But why multiply words? The history of the country from 1865 to 1897, for the four years under Cleveland and Democracy, as compared with what we have to-day, tells the whole story. That of Cleveland was marked with dissension and disaster, not only to his party, but to the people, and that of McKinley and Roosevelt with harmony and prosperity unparalleled.

Blight of Anarchy and Blessing of Patriotism

The last work of a Republican national convention, held at Philadelphia in the year 1900, was overwhelmingly indorsed by the American people, and the remarkable administration of President McKinley was continued; but in an hour of universal peace, when partisan criticism was stilled by the spread of prosperity, the blight of anarchy, imported from another shore, struck down our chief magistrate, and brought the whole world to his door as mourners.

Universal sorrow stopped the pulse of industry, not in fear, but in profound respect for the memory of the man and the President who died breathing "Thy will, not mine, be done"; for in that hour a vile and execrable and unthinkable young man stood beside that deathbed, pleading his life to the policies of his predecessor.

We had confidence in that pledge, and now has it been kept. The new President took up the burden of office with caution, but without fear, for he had the Republican party behind him, and the success of its policies everywhere is evidence. The last three years of the administration have been marked by the same success as those that preceded, and to-day, as in Philadelphia four years ago, there is no division in the Republican councils as to the standard bearer of the Republican party.

The history of civilized government is a record of peaceful administration under established policies, not of new laws or new interpretation. In the old world a new law or a new policy affecting the general welfare of the people is an event of a generation. In this country new laws come more frequently, but those of a general character rarely oftener than once in an administration.

New Tariff Law Given Credit for Prosperity

The McKinley administration was marked by a new tariff law, which restored prosperity; a gold standard act, which gave stability to our currency; the annexation of Hawaii; a short and triumphant war with Spain, which brought freedom to Cuba and placed Porto Rico and the Philippines under our flag. The administration of Roosevelt has brought an end to the cry of "imperialism," with growing civil government in the Philippines and a free and independent government in Cuba; the purchase and authorization of the Panama Canal, the arbitration of the coal strike, and the decision that trusts are amenable to the authority of law.

These are some of the acts of the Republican party under the administration of President Roosevelt, and there is not a responsible American citizen who dares deny that they have, one and all, been for the general good of the whole people, and that they are, one and all, indorsed by the people.

Let us make our nominations in order and appeal to the people of the country for a renewal of power to the Republican party, standing by our policies, ready to legislate where legislation would be productive of more good than evil from the economic standpoint, but refusing to legislate and lose the substance of success in a vain effort to secure the shadow that abideth not, and unfaileth not either the intellectual nor material existence.

PHOTO BY P. P. BURKE

SENATOR CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS, HIS LATEST PHOTOGRAPH.

Posed in Chicago for an AMERICAN Reporter.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS AT CHICAGO

Bay State Men Subdued, With Their Eyes on Lodge

Headquarters Massachusetts Delegation to Republican Convention.
Chicago, June 22.

The Massachusetts delegation tried to wake things up a little in the hotel corridors before the convention, but that was all. Once in the convention they subsided into an observing silence and kept their eyes on Lodge. More than one wished that he might have X-rays in order to see through the right side coat pocket and find out what was in the mysterious platform which is known to be among the papers of Senator Lodge set all through the convention, his name called, and well down in his chair and with his eyes fixed steadily on Elihu Root, while the latter was delivering his address as Chairman of the convention. Then over, Senator Lodge rose from his chair and joined in with the rest of the delegation as it crossed the hall to the New York side and was greeted by cheers for Joe Cannon, Governor Crane remained with the delegation throughout the convention. There was nothing for any New England delegate to do except for the chairman, who handed over a list of officers chosen for the convention. They all sat in their respective sections, talked a little among themselves, listened indolently to the speeches and at the first let up bolted the hall.

Connecticut Enthusiasm.

Connecticut was the only crowd who awoke to any degree of enthusiasm. The delegates provided themselves with good sized flags and waited their opportunity. Once the chance was given up the crowd went on their chairs and cheered lustily. Had there been as much enthusiasm among the rest of the delegates as the men from Connecticut showed, there would have some real wideawakeness in the convention.

The apathy continued throughout the day. Once returned to their hotels all the delegates proceeded to leave again. The majority to the ball game. Trumbull led in the cheering and was very happy, because team on which he cheered had won.

Massachusetts headquarters were deserted throughout the evening. The only interest expressed was in what Lodge and his committee of twelve would do with the platform and the resolutions. A message came from some mysterious underground passage to the delegation headquarters that the platform would be changed during the night. It was provided for in a manner said to have been suggested by H. H. Kohlsaat, of Chicago, who advocated taking a portion of President McKinley's Buffalo address for a tariff plank.

"Sure" as an Attraction.

But the plank interested very few outside of the two leaders, Lodge and Crane. Governor Long, in evening dress, went out for dinner. Colonel Benton wandered away with some friends. The theatres held a goodly portion of the crowd.

Indiana tried to start a demonstration, but could find few people on the second floor outside of visitors. The Indiana people brought along a band and gave a concert in return for what the Bay State had done the night before. To-day it is satisfactorily stated that there will be more doing in the convention, something to stir up enthusiasm, something to make the husky young giants like Senator Dan Lane, James Scott, Walter Trumbull, Major Wood, of Haverhill, who has been a prize man all day, Abe Mitchell and Captain Hamilton, get up and shout. The inactivity is making itself felt, and they are getting tired of seeing Chicago from hired autos.

Talking Senate Presidency.

Bay State politics are being made during the quiet hours of the national proceedings, a sort of "wheels within wheels" of political machinery. There are four Bay State Senators here—Walker of Fitchburg, Kimball of Newburyport, Lane of Boston and Pratt of Plymouth. The presidency of the next State Senate is of interest to all four, and plans hatched at this run-together are expected to mature on Beacon Hill in due season.

* * *

The famous "Bisbee Marching Club," of Cincinnati, came in on its own special, and after one look at the convention hall immediately adjourned to the nearest baseball ground. "We can have some fun here anyhow," said they.

* * *

The Utah delegation is entirely Mormon. The Utah delegates to St. Louis will be all Mormon also—and a solitary Hebrew.

* * *

A flurry was caused in the Committee on Rules and Business when Eastern and Middle Western States objected to Alaska's request for increased representation in the next convention. But the South and far West went for it solid, and the vote in favor of the request was seventy-one to nine.

* * *

Mayor Wood's Straw Hat.

Mayor "Ros" Wood, of Haverhill, is out in a new straw hat to replace the silk tile which was ruined in a pelting by Hebrews.

John L. Hobson, the other Haverhill man in the party, risked himself in no silk hat. It is the only one. If the hot could have been smashed, either, Mr. Hobson is some sixty pounds lighter in weight than Mayor Wood, but no one looking at the austere man of affairs would dream of "something" him, not even for a convention lark.

* * *

The Eagle Leads Alaska.

The convention was startled to see a huge white-necked eagle brought into the hall, mounted on a steel looking staff.

"That's the national bird all right," said one delegate, "but what's the circus pole? And who's that bunch with watch chains made of gold bricks?" It was the Alaskan delegation six men, headed by an Alaskan eagle on an Indian totem pole. Every man had gold nuggets for watch chains. They were heartily cheered as a "red hot" delegation from a cold country.

* * *

Singer Appeals to Fairbanks.

Lotta Faust sang to Senator Fairbanks: "Won't you be my Vice-President, Boy" at the "Wizard of Oz" performance. Fairbanks, in the upper box, shrank back beatily. Wicked cronies had purposely run him into the famous "Sammy" box, at which Miss Faust always sings her pathetic appeal to be loved.

* * *

When Bay State delegates mentioned Senator Fairbanks's name a twenty-five second cheer followed. Governor Van Sant, of Minnesota, mentioned President Roosevelt and there were cheers for only twenty seconds.

* * *

A snapshot of Representative Thompson, of Brighton, and Ike Allen, standing near together, is being saved for Hub campaign purposes next fall.

* * *

The big purple and gold banner of the Boone Market Club of Boston hangs high and plain on the Coliseum's north wall. It says: "American wages for American people. American markets for the American people. Protection for the American homes."

* * *

Hill Resembles George Fred.

Governor Hill, the new National Committeeman from Maine, is being absorbed at first glance for George Fred Williams, till the observer recollects that Williams would probably prefer some other convention.

* * *

It is only a man with the backing of Senator Fairbanks who has the nerve to wear a frock coat and a little round straw hat.

* * *

To-morrow's Program.

To-morrow's program will be as follows: Prayer, Rev. Thaddeus A. Snively; call for nominations; presentation of Roosevelt's name, Frank S. Black, of New York; seconding speeches, Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, and others; nomination of vice president; appointment of committees for notification of candidates.

* * *

"Too Bamed Slow" for Him.

Seth Bullock, First Sheriff of Deadwood, Col., and the famous "friend of the President," says the convention is "too bamed slow." He came looking for a whirlwind session, such as they would have in the Black Hills. He can be seen standing about the hotel corridors, with a "Stand Pat" button and a forlorn look.

* * *

Women Given a Hearing.

The Resolutions Committee listened to a delegation of woman suffragists, who urged that a declaration in favor of woman suffrage should be made. Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch, of Chicago, Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio, Mrs. Clara Parker Wolley and the Rev. Olympia Brown, of Wisconsin, made a plea for the plank.

* * *

The Minnesota delegation lends the casualty list. One of its members was knocked down by a cab in front of the Coliseum and had his leg broken.

* * *

He Didn't Want Any

"I can't find any convention tickets!" complained Representative Sherman, of New York.

"Pshaw!" said William Barnes, Jr., "I can get all the convention tickets I want."

"Bet you five you can't!" shouted the New Yorker.

The money was put up.

"Now let's see you get all the tickets you want," challenged Sherman.

"I don't want any tickets, Billie," sweetly.

"You win," said the stakeholder.

* * *

In the Suabian Delegation.

MEYER—Mike, who do you dlstend to vote for?

MIKE—I don't know yet. I hat not instructed the delegation.

MEYER—Should he know it?

MIKE—He should know it. That's why he was elected.

* * *

Lobby Confidences.

DELIGHTED DELEGATE—Senator Depew, I don't suppose you remember me, but I've met you in New York.

SENATOR DEPEW—Ah, yes; no doubt I've seen a good many times since.

DELIGHTED DELEGATE (whispering)—Senator, who do you think will be nominated for Vice-President?

SENATOR DEPEW (sotto voce)—You will keep this strictly to yourself, will you?

DELIGHTED DELEGATE—Oh, certainly, Senator.

SENATOR DEPEW—Well, from all I can learn it will be either Senator Fairbanks, Chauncey Depew or some third party. Now don't quote me, you know. It wouldn't do. Good day.

GEN. MILES PICKED BY PROHIBITIONISTS

CHICAGO, June 22.—Prohibitionist leaders now say General Nelson A. Miles will be their presidential nominee. Alonzo E. Wilson, chairman of the Executive Committee, says:

"Most all our prominent men have declared General Nelson A. Miles, and I predict his nomination, probably on the first ballot, at Indianapolis next week.

"Samuel P. Jones, of Georgia, or George W. Carroll, of Beaumont, Texas, will be given the second place."

Immense Sacrifice

MEN'S HIGH GRADE GOODS

	Were	Now
Bathing Suits, latest style	$3.00	$2.00
Duck Trousers, extra fine	1.50	.75
Lisle Hose (imported) .75c, 3 for		1.00
White and Fancy Vests, latest patterns	4.50	2.00
Pajamas (latest styles)	2.50	1.00
Negligee Shirts, very swell	2.00	.90
Dress Shirts	3.00	1.25

All Makes Standard Underwear Below Cost.

Somerville Haberdasher
172 TREMONT ST.
OPEN EVENINGS.

FLOWERS
At Very Lowest Prices.
J. NEWMAN & SONS CORP.,
51 TREMONT ST.
We do not solicit orders by runners or Telephone. Our ONLY place of business.

Office Stationery WARD'S
57-63 Franklin St., Boston.

BOSTON IS HOTTEST PLACE IN LAND TO-DAY

City Swelters in Highest Temperature on the Weather-man's Map.

EAST WIND IS ONLY HOPE

THE MERCURY TO-DAY.

12 o'clock	73
1 o'clock	72
2 o'clock	71
3 o'clock	70
4 o'clock	71
5 o'clock	70
6 o'clock	70
7 o'clock	74
8 o'clock	74
9 o'clock	76
10 o'clock	78
11 o'clock	81
12 o'clock	83
1 o'clock	84

DON'TS FOR HOT DAYS.

Don't get excited.
Don't lose your temper.
Don't overexert yourself.
Don't wear heavy clothes.
Don't wear a tight hat.
Don't remain in the sun after your skin becomes cold and clammy.
Don't remain at work after your perspiration ceases and your pulse becomes feeble.
Don't go about with uncovered head.
Don't eat as much as usual.
Don't drink intoxicating beverages.
Don't drink water or anything else while hot.

The hot wave is here. Boston is the hottest place in New England to-day. The weather game opened up 4 degrees ahead of yesterday, and hasn't lost a number since.

Heat prostrations are looked for along with the general humidity and sizzling heat. Preparations were made early in the Boston hospitals to take care of sufferers. The humidity is 84 per cent—about 7 per cent higher than yesterday as breezes seem to be going the other way.

Mugginess and stickiness reigns supreme all over the Hub, and thousands in all vocations are feeling the second genuine swelter of the Summer. Crowds are flocking to the beaches, and even at an early hour shady nooks and cool-appearing swan boats were "making good" on the Public Garden.

Everything points to a ripper," said Weather Forecaster John W. Smith. "Higher temperature, higher humidity, lighter winds and but little relief in sight. To-morrow, however, will probably be cooler. Thunder showers are likely at any hour, but they will afford little comfort. Only in the east wind have we any hope. Still it has been hotter."

Boston's only rival in point of high temperature is Concord, N. H., and the weather bureau can offer no explanation why these two points, one on the coast, one inland, and miles apart, should be so warm, while all around comparative coolness exists.

Way down South, at Key West, where peek-a-boo waists are worn the year 'round, it is a trifle hotter than right here, but that is the only place on the map. Up in Canada in the little town of Edington, the quicksilver is doing the cold storage stunt, with only a registration of 46.

ST. JAMES CHURCH OBSERVES 50 YEARS

VENERABLE ARCHBISHOP GRACES CELEBRATION OF "MOTHER OF BISHOPS."

ARCH-BISHOP - WILLIAMS -

A FORMER PASTOR OF ST. JAMES'S CHURCH.

Photo copyrighted by F. B. Conlin, Boston.

The celebration of the semi-centennial of St. James's Church, on Harrison avenue, "The Mother of Bishops," commenced this morning at 10:30 o'clock with high mass.

The Rt. Rev. Matthew Harkins, D. D., Bishop of Providence, R. I., formerly pastor of the church, was the pontificating prelate. Rev. James O'Brien, rector of St. Catherine's Church, Somerville, who was for several years the curate at St. James's, was deacon, and Rev. John J. Nilan, once curate at the church, but now rector of the Immaculate Conception Church, Amesbury, was sub-deacon. Rev. Denis F. Lee, for ten years curate at St. James's, now rector of St. Agnes's Church, Reading, was master of ceremonies, which opened with a solemn procession of more than 200, including every Boston rector, to the sanctuary.

Archbishop John J. Williams occupied a throne of honor, attended by two deacons. The venerable Archbishop was once pastor of the church, and it was from that church that he was raised to the episcopacy.

Rev. James R. Troy, rector of St. Catherine's, Norwood, who is recognized as one of the greatest orators of the Boston diocese, delivered the sermon. He was born in the old parish, and was an altar boy there for many years.

Following the celebration of the solemn high mass, the visiting priests and prelates were the guests of Rev. William F. McQuaid, rector of the church.

11 FILIPINOS KNOCKED OUT SEEING BOSTON

Giddy Round of Pleasure too Swift and Only 35 Go to Lynn To-day.

WILL TAKE IN NAHANT

The Boston pace has proven too strenuous for the visiting Filipinos. Eleven of the forty-six members of the party are down and out as a result of too much entertainment, and are at the Vendome recuperating, while the rest of the party are seeing the sights of Lynn and other North Shore places.

"Eleven of our party have fallen by the wayside, as it were," said Secretary Ferguson at the Vendome to-day. "The Boston pace is too hot for them. They have been over entertained."

"Is it the weather?" asked the AMERICAN reporter.

"Well, partly, I suppose, but there is considerable warmth in the Philippines, you know. I guess it's the continuous pleasure performance. They are fatigued. What they need is rest, and the eleven who are out of the running are trying to pull themselves together. Why, some of the party can hardly walk. They eat setting, however, and I guess they'll be all right in a few days."

Owing to those on the sick list being unable to go, the party that left the Vendome on trolley cars for Lynn, this morning, numbered only thirty-five. The Lynn City Government Committee was made up of Aldermen Charles N. Barney, Commissioner of Public Works George C. Houghton and City Messenger Charles I. Allen. The Board of Trade was represented by Hon. Josiah C. Bennett and Everett H. Dunbar. From the Shoe Manufacturers' Association were J. Henry Walden and Thomas H. Logan.

At Lynn the visitors will be received by the Mayor, after which they will visit the General Electric Company's works. After a ride about the city in motor cars they will take dinner at the Relay House, Nahant. In the afternoon they will visit shoe factories and a box factory, and at 5:30 they will lunch at the Oxford Club Hall. They expect to return to Boston at 8 o'clock.

Having a "Lovely Time."

T. H. Pardo de Tavera, of the Filipino commissioners, spokesman of the party, after they had breakfasted at the hotel this morning, said:

"We are having a lovely time. We certainly can speak highly of Boston hospitality. Our visit is being enjoyed by every member of the party."

HELD IN $500 FOR OBSCENE LETTERS

Albert E. Wilson, of No. 83 Utica street, to-day was held by United States Commissioner Pinke in $500 bail on a charge of sending obscene letters.

He is bookkeeper for E. Wilson & Co., plate hardware manufacturers, of No. 85 Utica street. His father, senior member of the firm, agreed bail for him.

The letters were received by Mrs. Florence McCarley, No. 30 Sargent street, John Lamb, No. 31 St. James avenue, Somerville, and James T. McGreece, No. 34 Beach street.

We are winding up our last few days here—relieving sweltering humanity with hot weather clothing—at prices that don't actually pay the cost of the material not to speak of the making. Can't help it, we've only got a few more days to clean out this entire stock before we get out—and the matter of cost cuts no figure now.

Blue Serge Suits, Outing Suits, Fancy Vests, Linen Crash Suits, Outing Trousers in flannel, wool crash and linen crash. Thin coats for office, store or street wear, in serges, alpacas and sateens. All have been slashed regardless of cost or actual values.

Same story on Furnishings, Hats and Shoes—everything right through the entire stock has been sacrificed as good goods were never sacrificed before.

Our Washington and Beach St. windows tell you only a small part of the story how we have slashed the prices on Men's and Boys' Suits—Hot weather Clothing, Hats, Furnishings and Shoes.

There's sizes for those "Big Fellows" on some lines of thin coats—as well as on regular suits—Some less than half price now.

McManus & Co.,

670 Washington St., Cor. Beach.

Open evenings during this sale.

All our fixtures for sale.

J.P. Those suffering from weaknesses which sap the pleasures of life should take Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic. It will tell a story of marvelous results. This medicine has been a household word here for years, and can be had by mail in plain package only on receipt of this ad, and $1.

Made by its originators, C. I. Hood Co., proprietors Hood's Sarsaparilla, Lowell, Mass.

"Forewarned is forearmed." A trite and true saying sometimes, but with HUB PUNCH on hand you're forearmed at all times, no warning of the coming of guests need disturb you, with a bowl, some ice, some fruit, you can brew them a punch at a moment's notice, and there's no guess work as to the result, care is taken in the blending of Hub Punch.

Sold By All Licensed Dealers.
C. H. GRAVES & SONS, Proprietors
BOSTON, MASS.

Teeth Extracted
NO PAIN

Dr. Brown, the famous expert in the art of painless extracting, is now in Boston, to remain until July 1st, and will extract teeth painlessly in this office. Dr. Brown has a national reputation for painless extracting. DR. BROWN'S GOLD CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK. DR. BROWN'S NEW AND IMPROVED METHOD. DR. BROWN has two discovered methods which, besides making all extractions painless, instantly relieves neuralgia and any pain in or about the teeth. Many people believe Dr. Brown's marvelous success is owing entirely to his painless methods. DR. BROWN'S PAINLESS METHOD IS THE BEST IN AMERICA. This is fully endorsed by all who have been extracted by him, also by those who witness the operations.

MOODY DENTAL CO
98 Court Street
Open 9 to 8. Sunday 10 to 4. Lady attendant.

PILES
PAT. DEC. 8, 1903. PAT. DEC. 8, 1903.
Willard's Pile Pencil
ANTISEPTIC MEDICATED APPLICATOR, NOT A SUPPOSITORY.
Only scientific cure reaches inflamed parts and gives instant and permanent relief in all rectal troubles and constipation. It heals wherever it reaches and touches everywhere. Results absolutely guaranteed. 50 applications 50c.
For sale by
HOUGHTON & DUTTON
LEWIS & CO., and
All Leading Druggists. Postpaid by mail.
Willard Chemical Co. 9 Carmel Boston.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

Original and Only Genuine.
SAFE. Always reliable. Ladies ask from your druggist CHICHESTER'S ENGLISH for RED and Gold metallic boxes, sealed with blue ribbon. Take no other. Refuse Dangerous Substitutions and Imitations. Buy of your Druggist, or send 4c. in stamps for particulars, Testimonials and Relief for Ladies, in letter, by return mail. 10,000 Testimonials. Sold by all Druggists. Chichester Chemical Co. 2010 Madison Square, PHILA., PA.

NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN 5 Cents Everywhere

Some of the Great Features in the Magazine Section.

A most unusual series of mishaps that have overtaken the guests at a fashionable New York Hotel.

How to go to the races a la mode in the smartest manner by Mrs. Linda Hull Larned, author of "The Hostess of To-Day."

Why there lives an unknown race of people at the South Pole.

The sun bonnet the new vacation craze and how to make one yourself in 20 minutes, by Mrs. Robert Osborn, creator of fashions for the fashionable women of America.

Hushed mysteries of a United States Army Barracks.

Actresses who play Men's parts so well that it is suggested we can get along without men on the stage.

Anti-toxin made from the "stingers" of bees to cure your rheumatism and heart stimulants from rattlesnakes and cobras.

Love, heroism and murder in a remarkable romance at the St. Louis World's Fair.

How the training of nerves and muscles aids feeble brains.

Puzzles and cut-outs for the children.

INSPECTOR OF SLOCUM MUM TO CORONER

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—More startling exposures have been made at the inquest held by Coroner Berry into the deaths of the victims of the Slocum disaster. Henry Landberg, the United States steamboat inspector, who last reported the boat in proper condition, refused to answer any questions by the Coroner on the ground that it might incriminate him. He was committed to the House of Detention as a witness by Assistant District Attorney Garvan, but released on $500 bail.

Each Swell Raises Bodies.

Steadily the East River gives up its dead. On each rising tide, with each swell from steamboats, body after body rises from the mud holes.

Since 8 a. m. to-day twenty-five bodies have been taken out, thirteen having been found in a little cove near North Brothers Island.

One hundred and seventeen more bodies of Slocum victims were recovered yesterday and this morning. This makes the total number of bodies recovered 847. Ninety-two of these were identified, making 725 identified.

The search for bodies is continuing with unabated vigor. All through the night police boats patrolled the river. Shots were fired across the water from two guns of the second battery, and dynamite was exploded under the water, bringing many bodies up.

The work of recovering the bodies grows more and more gruesome and loathesome. To-day it was well nigh unendurable. Some of the searchers have fallen sick at their tasks, and have been carried away. Others have refused to do any more work.

16 Bodies Rose at Once.

Launches and other boats followed the float carrying the guns, and at times the entire fleet was unable to take care of the bodies as fast as they appeared. After several shots had been fired near the wreck sixteen bodies rose almost together. They had been lying in a deep hole.

The bodies of two women were chopped from the paddle box of the Slocum and the hulk was raised to the surface and towed to City Island.

In memory of the victims the entire City Hall was draped to-day.

Contributions to the relief fund aggregate about $85,000.

Melville Blames S. S. Lines.

Rear Admiral George W. Melville, speaking in Philadelphia, says the steamship men killed reform in the inspection laws, and the United States inspectors are unreliable and irresponsible.

Four years ago he made a strong movement for reform. A special committee was appointed by Congress, but, says he, "the entire mercantile marine interests rose up and killed the bill. They thought it cheaper, apparently, to stand the losses of life and property than make the changes that would be required. The department to-day has an insufficient number of reliable, responsible inspectors."

BOSTON CHORUS JOBS PROVE TO BE MYTHS

Chorus girls in the local theatres are wondering where in Boston the good jobs are located that Frank Cheney, of Chicago, promised to secure for young Chicago women. He has been arrested on complaint of two of his patrons, charged with obtaining money on false pretenses.

SUED FOR $10,000; BUT DEFENDANT CO. WINS

Adolph Kettner says that during a strike in 1902 the Waldberg Brewing Company promised him permanent employment if he would work for the concern. After the strike Kettner says that he was discharged. He brought suit for $10,000. Chief Justice Mason of the Superior Court found for the company.

BIG SLOOP BLOWN UP; SEVERAL LIVES LOST

PROBABLY LOADED WITH GASOLENE, EXPLODES IN NEW YORK HARBOR.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—With a roar and a great flash of flame, a large sloop was blown to fragments in the bay opposite the Thirty-fifth street pier, South Brooklyn, to-day.

Several lives were lost, but just how many is not known.

Pieces of blood-stained clothing and bits of wreckage floating on the water were all that was found by the searchers who hurried to the scene of the explosion.

It is believed the vessel was blown up by an explosion of gasolene and all on board undoubtedly perished.

Searching parties were organized and the bay explored, but no bodies have been found as yet. Police from the East Hampton station searching in boats found parts of a gasolene tank.

There was nothing to indicate the identity of the boat. It was thought it might have been a sloop yacht and that crew and guests lost their lives. The police do not think, as some persons suggested, that the vessel was a sloop laden with gasolene and that the cargo in some manner caught fire and blew up.

The explosion occurred when the vessel was about half a mile from shore and coming up the bay. The concussion was felt on shore, and Hans Johnson, a sailor on a small yacht anchored near shore, was blown overboard. Johnson was found struggling for his life in the water by a police boat and rescued.

A police boat has been sent to find the bodies.

WOMAN WITH DIAMONDS FOUND DEAD IN MUD

CHESTER, Pa., June 22.—The body of a well dressed but unidentified woman has been found on the mud swamps near Eyington. She had been dead several days. Three diamond rings upon her fingers and the quality of her clothing seem to indicate that the woman was in comfortable circumstances.

Kodaks and Films

Add Wonderfully to the Pleasure of an Outing.

All sizes of Film and Paper always in stock—Fresh.

ANDREW J. LLOYD & CO.

2 Stores { Down Town, 315 Washington St. / Back Bay, 310 Boylston St.

FREE WITH NEXT SUNDAY'S FREE

BOSTON AMERICAN

THE

Katzenjammers' Ferris Wheel

A Cut-Out Toy for the Children

Everybody, young and old, should know the funny Katzenjammer Kids. Their antics have amused millions of people. See them in

NEXT SUNDAY'S

BOSTON AMERICAN

Order in Time from Your Newsdealer.

MRS. UHRIG SHED TEARS IN COURT

Broke Down When Testimony of Florence Chisholm Could Not Be Shaken.

TESTIMONY WAS STARTLING

Sensational testimony was given in the Uhrig divorce case this morning by Florence Chisholm, who was called as a witness by the defendant, Mrs. Uhrig, to support the charges made by her in her answer to the libel.

Miss Chisholm did not appear to help Mrs. Uhrig's case much; on the contrary, most of her testimony was favorable to Mr. Uhrig, in whose restaurant she was employed as a waitress.

She answered in the negative all questions tending to show that her relations with Mr. Uhrig had not been proper, and denied Mrs. Uhrig's testimony that she had at one time given the witness an envelope containing money from Mr. Uhrig.

Mrs. Uhrig Weeps.

During the latter part of Miss Chisholm's direct testimony, Mrs. Uhrig broke down and wept, and, when the cross-examination was called, left the courtroom.

Cross-examination by Attorney McClennan, for Mr. Uhrig, brought out an account of an alleged visit that Mrs. Uhrig and Minnie Lawrence made to the house, No. 238 Worcester square, when Miss Chisholm lived there. Witness said that Mrs. Uhrig asked her to help her get in by her self. When witness asked how she could do so, Minnie Lawrence said, "Why, I telephoned you once and took a message to you another time."

Witness said that she told Miss Lawrence she did not think that Mrs. Uhrig told her that if she would aid her, she would see that she got out of town, so that she would have to appear in court. Mrs. Uhrig also said, testified the witness, that after she would testify witness was provided for.

"I told her," said Miss Chisholm, "that I could not help her, and then she began to cry and exclaimed, 'Oh, do help me. I'm crushed.'"

Mrs. Uhrig then repeated her offer to provide for the witness, but was told that the witness could be of no assistance, as there had been nothing wrong in her relations with Mr. Uhrig.

Money for Miss Chisholm.

Mrs. William Ryan and Mrs. Marr Tetreault contradicted the preceding points in Florence Chisholm's testimony. Mrs. Ryan testified that four years ago, when Florence Chisholm's condition was obviously delicate, the latter told her that Mr. Uhrig was responsible for it, that he had given her $25, and was going to give her $100 more.

"I asked her if Mr. Uhrig was married, and she said he was," continued Mrs. Ryan. "Mrs. Uhrig did not ask me about this; I told her of my own free will."

Mrs. Marr Tetreault testified that while she lodged in the home with Florence Chisholm at No. 6 Union Park she latter was sick, and both a physician and a nurse were sent for to attend her. She told witness she went to Mr. Uhrig's office and got some money from him. Witness left his letter to Mr. Uhrig for her.

"At her request I went to Mr. Uhrig's restaurant and told him she could not come to work because she was sick. She told me he did not make any difference; that she would get her pay whether she worked or not."

Dr. Draper "Dilapidated."

Miss Catherine Hutchison, an actress, formerly with "The Show Girl," told of seeing Dr. Draper with Mrs. Uhrig the morning after the trouble with Mr. Uhrig at Newcastle. "He seemed in a rather dilapidated condition," she told the Court. "Mrs. Uhrig asked him how he was feeling, and he replied all right."

MASS. ELEC. UP NEARLY TO 20

Massachusetts Electric common was pushed up nearly to 20, a gain of 1½, at noon in State street. A large volume of business was transacted in the "coppers," with Utah in the lead. Copper Range, Mohawk and Bingham were active.

American Telephone was bought around 130¼. United Fruit faintly rallied to 105. Steel preferred and Sugar common were in demand by New York. Sugar common going to 128½.

BOSTON STOCKS.

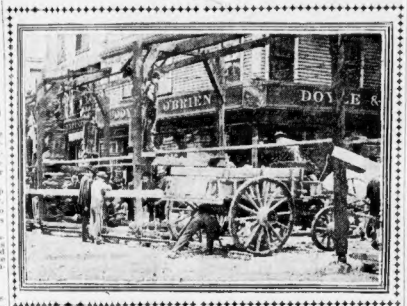
TELEPHONE.	Opening	1.30 p.m.
American Telephone	130¼	130¼
New England	127
MISCELLANEOUS.
Am. Ag. Ch. preferred	73½
American Sugar	128	128½
American Sugar preferred	128	128
American Woollen preferred	78	78½
Dominion Iron	30
Edison Electric Illum.	234¾	235
General Electric	232	232
Georgia Electric	78	78½
Georgia Electric pref.	97½	98
Mass. Electric	19¾	19¾
Mass. Electric pref.	71¾	71¾
Mass. Gas	94½	95
Main Gas pref.	90	90
Pullman Palace Car	210	211
Shoe Machinery	34½	34¾
Shoe Machinery pref.	99½	100¼
Swift	100	100¼
United Fruit	104¾	105
United States Steel	35¼	35¾
United States steel pref.	95¾	95¾
RAILROADS.
Atchison	72¾	72¾
Atchison preferred	95	95½
Boston & Albany	242	242
Chicago Junction	19	19
Chicago Junction preferred	117¾
Mexican Central	16	16
N. Y., N. H. & H.	180¾	180¾
Old Colony	208	208
Union Pacific pref.	97¾
West End common	90½	90½
West End pref.	100
MINING.
Amalgamated	70¼	70¾
Arcadian	8½	8½
Bingham	21¾	21¾
Centennial	20	20¾
Copper Range	70¾	71
Daly-West	24	24
Franklin	7¾	7¾
Mohawk	41¾	41¾
Montana	2	2
Parrot Silver & Copper	28¾	28¾
Santa Fe	3	3
Shannon	5¾	5¾
Trinity	15¾	15¾
United States Oil	10	10
Utah	47¾	47¾
Winona	7¾	7¾
Wolverine	70	70
U. S. Mining	24	24
BONDS.
Atchison & Top. 4s	101¼	101¾
Atchison adj. 4s	94¾	94¾
R. G. 4s	94½	94½

INJURED IN RAILWAY WRECK, SHE WILL DIE

PLYMOUTH, N. H., June 22.—It was decided this morning that the injuries of Mrs. Mary Walbridge, one of the victims of the accident on the Pemigewasset Valley Railroad last Monday morning, would prove fatal, and her death is momentarily expected. Four ribs and breast bone were broken, and there are internal injuries.

WORK IS STARTED ON NEW SUBWAY

FIRST SPADEFUL OF EARTH WAS TURNED IN WASHINGTON STREET TO-DAY.



START OF WORK ON SUBWAY.

(Photograph by BOSTON AMERICAN Staff Photographer.)

The first spadeful of earth in the construction of the Washington street subway, which involves the reconstruction of part of Boston's sewerage system, was turned today in Washington street, near Harvard street.

An earth transit machine was erected at that point, and soon the paving stones were removed there. work was on rapidly. The main sewer will be removed from the tract, middle of Washington street, and the gas and water pipes will also be taken up, so that nothing will be left in the path of the new subway.

Patrick McGovern, who holds the contract for reconstructing the sewer system on Bennett, Washington and Harvard streets, says that his work will be pushed as rapidly as possible. Mr. McGovern is directing the work in person, and expects to have his part completed before September 1, the time limit named in his contract.

POLICE SAY HE HAS THREE LIVING WIVES

BIGAMY CHARGE BROUGHT AGAINST MALDEN PAINTER BY WIFE NO. 1.

Richard J. Rutledge, of No. 7 Pembroke street, Boston, was arrested to-day in Malden, on a warrant charging him with bigamy, sworn out by his first wife, Ann Jane Rutledge, who lives in Connecticut. According to the complaint, Rutledge left his wife and married Miss Margaret G. McCafferty, formerly of Malden, with whom he has lived in Pembroke street.

Mrs. Rutledge No. 1 learned of her husband's presence in Malden by playing a part of a detective and finally located him. A warrant was issued and was served by Inspector Greenleaf, of the Malden police.

The police say that Rutledge has two other wives living, but they will not give any particulars. Rutledge is a painter.

CRUEL FATHER IS FINED $25

Because his two little daughters, Rosa, aged fourteen, and Minnie, aged twelve, would not go to work and support him, Morris Goldstein, of No. 42 William street, Chelsea, cruelly beat them both and was fined $25 in the Chelsea Court this morning.

He brought them over from Russia, the police say, on purpose to put them to work. They are children of his first wife. He has two more by a wife he married in this country.

Minnie, the younger, first refused to work for him and he attacked her. The elder girl then tried to aid her sister, and she was beaten. They will be taken from him.

4000 PUPILS TO BE GRADUATED

Twenty-four of the public grammar schools had their graduating exercises to-day. About 4,000 pupils will be graduated from the grammar schools of Boston this week, 125 from the Normal School, sixty from the Boys' Latin, thirty-five from the Girls' Latin and 1,500 from other schools.

With the exceptions of the Phillips School exercises that take place at 2 p. m. to-morrow and the Wells School exercises at 2 p. m. Friday, all the schools will give their class day programmes in their school halls. In the cases of the exceptions the exercises will be held in the Bowdoin School.

EXPRESS WRECK FOILED BY LUCK

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—That a dastardly attempt was made to wreck the Pittsfield express on the New Haven road May 28 last is calmly made public to-day through the arrest of a notorious crook.

An engine pushed the express half an hour on open heavy chains and logs placed on the track.

The spikes meant to loot the train, and four of the gang were hiding near by. They escaped.

No clue as obtained until to-day, when Michael J. Sullivan, a noted forger and ex-convict, was arrested. Sullivan forged his own parole while in prison at Nashville.

BRAIN JAR FOR AUTO VICTIMS

As a result of the accident in which the automobile of Dr. Franklin S. Newell was overturned last night at Longwood, Dr. Newell and Henry Sweet are in the City Hospital to-day with badly lacerated heads. The doctors fear concussion of the brain.

Dr. Richard P. O'Neill, a son of Rear Admiral O'Neill, of the United States Navy, and Richard Borden, of Fall River, who were also in the auto at the time of the accident, are at their homes nursing severe bruises.

Dr. Newell is an instructor at the Harvard Medical School. The accident to his machine occurred on Brookline avenue, between Audubon road and Bellevue street. The lever of the auto became unmanageable and the machine ran away, overturning and throwing its occupants to the street with great violence. The machine was wrecked.

BOSTON DOCTOR WARNS BATHERS

The sudden death of Mrs. Leontine Marbell, at the L street bathhouse, which was directly due to heart disease, superinduced by the shock of the cool waters, has caused Dr. George W. Galvin, surgeon at the Emergency Hospital, to issue a warning to bathers. Dr. Galvin said:

"I wish the BOSTON AMERICAN would warn the people against bathing while they are overheated. The sudden rush in or diving thousands to the water, and they experience the greatest danger when they go in. The sudden contact of the overheated body with the cold water produces, in many instances, paralysis of the solar plexus, and this causes the heart and lungs to cease their functions.

"Not one person in a thousand ever died in the water with 'cramps,' although that was the cause to which their deaths have been ascribed. The 'cramps' theory is a false one. Visitors to the shore should sit and cool themselves thoroughly before entering the water."

SARATOGA FOR MAYOR COLLINS.

Mayor Collins and President W. T. A. Fitzgerald, of the Democratic City Committee, will leave Boston for Saratoga Monday.

MAN FINED $25; GIRL GONE YET

John F. Fitzgerald, who disappeared after a quarrel with Grace K. Blackman, seventeen years old, of No. 2 Harold place, Cambridge, some time ago, was arraigned to-day in the Somerville Court. He pleaded guilty to making a false application for a marriage license and was fined $25 by Judge Wentworth. He paid the fine and was released.

Fitzgerald applied to City Clerk Vincent, in Somerville, for a license, giving his age as twenty-one and that of the girl as eighteen, and his residence as No. 10 Wyatt street, Somerville, when he lived at No. 4 Douglas street, Cambridge.

Miss Blackman and Fitzgerald disappeared in the middle of May. No trace of the girl has been found.

Fitzgerald's mother said to-day at her home to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter that she knows the whereabouts of Miss Blackman.

"My son and Miss Blackman will be married in good time, in spite of the girl's parents and the police," she said.

BOSTON JEHU'S STORY ONE BAR TO HER DIVORCE

New York Judge Thought Crego's Story of Mollenhauer Remarkable.

INTIMACY WAS TOO SUDDEN

Mrs. Winifred Mollenhauer, wife of Frederick H. Mollenhauer, a former Boston broker, was refused a divorce in New York, largely because of no testimony given by Charles H. Crego, formerly a hack driver in Boston. Justice Kelly characterized his story as "remarkable."

Crego's testimony was that, while driving a hack in Boston, he was introduced to Mollenhauer by Fred Baldwin. He drove Baldwin and Mollenhauer to a house on Washington street, where the three had drinks. Later he went to the room occupied by Mollenhauer. Mollenhauer told him to come in. There was a woman there, the witness said, and she was not Mrs. Mollenhauer.

Crego also declared that, on the representation of Baldwin, he loaned Mollenhauer $100, and that it had not been paid.

"A Remarkable Story."

Justice Kelly, after hearing Crego's testimony, said:

"I think this is a remarkable story. This hackman, Charles H. Crego, meets the defendant in Brooklyn square, Boston, at 2 a. m., on March 3, and one month later, on April 3, the defendant's wife, in Brooklyn, is induced by an absolute stranger to ask if impresses me that there is something back of this.

"I do not quite understand this hackman becoming so intimate with the defendant in the course of one night's debauch and loaning him $100. Hackmen, I think, are not do such things in New York. Of course, I don't know about Boston. I will not grant judgment for the plaintiff on the testimony of the witness, Crego, the hackman."

Mother Corroborates Tale.

Mrs. Annie Crego, mother of Charles H. Crego, who lives at No. 795 Tremont street, corroborated her son's story as regards to the money.

"I can't help what the Judge said about Charlie lending Mollenhauer that money," she said. "It's true, every word of it. Charlie told me about it, and he went to New York expressly to recover the $100.

"It is ridiculous for any one to say he did not lend Mollenhauer the money. Why, it seems as if anyone will lend money to that man. Charlie told me that he was going to New York to get his money and he would not come back until he did get it."

Knew Nothing of Divorce.

"I did not know that he was to testify in this case, but if it will help him to get his money back I am glad of it. I told him, when he told me about lending the money, that he was foolish, but he said it was all right, and that Baldwin said that Mollenhauer was good for it.

"Mollenhauer is in business in New York at present, and to be living there with his wife. He has a large acquaintance in Boston, as has Mollenhauer, who formerly had offices on Kilby street, and was private secretary to Major Byrne, of the Cuban Land and Steamship Company.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

RAILROADS.	Opening.	1.30 p.m.
Atchison	95¾	95¾
Atchison pref.	95¾	95¾
Baltimore & Ohio	107¾	107¾
Brooklyn Transit	69	68¾
Canadian Pacific	170	170
Chesapeake & Ohio	45¾	45¾
Chicago Great Western	14¾	14¾
Colorado Southern	24	24
Delaware & Hudson	156	156
Erie	34¾	34¾
Louisville & Nashville	117¾	117¾
Manhattan	141¾	141¾
Metropolitan	107	107
Mexican Central	16¾	16¾
Missouri Pacific	97¾	97¾
New York Central	116	116
New York & Western	26¾	26¾
Northwestern	170½	170¾
Ontario & Western	34¾	34¾
Reading	47¾	47¾
Rock Island	26¾	26¾
Southern Pacific	41¾	41¾
Southern Railway	21¾	21¾
St. Paul	161¾	161¾
Twin City	97¾	97¾
Union Pacific	87¾	87¾
Wabash	16¾	16¾
Wabash preferred	30¾	30¾
INDUSTRIALS.
Amalgamated Copper	70¾	70¾
American Ice	8¾	8¾
American Ice pref.	83¾	83¾
American Smelting	83¾	83¾
American Smelting pref.	103¾	103¾
American Sugar	128¾
Consolidated Gas	197	197
Colorado Fuel & Iron	39	39
Consolidated Gas	194¾	195¾
Pressed Steel Car	37	37¾
U. S. Leather	7¾	7¾
U. S. Rubber	35¾	35¾
United States Steel	35¼	35¾
United States Steel preferred	95¾	95¾

UNION TRUST ABSORBS WEYBOSSET NATIONAL

PROVIDENCE, June 22.—The Weybosset National Bank, of Providence, with a capital stock of $300,000, a surplus of $100,000, loans and discounts of $435,287 and deposits amounting to $385,367.17, has been absorbed by the Union Trust Company. Charles H. Humphrey, a director of the bank, has been elected to the directorate of the trust company.

SICK HEADACHE
CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.
Positively cured by these Little Pills.
They also relieve Distress from Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Too Hearty Eating. A perfect remedy for Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, TORPID LIVER. They regulate the Bowels. Purely Vegetable.
Price 25 Cents.
CARTER MEDICINE CO., NEW YORK.
Small Pill. Small Dose. Small Price.

OAK GROVE CREAMERY CO.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in FINE DAIRY PRODUCTS.
Pure Milk and Cream Delivered in Glass Jars
Specialties in milk and cream, fresh churned butter, fresh laid eggs, domestic and imported cheese, ice cream and ices of all flavors, and fancy fruit ices.
Ladies' and Gentlemen's Big and Odd Luncheon
435, 439 and 445 Boylston St.
BOSTON, MASS.
BRANCHES
711 and 1310 Massachusetts Av., Cambridge

POET 10¢ CIGAR
NOTHING BETTER

NEWS BY WIRE BRIEFLY TOLD

The Dominion Coal Company of Nova Scotia has decided to pay the usual dividend this quarter despite a poor season.

Two young Princes of the Bavarian royal house have arrived in New York for a tour of this country.

Donald G. Mitchell, known to letters as "Ik Marvel," has been given a setting-up by the American park superintendents in convention at New Haven.

John Gilbert Meigs, a New England banker famous for railroad building in South America, has died at his home in London.

The Czar attended the funeral of the assassinated General Bobrikoff in St. Petersburg.

Ernest Payne and Miss Mabel Bonacker, both well-known at Niagara Falls, were drowned while out for a boat ride.

Jesse Williams, who said he was offered $1,000 to cut the levee on Red River, was shot by a levee guard, and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide.

James F. Wallace has sailed for Panama, where as chief engineer he will have charge of the canal building.

The Standard Oil Company's appeal from an assessment of $800,000 on its property at Communipaw, N. J., has been overruled by the State Board of Assessors.

The New York Stock Exchange has been formally presented with a large Russian vase as a gift from the Czar.

The Maine Historical Society has held its annual election, choosing James P. Baxter, of Portland, as president.

Masked highwaymen held up an electric car in Baltimore, shot the conductor and robbed the passengers.

The Rock Island road has made another sale of $7,500,000 four and a half per cent three-year gold notes as a part of its new financing plan.

William H. Moody, aged eighty years, inventor, and cousin of the Secretary of the Navy, is penniless in Minneapolis. He was once worth $1,000,000.

F. B. Loomis, Assistant Secretary of State, who was retired that his brother, Cyril Loomis, but disappeared from the Kaiser Wilhelm II, en route to Europe, is believed that Kerl is safe, as he has heard from persons that he left the vessel at Plymouth.

The multi-millionaire, Joseph R. De La War, will sell the $1,000,000 mansion at Thirty-seventh street and Madison avenue which he has never seen.

Six lunatics escaped from the Morris Plains (N. Y.) Asylum, imagining themselves to be Russians, and after battling with pursuing officials for an hour they capitulated.

At the trial of Frank Monaco, a Chicago druggist, who eloped at Indianapolis, it was brought out that he bought his wife for $50 from James Eggezart.

Firebugs at Holyoke cut telephone wires and started a blaze in the Holyoke Lee Company plant, which did $25,000 damage.

Evidence that L. S. Baker, legally dead for six years, is still alive, is brought out in a threatened suit for $5,000,000 against Thomas C. Platt, of New York, growing out of lumber deals.

Tremont Nail Company, of Pittsburg, gets judgment for $37,588 in suit which has been in litigation for twenty-two years.

W. H. Laidley, of the alleged bankrupt firm of W. H. Laidley, of Chicago, admits he cannot tell within $50,000 how much money he lost in poker.

Accused by a girl, Miss Isabella V. Shatter, of Milford, of being the father of her baby, the Rev. Charles S. Bullock of the Neighborhood Church of Stratford is defendant in a civil suit.

Daniel J. Sully, at a creditors' meeting, refused to give up to the trustees the keys of the house he gave his wife last Christmas.

Aground and full of water, the four-master Major Pickands, of Portland, lies off Gay Head, a victim of a fog.

The bug that kills elm beetles has been discovered by City Forester Gale, of Springfield, eating its enemy's larvae and eggs greedily.

Nashua will investigate a $50,000 legacy by Daniel Hussey for a library available on the death a month ago of Mrs. Hussey in Louisville, but of which nothing has been heard.

The steamship Kanagawa Maru of the Nippon Yusen Kaishan, the Japanese government subsidized line, has arrived at Seattle from Yokohama. Ships of this line were withdrawn at the outbreakof the war to avoid capture.

Lawrence Phipps, of Pittsburg, has refused his wife's demand for $3,500,000 and custody of the children half of each year, and will face the charges she swears to make public.

RUSSET OXFORDS.

Right now, when there is an absolute dearth of Russet shoes among other manufacturers, we are supplying every one of our 77 Regal stores with unquestionably the finest line of stylish, seasonable Russets ever offered—a line that is complete not only in number of styles, but in fittings as well.

15 new styles in Russet Oxfords; 50 new styles in other leathers. All sizes and widths

Step into any shoe store other than a Regal and it wont take you long to discover that we have positively the only complete line of Russet Oxfords in the country. Price $3.50 as always.

REGAL
THE SHOE THAT PROVES
There are 72 Regal stores, 28 of them in Greater New York, where the styles originate. The new styles are on sale at our Boston stores at the same time as in the New York stores.
BOSTON
MEN'S STORES
113 Summer Street, Cor. Bedford Street
248 Washington Street, Globe Annex
71 Devonshire Street
77 Mason St., or 169 Tremont St.
WOMEN'S STORES
109 Summer Street
169 Tremont Street

BUSINESS NOTICE.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

NEXT SUNDAY'S
BOSTON AMERICAN
WILL CONTAIN A
25 CENT TICKET WHICH WILL BE GIVEN FREE
FOR THE GREAT SCENIC AND ELECTRIC REPRESENTATION
—OF—
The Johnstown Flood
at Revere Beach
CUT OUT THE TICKET AND SEE THE SHOW FOR NOTHING
The Johnstown Flood appeals to all, young and old, and should be seen by every reader of the Boston American
PERFORMANCES NOW GOING ON Regular Admission Price 25 Cents

I WILL STOP NOISE NIGHT OF 3RD--EMMONS

Order Is to Be Preserved if He Has to Call Out Every Policeman,

SUNDAY MAY AID HIM

"I will preserve order the night before the Fourth if I have to call out the entire police force."

"There hasn't been any discord in the Police Board because I reprimanded Captain Wyman," he continued in the BOSTON AMERICAN reporter. "The board is unanimous in the opinion that the police did not take proper measures to stop the racket in Charlestown the night before the Seventeenth."

Judge Emmons was very emphatic when he made this statement, and he also said:

"Captain Wyman's report in no way changes the situation. The matter is of such importance that nothing will be done until the full board meets."

Curtis is in Canada.

The full board cannot meet at once because Commissioner Curtis is in Canada. He is expected home in about a week.

"Owing to the fact that the night before the Fourth is Sunday evening," says Judge Emmons, "I am in hopes that the respect for the Sabbath will make people more orderly.

"Children begin the noise making, but the worst offenders are the roughs, rowdies and hoodlums who take it up. It is the duty of the police to preserve order, and if there is any violation of law they should arrest offenders at once."

Noise, Despite Emomns.

When Judge Emmons's Fourth of July remarks was repeated to one police captain, the latter said:

"Judge Emmons and all the policemen in the city can't prevent the people of Boston from making a noise the night before the Fourth. To stop the uproar, Judge Emmons will have to put a policeman on guard every nine out of every ten men and boys in town.

WOOD'S FINDING IN TUCKER CASE ALARMS STATE?

The attorneys for the Government in the Paige murder case are said to be somewhat perturbed over the result of Professor E. S. Wood's finding in the examination of Charles L. Tucker's clothing.

It has leaked out that the blood found on the accused man's garments does not connect Tucker with the murder of Maisie Paige. This finding bears out the claim made by Tucker at the time of his arrest.

Tucker's lawyers are about to make a move to have experts appointed for the defence. This was foreshadowed a long ago. From the very first James H. Vahey has contended that when the proper time came he would petition Chief Justice Mason for the appointment of an expert for blood for Tucker's behalf. It is the custom in Massachusetts for the State to pay for all expert evidence the defence may need.

Want Their Own Expert.

Vahey and Jones will trust nothing to hearsay. Whether or not Professor Wood's finding is favorable to them, they will insist upon the privilege of having their own expert conduct a series of independent tests. The Attorney General may chalenge the right to object to the scientist selected by the defence. In that case Chief Justice Mason will determine whether or not the expert selected by the defence is competent.

Some question may arise as to whether or not the expert for the defence shall be permitted to examine the exhibits themselves or merely the microscope slides prepared by Professor Wood. Vahey and Jones will contend that they should be given the same opportunity as the State. They will demand that all exhibits be turned over to their expert for completely independent tests. This point may be bitterly fought. Steps have already been taken by Tucker's lawyers to bring it to an issue.

Attorney-General Parker is said to hold the opinion that the exhibits themselves are not part of the expert evidence. He is willing that the microscope slides should be passed over to the other side. The District Attorney's office is determined to give away no more of its case against Tucker than the Courts order.

James H. Vahey, Tucker's senior counsel, will, to-day or to-morrow, ask the Chief Justice for a ruling on the question of expert testimony.

STOLE CONSCIENCE FUND.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Several years ago a man named Brobaker, in a drunken quarrel, killed the father of Marie Crook, for which he was sent to the penitentiary. Upon his release he said his wife began to save every cent to help the child of the murdered man. Sixteen hundred dollars had been accumulated, when robbers heard of the plan and stole the money.

HER WEDDING RING SENT BY THE POPE

DAUGHTER OF A MARQUIS AND YOUNG LAWYER MADE ONE BY CARDINAL SATOLLI.

MRS. L. C. RITCHIE.

MARQUIS' DAUGHTER WHO WEDDED LAWYER

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 22.—With all pontifical pomp, symbolized by a wedding ring sent by the Pope, and attended by almost regal splendor, the marriage to-day of Miss Margaret Maloney and Carberry Ritchie was one of the most remarkable nuptial ceremonies ever witnessed in America.

Miss Maloney is a daughter of Martin Maloney, the Philadelphia multi-millionaire, whose benefactions to the Roman Catholic Church inspired the Pope to make him a Marquis and to send Cardinal Satolli to pronounce a special benediction upon the wedding.

The groom is a young attorney of Washington, D. C.

Among the prominent Catholic clergy present, in addition to Cardinal Satolli, were Archbishops Ryan, of Philadelphia, and Farley, of New York; Bishop McFaul, of Trenton; Bishop Monahan, of Wilmington, and scores of lesser lights.

Archbishop Ryan celebrated low nuptial mass and Cardinal Satolli officiated at the wedding. An elaborate breakfast followed the ceremony. The value of the wedding presents is placed at over $250,000.

The wedding was in the magnificent church here, erected at a cost of $300,000 by the father of the bride, and before the altar dedicated to the memory of her sister, Catherine. The church is known as St. Catherine's Chapel, and is on the estate of the Marquis at Ballingarry.

Margaret Maloney is a slight, brown-haired, brown-eyed girl, the daughter of Martin Maloney, who, a few years ago, was a poor man but not even County Tipperary, Ireland. He found not only fortune, but fame by inventing the "fishtail burner" for electric lights. She is only twenty-three years old, an enthusiastic horsewoman and golfer and an expert whip. She has shared finances, having a fortune and investments of her own to care for.

GREATER BOSTON NEWS IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS.

Forty boys have received first Communion at the House of the Angel Guardian, Roxbury, during a seven-day high mass at which the Rev. D. M. Murphy was celebrant.

David Chamble, a former inmate of the Home for the Destitute, Roxbury, committed suicide by hanging in the woods near Forest street, Arlington.

Charles H. Kerner, the well-known trotting horse breeder and horse owner of the New York Stock Exchange, is dead at his home in Great Barrington.

Grand Commander W. A. Newton, of the K. T. D. G. T., has been rendered a reception by twenty-five commanderies at Everett.

The "Old Folks'" entertainment at the rooms of St. Philip's Athletic Association was largely attended.

Martin Gannon, of 153 West Third street, South Boston, hit on the head with a coal bucket at pier 4 by Tim Mason, disturbs General Hospital with a lacerated head.

Frederick F. Bullard, the composer of the "Sixth Song," residing at No. 22 Hinckley street, is stricken with typhoid fever.

Unknown man, five feet nine inches tall, thirty-five years old, 175 pounds in weight, of light complexion, found wandering aimlessly on Huntington avenue, has been adjudged insane at the City Hospital.

A. F. Haliburton, eighty-four years old, an old Boston Latin school student, is dead at Halifax, N. S. He was sergeant-at-arms of the House of Assembly for twenty-five years.

"Druggists should not do an indiscriminate liquor business on a dollar limit basis," said A. P. Winn at the Pharmaceutical Convention at Nantasket Beach.

Selectman Stone, of Lexington, says the lid must be closed on Lexington Park, and a hot reception is expected at Saturday's meeting of the selectmen.

Trustees of Zion church, of Lynn say they were wrongly informed of the nature of the "Palace of Wonders" given at Revere Beach Sunday, and are indignant.

Mayor Collins says $11,000, $840 less than last year, is enough for the city to spend in celebrating the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Ellen Morrissey, of No. 6 Jackson street, Charlestown, after a long search for her son, James Morrissey, known on the stage as Joe Howard, finds him dead in a Providence asylum.

The sailors who refused to work for the captain of the schooner Cora F. Creesy until he hired a mate have lost their case for damages because they were confined in the hold.

"One kiss $75" is the text of a novel bill John Lafferty, a Medford real estate dealer, says he received from Mrs. Bertha Oliver, a pretty girl of fifteen, who until recently his tenant. He charges her with extortion.

Patrolmen Morgan, Winthrop and McDonald have been reinstated on the Winthrop force, the board having been appropriated to pay them.

Porto Rican teachers' delegation will reach Boston about the first week in July.

Park Street Church's fate is in doubt, as the Prudential Committee reported to the society that it was not ready to advise demolition, renovation or retention of the present edifice.

Her first bath in the ocean this season killed Mrs. Leantine Martell, of No. 216 L street, the water being too cold.

Malicious prosecution is the ground on which Harry B. Hammond, secretary of Chelsea's License Commission, has sued Frank H. Hoge for $5,000.

Secretary Taft will be in Boston next week as the guest of the alumni of Harvard Law School. Secretary Raymond, of the alumni, has received word that he will arrive Monday.

MERGER LARGELY OPPOSED.

Ninety-five per cent of the 2,200 alumni of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who have written Secretary Fay are opposed to the contemplated merger of the institute with Harvard University.

BANDIT CHIEF TAKEN FOR KILLING SIMMONS

Special Cable to Boston American.

HAVANA, June 22.—After a search of three days' search in the mountains surrounding Canagney, the posse of special police, which was formed to run down the murderer of Albert E. Simmons, formerly of Boston, Mass., arrested Alvaro Rodriguez after a desperate battle with a number of cattlemen, charging him with the murder of Simmons.

At the head of the posse which made the capture was John G. Simmons, of Boston, a son of the murdered man. Mr. Simmons arrived in Cuba several days ago, and discovered his father's decapitated body on the kitchen floor of his farmhouse.

Accompanied by the district magistrate and a posse of nearly fifty armed men, Mr. Simmons rode straight to the lair of the Canagney mountains. It was decided the only band of desperadoes in that section of the Isle is known as the Alvarados, being named after Leader Alvaro Rodriguez.

Two Bandits Wounded.

When the posse arrived at the foot of the mountain, Rodrigues with three aides appeared and a desperate fight began, which resulted in the wounding of two of the Alvarados and the capture of their chief.

Mr. Simmons was one of the most popular farmers in the district, being well liked both by the Cubans and Spanish residents. The murder aroused the greatest indignation, and, following the arrest of Rodriguez, there was talk of lynching.

The prisoner was rushed to Cascorro, where he was lodged in jail, the building being temporarily surrounded by a strong guard. It was declared to-day that Rodriguez would be given a speedy trial today, and that in all probability he would be executed before sundown.

ROUSING BIG DINNER OF KNIGHTS OF ZION

The Knights of Zion latallion had its first outing at Apollo Park, with an attendance of about 1,000, and with Alderman Edward J. Bromberg, Lawrence H. Sullivan, of Somerville, Harry Levinson and twenty-five members of the Touro Guards, of Providence, as guests. A big dinner was served, after which there were addresses and a season of sports.

The battalion is composed of the members of the Macabeean Knights of Zion, the National Hussars of American Zionists and the Zion Guards.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Jaynes' Antiseptic Tooth Paste 15c

Makes the Mouth Antiseptic

Prevents decay, whitens the teeth, purifies the breath, and makes your teeth pearl white. Money back if not satisfactory.

JAYNES & CO., Trade-Mark. BOSTON

LOST AND FOUND.

LOST—On Tuesday, June 21, at the North Union station, near sofa fountain stand, a wallet containing railroad tickets to Foxcroft and Colebrook, N. H., and return, and other papers. Finder visiting cards and money. Reward will be given on return to Room 603, Adams building, 23 Court st., Boston; no questions asked.

LEGAL AND PUBLIC NOTICES.

FINANCIAL troubles, bankruptcy, divorce; all legal matters promptly, properly attended to by reliable attorneys. G 21, AMERICAN Office.

18 MISSING SAILORS GIVEN UP AS LOST

GALATEA REPORTS NOT HAVING SEEN SAILORS OF SCHOONER MANHASSET.

Hope of hearing from the thirteen missing sailors of the fishing schooner Manhasset were dispelled this morning when the steamer Galatea came into Provincetown with no report of the fog-benighted men.

When the Manhassett came in at 1 a. m. with the five survivors of her crew of twenty-three telling how the other eighteen had been last seen standing in a dinky dory, and although the Galatea was out in over the Manhasset's course she might bring news of the missing men or the men themselves.

Three Boats Near Them.

Captain Guy Malone, of the Manhassett, said this morning:

"There were three boats near us during the fog and shot and gun. They were firing guns and blowing fog horns, but we were able to speak only one of them, the Silva. The Galatea, which came in the morning after us, is probably one of the other two. The name of the third vessel I don't know."

If the Silva picks up the men it will be a coincidence as the Manhassett last week brought home safely ten men lost in the fog by the other vessels.

The Galatea came from off Sankaty Head last night. At 10 o'clock a steamer was standing by the Manhassett men were traveling but reported seeing no craft in the fog but the Silva. It is feared the Manhassett men are lost.

Lost in Fog.

The Manhassett, Captain Malone, answered a 7 o'clock Monday night dory line sales of Sankaty and fifty miles south-southeast of Chatham. With a smooth sea ten dories set out in as many directions. At 10 o'clock a thick fog blew over. At daylight only one of the dories had returned.

Captain Malone cruised about all day, but could not find one of the missing dories. Giving up hope at last, he sailed for Boston, thinking he might learn that the men he had been picked up and brought there.

FAIR GIRL HYPNOTIZED BY A BOSTON PIANIST?

BEAUTIFUL BARBARA HUTTERGONE, MOTHER ACCUSES FREDERIC WATSON.

Miss Barbara Hutter, a beautiful and talented young musician of New York, is missing from her home, and her mother declares she left under the hypnotic influence of Frederic Watson, who at one time was one of the best known theatrical pianists in Boston, having been a partner of Dave Fitzgibbons at Keith's New Theatre when that house opened.

Watson's parents lived at Forest Hills, but he had a studio on Tremont street and conducted one of the finest HC was ever six feet in height, lanky and not for many's die for personal years.

Six years ago he went abroad and later returned to New York, where he lived at No. 228 West Twenty-fourth street and secured employment as pianist at the Last Winter he returned to Boston and in his rendered to his friends here a beautiful young woman as his wife.

First Met in Europe.

It was while he was abroad completing his musical education that he met Miss Hutter, who was in Europe with her mother studying at Leipsic.

Mrs. John Hutter, the young woman's mother, who lives at No. 1,609 Madison avenue, New York, declares that the musician had a hypnotic power over the girl.

"We first met Mr. Watson in Leipsic," said the mother, "and he charmed us all. Barbara, who had always been a strong, sweet-minded girl, seemed not to be attracted by him at first, but he soon had us all so that we obeyed his every suggestion. He did not make a spell. I firmly believe, but it required a strong effort for me to break away."

Barbara would refuse Watson's every word. She would leave the room at table at night if he called her. She seemed to be under a hypnotic spell. Watson remained out all late at night and would offer us no excuses when we asked for them.

Under Influence of Drug.

"She finally went away Monday. She had been out all the afternoon. About 5 o'clock she came in and told me that she would have been under the influence of some powerful drug.

"I am married," she said. 'I had to marry him.'

"Where is your ring?' I asked.

"She showed me a plain ring and she had worn for years and answered, 'Here it is.'

"Who married you?' I asked. 'Is the man here a minister?' I continued.

"She then confessed that she was not married, but said they were to be married that night.

"While I was in an adjoining room she left the other clothes in a bundle and went away. A neighbor saw her hurry down the street."

SISTER PAINTS WHEN WIFE WAITS; IS SENTENCED

When Wilbur Waite was sentenced to State Prison for from six to ten years, his sister Emeline was left to fight alone in the court room. Waite stole a watch valued at $12 from Thomas Day in the South End.

WONDER WORKERS!

Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets.

10c Free's case proves that they CURE QUICK, but PERMANENT.

Kidney, Liver and Kindred Troubles Disappear.

"As far back as I can remember I had been troubled with kidney disease and slight liver. I used an abundance of medicine and doctors' prescriptions, but got no relief whatever. 'It was not until I started taking Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets that I began to get relief. They cured. I say permanently because it is a year since they left off using them and I have had no further trouble with my liver or kidneys.

"Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets are the wonder - workers."—Free's case.

Sold by druggists, 50 cents. Enough for a week. Book to the Blind free. Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets will prove a blessing to millions more. If the first bottle does not help you, see Consultation Department, Columbian Building, 7 to 9 Huntington, Pl. They will advise you free. Don't suffer longer. Go to your Druggist this day. Remember, Dr. Pettingill's Kidney-Wort Tablets contain no alcohol. They are made to clean and work Kidneys and bladder, regulate and tone liver, and are guaranteed and certain cure.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

WILL SELL or exchange for an automobile good for a small 3-cycle farm, near a lake, 50 miles from Boston. S. S. Boston American.

REFRIGERATORS.

GREAT SALE—New and s. h. refrigerators and ice chests; also bicycles and stoves. ALBEE S. 99 Blackstone, st.

WALL PAPER.

100,000 ROLLS WALL PAPER, 20,000 ft. room moulding, new and handsome patterns, great bargains. 1,000 rolls 10c paper, 5c. Send for sample book. HANDBERG & Shiffs, 47 Tremont Row, Scollay Sq., one flight up.

AUTOMOBILES.

AUTOMOBILE Gasoline Runabout, 7 horse power, slightly shop worn. Exceptional bargain given if desired. A. ADAMS, 74 Stanhope st.

WE are Agents for Mottes Automobiles, 1904 models, 5 h. p., $425; will take your old bicycle in exchange. BLAKE CO., 73 Sudbury st.

MEDICAL.

DR. EMMONS 170 Tremont St.

Women—come to me. We guarantee to cure all female troubles in less time, at less price, than any other physician in Boston. Lady physician in private parlors. Office hours, 9 to 5. Also Sunday, 10 to 12.

Old Dr. Hall Office 3 Beacon St., Room 1, Boston. Established 1854. Regular physician; established office in Boston; letters truthfully answered. Hours 9 to 9; Sundays 10 to 1.

MRS. DR. J. E. BISHOP.

OFFICE, 178 TREMONT ST., OLDEST and most reliable office for treatment of female diseases. Hours, 10 to 5.

HELP WANTED—Male.

WANTED—Two or three good boxmakers; only those who have worked on fancy boxes need apply. Last place of employment, B 197, AMERICAN.

HELP WANTED—Female.

WAITRESSES—BLOCK ISLAND.

WANTED—25 more waitresses for Block Island; R. L., next party leaves today, 10-11 a. m.; also waitresses for all R. I. and New-Jersey resorts. 403 Washington st., Room 2.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES.

WM. A. BARNES, practical psychologist, reveals secrets of success; call or write for particulars. 176 Huntington av.

WINES AND LIQUORS.

Nearly 100 years selling pure liquors means something. THOMAS KNOW & SON, 59 North Market st., opposite Faneuil Hall.

TYPEWRITERS.

SAVE MONEY; good machines; write or call. Typewriter Exchange, 33 Bromfield st.

BUSINESS CHANCES. BUSINESS CHANCES.

$1.25 A WEEK ON EACH $1000 10 YEARS TO PAY NO INTEREST

We will buy or build you a house, cottage or farm in any part of the United States, and it costs you only $1.25 a week on each $1000.

NO RENT TO PAY EVERY DOLLAR YOU PAY IN GOES TO YOUR CREDIT

GREATEST MONEY SAVING PLAN EVER ORIGINATED.

ENDORSED BY LAWYERS, MINISTERS, BANKS AND FINANCIAL MEN EVERYWHERE.

New Bedford, Mass., June 15th, 1904.

North American Trust:

Gentlemen—I am much pleased to note the short while it has taken to manage my contract. I made application and have already received the benefits, your company having purchased a certain piece of property in Lakeville and allowing me 10 years in which to pay for it. I very highly recommend your plan to any person of moderate means that wishes to own his own home.

James H. McNulty, 188 Middle Street, New Bedford, Mass.

17 Cts. A WEEK PUTS YOU IN POSSESSION OF $100 WORTH OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Larger sums in same proportion. We sell but one by Automobile, Piano Business, Office Building, Dining Room or Bedroom Furnishings of a Flat or House. In fact any kind of a business and all for you to pay in on small weekly payments without interest.

We Lift Mortgages ON THE ABOVE PLAN OF PURCHASE

The sooner you start the greater the saving. Personal visit will be as quick as possible to explain fully the workings of our great business plan. Call at 144 Tremont st., Room 400, Boston, or write for booklet. All letters will be answered promptly. Business strictly confidential.

NORTH AMERICAN TRUST

144 Tremont Street, (TRUST BUILDING) Boston HOURS 9 A. M. TO 10 P. M.

LYNN, 10 Central st., DORCHESTER, 54 Columbia Road; NEW BEDFORD, 37 Purchase st.; SOMERVILLE, 4 Winter st.; HAVERHILL, 5 Merrimack st.; FALL RIVER, 127 Pleasant st.; WORCESTER, 405 Main st., Room 5; FITCHBURG, 31 Main st., South Wachusett.

HORSES AND CARRIAGES.

Take Notice!

15 horses for sale at hack and livery stable, 12 and 14 Garden St., off Cambridge St., West End.

Owing to dulness of business we wish to dispose of our business horses weighing from 950 to 1250 pounds, ages from 9 to 12 years, prices from $25 to $85.

$135 Buys Pair of Grays

Weight 2,500 pounds, round and kind and true to work, will pull single or double; a bargain for some one. At 12 and 14 Garden St., West End.

$125 Buys Pair of Bays

Weight 2,400 pounds, 7 and 8 years old, sound and kind in every respect. At 12 and 14 Garden St., West End.

$125 Buys Big Pair

Weight 2,400, good workers, single or double, anybody looking for a bargain will do well to give us a call. 12 and 14 Garden St.

$75 Buys Fine Family Horse

Weight 1,050, age 7, sound and kind for lady to drive or harness. At 12 and 14 Garden St., West End.

$65 Buys Fast Pacing Mare

Weight 950 pounds, has been a half in 1:05; only reason for selling, a little sore forward. 12 and 14 Garden St., West End.

$65 Buys Pneumatic Tire Runabout

Wooden spokes, for sale, cheap, made by Iver & Son, N. Camridge, Mass.; less than a week ago. 12 and 14 Garden St., West End.

10 coupes and hacks and harnesses for sale at black stable, 12 and 14 Garden St., off Cambridge St., West End, 2 minutes from North Union Station.

PRIVATE FAMILY WOULD LIKE

TO DISPOSE, of their family outfit, handsome big horse, 7 years old, 1,050 lbs., made 2 miles an hour and trots and paces; also a fine family mare for sale, also for a lady to drive; new coupe and harness, nearly new; also a fine family horse, weight 1,000 lbs., 8 years old, and quiet; also single phaeton, all for $450, all horse will be for family trial; particulars and price at private residence, 19 Westminster ave., second house from Broadway, Revere Beach; take elevated train to Dudley terminal, transfer to Revere Hills cars, particulars by telephone, 1185 Roxbury.

MASSAGE.

MISS L. DOUGLASS' Manicuring Parlors, 170A Tremont street, Room 10.

MISS RAY, 31 Winter st. Massage given at residence or office; hours 9 to 5. Evenings by appointment.

MISS E. PERRY and MISS GRACE RAY—Massage and bath. 412A Columbus av.

SEWING MACHINES.

BARTAINS TO-DAY IN $7, $10 new Machines, $3 to $5; second-hand, $2 to $4. RICHARD ROSSE, 1,000 Washington st., 2d floor.

NEW SINGER, Wheeler & Wilson, White machines, $10 to $15; second-hand, $3 to $8. SINGER EXCHANGE, 388 Boylston street.

TICKET BROKERS.

CHEAP TICKETS South and West, rail or boat, CHARTERS, Land and Sea. 129 Dearborn st.

ALL KINDS of railroad tickets, mileage books bought and sold. CHARTER, 146 Milk st.

EXTRA CHEAP tickets, Buffalo, Montreal, St. Louis and Denver, CURTIS, 126 Canal st.

FARMS

ILLUSTRATED CATALOGUE PREPAID. Describing with two engravings a desirable Dedham farm at a price that will surprise you, and 412 others. CHAPIN'S REAL ESTATE AGENCY, Herald Building, up one flight, Boston.

CITY OF BOSTON.

CITY OF BOSTON.
TO CONTRACTORS.

The Schoolhouse Commissioners of Boston invite proposals for furnishing and delivering during the months of July, August and September, 1904, blackboard slate in quantities not less than 50,000 feet and not more than 100,000 feet of a survey of not less than 1,000 feet, as may be required, and delivered at the office of the Commissioners, No. 26 Somerset street, Boston, on or before 12 M. of TUESDAY, June 28, 1904, at and from the accepted stock for $500, payable in the year if the material is not carried out, still then the contract may be annulled by the Board. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all proposals and give preference to bidders paying the trades unions rate of wages.

ELIPHTON STURGIS,
JOSEPH J. CORBETT,
CHARLES LOGUE,
Commissioners.

CITY OF BOSTON.

CITY OF BOSTON—TO CONTRACTORS.

The Superintendent of Streets of the City of Boston offers for sale the granite blocks now in the works in Bolgate avenue, between Adelrich street and Neponset avenue, Dorchester, and will receive proposals for the purchase of the same in lots of not less than 1,000 blocks each, until 12 o'clock M. of Wednesday, June 29, 1904, with a certified check for $1,000, payable to and to be the property of the city if the proposal is not carried out with, at said time and place, be publicly opened and read. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all proposals, and to accept only such as he deems suitable; rates of wages, and the right to reject any and all proposals, and no proposal will be accepted unless a fair, reasonable price is bid for each item. The proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed and marked "Proposal for Sewerage Works in Bolgate avenue." JAMES DONOVAN, Superintendent of Streets, Boston, June 21.

HORSES AND CARRIAGES.

FOR SALE —BY— Strictly Private Family

THE CONTENTS of my private stable, providing they are bought by private parties only, one handsome large bay horse Hugo, warranted absolutely sound and kind, standing 16 hands high, weights 1,100 pounds, absolutely fearless of steam or electric cars or automobiles; perfectly safe lady to ride or drive in city or country; an ideal family horse; also black mare Princess, 8 years old, weighs 1,050 pounds, perfectly safe and fearless of any known object, been driven by my self and daughter for the past three years and is sold for no fault; also several carriages and harnesses, blankets, robes, etc.; these horses must go into good hands and will be sold very low accordingly, can be seen and has weeks' trial given by applying at my private residence,

17 Fayette St., CAMBRIDGE

15 minutes from Bowdoin or Scollay square by Broadway or Cambridge street cars, tel. 1013-6 Cambridge.

CITY OF BOSTON.

CITY OF BOSTON.
TO CONTRACTORS.

The Schoolhouse Commissioners of Boston invite proposals for furnishing and delivering during the months of July, August and September, 1904, blackboard slate in quantities not less than 50,000 feet and not more than 100,000 feet of a survey of not less than 1,000 feet, as may be required, and delivered at the office of the Commissioners, No. 26 Somerset street, Boston, on or before 12 M. of TUESDAY, June 28, 1904, at and from the accepted stock for $500, payable in the year if the material is not carried out, still then the contract may be annulled by the Board. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all proposals and give preference to bidders paying the trades unions rate of wages.

ELIPHTON STURGIS,
JOSEPH J. CORBETT,
CHARLES LOGUE,
Commissioners.

FURNITURE.

WHEEL CHAIRS, bought, sold, rented exchanged; lowest prices. SMALL'S, 99 Canal.

SouthEnd R. E. Agency

To Let on Thursday, at noon—not the place for a good Lunch—328 Tremont st.

For sale, Lodging House, on easy terms, on Warren ave., near Dartmouth, doing good business, 328 Tremont st.

For sale, Lodging House, 11 rooms, all let, $400 a month, on Dartmouth st., $3,000, easy terms, income $972.00, rent $60.00. This is your chance. 328 Tremont st.

We want real estate that will stand a loss of $5000, at once; first mortgage. 328 Tremont st.

FOR SALE, An old established paying manufacturing paper hanging and ceiling business; also wall paper, carpets, rugs, shades and draperies; 14 years' lease for sale or to anyone well this year; stock will not exceed $4,000; rent $600 per year; will sell right reasons; 2 floors out of town will sign papers; if not sold at auction Saturday, June 25, 12 o'clock noon, at 1 Bromfield st., less than the cost of stock. Apply to W. M. Chamberlain, 1 Bromfield st., or Chamberlain, at 180 Main st., South Weymouth.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

LANKY BOB TO MEET RYAN IN FRISCO

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—It is learned on good authority that if Bob Fitzsimmons is successful over Jack O'Brien when the pair meet at Philadelphia on July 8 the cyclonic Britisher will be with Tommy Ryan. It is said that the latter, tired of Fitzsimmons's talk, has concluded to get to 158 pounds, the middleweight limit, and that the coming battle will take place in San Francisco in December.

From the same source it is said that Ryan is fighting for a guaranteed purse of $20,000 offered by one of the best known clubs in California, and that both sides will have to post $2,500 each in order to assure their presence in the ring. The club intends to post $5,000, the whole sum to be evenly divided in case the match falls through because of the fault of the club.

BIG BOUT IN DAWSON CITY

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Jack Root, the Chicago middleweight, has been offered $2,500, win, lose or draw, for a ten-round bout with Joe Choynski, of California, at Dawson City during the latter part of July. Root has accepted the club's offer and put it up to Choynski.

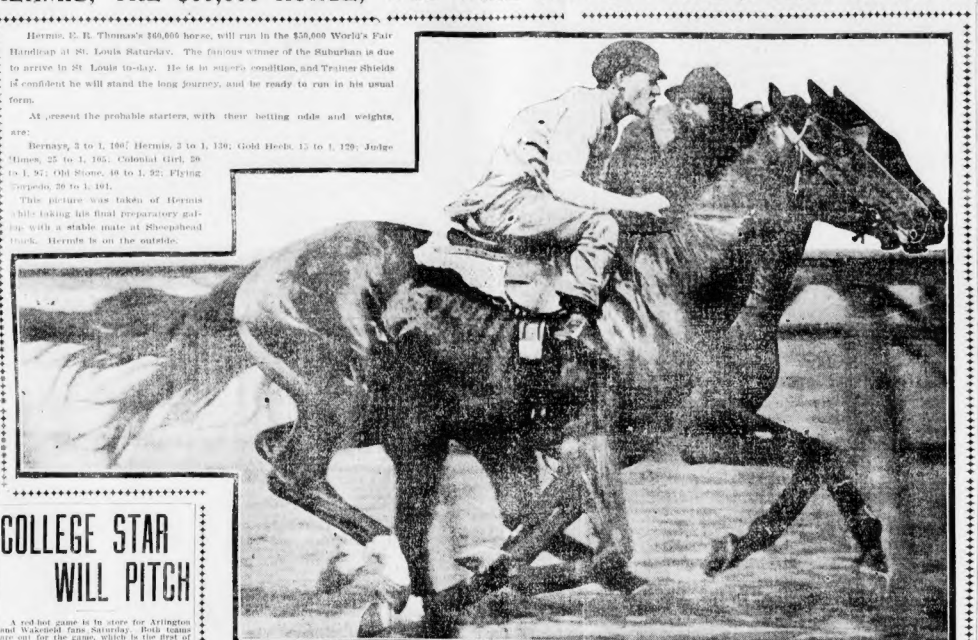
HERMIS, THE $60,000 HORSE, WHO WILL RUN IN WORLD'S FAIR HANDICAP

Hermis, E. R. Thomas's $60,000 horse, will run in the $50,000 World's Fair Handicap at St. Louis Saturday. The famous winner of the Suburban is due to arrive in St. Louis to-day. He is in superb condition, and Trainer Shields is confident he will stand the long journey, and be ready to run in his usual form.

At present the probable starters, with their betting odds and weights, are:

Bernays, 3 to 1, 106; Hermis, 3 to 1, 130; Gold Heels, 13 to 1, 129; Judge Himes, 25 to 1, 105; Colonial Girl, 20 to 1, 97; Old Stone, 40 to 1, 92; Flying Torpedo, 20 to 1, 101.

This picture was taken of Hermis while taking his final preparatory gallop with a stable mate at Sheepshead Bank. Hermis is on the outside.



LITTLE CHAPS MAY MEET AT WORLD'S FAIR

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The contest between Jimmy Britt and "Young Corbett" may take place before December next. The articles of agreement call for the mill to take place at San Francisco, but now comes an offer from a club in St. Louis.

The West End A. C. of St. Louis, it is said, is ready to give the men 70 per cent. of the gate receipts to fight twenty rounds in October. Britt is at present at St. Louis and thinks so well of the proposition that he has put it up to "Corbett." The latter is considering it, and may have something to say before the week is out.

Britt intends to remain in St. Louis for a month, and then go to the Pacific coast. If everything is satisfactory he will post a forfeit to show that he is in earnest, and will request the club to do the same.

CRACK BANTAM AFTER MATCH

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Bob Kendrick, the little London bantamweight, who arrived in this country on Tuesday, has jumped into training in the hopes of getting on a few matches with any of the topnotchers at 115 pounds. The little Englishman has stood off many of the other side as Digger Stanley, Owen Moran and Willie Curley. Kendrick would like to meet Jimmy Stone, Danny Dougherty or any other man at his weight.

LYNCH'S GOOD START.

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—In his first major league game, Mike Lynch, formerly of Bean University, made a fine showing, winning his game and only allowing the Cardinals four hits.

NO BETTING; NO RACING.

CHICAGO, June 22.—As a result of the stopping of betting at the Washington Park track the officers have abandoned the meeting. Not enough money has been taken in to pay the employes.

OMAHA KID BACK IN GAME

After being out of the ring for several years the famous old Omaha Kid, Oscar Gardner, whose active fighting was a marvel of the ring goers, has been matched again. Next month he is scheduled to meet Heil Smith, a Denver featherweight in a 15 round bout in a eastern club.

COLLEGE STAR WILL PITCH

A red-hot game is in store for Arlington and Wakefield fans Saturday. Both teams are out for the game, which is the first of the series. Sheehan, of Fordham, will pitch for Arlington, and, judging from his work this season at college, Wakefield will have to hustle.

M'GOVERN TO FIGHT NEIL

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Waverly A. C. of Chicago has wired Sam Harris a good offer for Hughey McGovern to fight six rounds with Frankie Neil, the bantamweight champion, on June 27. Harris accepted on condition that the date be set a week or two later, in order that Hughey might have a chance to get a little more fit to meet a man of Neil's caliber.

Hughey McGovern has long wanted to fight for this title, and it is more than likely that the Waverly Club will extend the time slightly.

ELLIOTT'S FINE SCORE.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—In the opening day's shoot of the Grand American tourney, J. A. R. Elliott broke 99 out of 100 in one event.

NEIL READY FOR BANTAMS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Frankie Neil, the bantamweight champion of the world, demonstrated by his second victory over Harry Forbes on Friday night last in Chicago that there was no fluke in their contest on the Pacific coast, as Forbes had circulated throughout the country. Neil is now ready to take on the next bantam weight in the country to show that he is in a class by himself at any old weight up to 120 pounds ringside.

LUNDIN'S TASK TOO HARD.

WORCESTER, June 22.—The "Cuban Wonder," Clarence Boublin, won a handicap wrestling match from Ragnar Lundin in Mechanic's Hall. Under the terms of the match Lundin was to throw Boublin twice in an hour, but he failed to throw him once.

DELANEY HITS BACK AT MUNROE'S MANAGER FOR CALLING JEFF A COWARD

BY W. W. NAUGHTON.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—Billy Delaney, the man who took novice Jeffries to Carson to act as sparring partner to Jim Corbett, and who predicted the boilermaker would one day be champion of the world, is worthy over the utterances of one Harry Pollok, manager of Jack Munroe, the latest championship candidate.

As can be readily imagined, Delaney is not in the best of humor just at present. He is exasperated with the failure of his plans. Delaney does not intend to stay with the pugilistic game much longer, and, for that matter, he has advised Jeffries to make the contest with Munroe the last of his career. He was just congratulating himself on the fact that the champion had been persuaded to place himself in tip-top condition when the sore knee developed.

Pollok Very Frank.

Pollok has been quite frank and breezy in airing his views of the situation at Harbor Springs. He said, among other things, that he did not believe Jeffries's knee was in as bad condition as the champion tried to have it appear, and he intimated that Jeffries was looking for a chance to avoid Munroe. This is what Delaney has to say in reply:

"Pollok claims that Jeffries's knee is all right—that Jeffries is merely stalling him. He says he told Jeffries so to his face. Pollok surely has it on Munroe, who sent around the country telling newspaper men that he knocked Jeff down in Butte City with a terrific body punch. When Munroe landed on the coast, by the way, and found himself in the State with Jeffries, he admitted he had. He said he never knocked Jeff down at all.

"In the mix here in Harbin, in the presence of a dozen witnesses, Jeffries offered to meet Munroe on June 30, and to go into the ring on one leg, but Manager Coffroth refused to let him start. Still Pollok, who was present, calls Jeff a coward. "A coward never was never will be champion of the world. Furthermore, no one but a coward would want to fight a man in the condition Jeff is to-day.

Wise Men from the East.

"Those wise men from the East think the people out here are easy. Some of them are, but not all of them, and Pollok or any one else will never convince the California public that James J. Jeffries is a cur or Eddie Graney is a crook.

"Munroe and his party will leave San Francisco within a day or two. Neither date of departure nor destination has been decided on as yet. In all likelihood the miner will go to St. Louis, where he has a theatrical engagement, or Minneapolis, next. Harry Pollok and Tim McGrath will accompany Munroe.

Said McGrath yesterday:

"My purpose in going along will be to lay in enough work for Munroe during the trip to keep him within reach of fighting conditions. I think I understand Jack's temperament, and I believe that I can do more with him than any one else. I have got to be greatly interested in him. He is one of the hardest men to handle that I ever came across. We will see to it, however, that he does plenty of sparring for the practice there is in it, and it won't be my fault if I don't have him meet some of the best in the East."

Munroe Coming Back.

Manager Pollok says he will aim to have Munroe back in San Francisco five weeks before the date of the coming championship go with Jeff.

"Of course, Munroe won't engage in any contests when away," said Pollok. "The new articles forbid that I nd of thing, and while petty, too, for Jack could clean up a world lot of the fellows who are taking liberties with his name, it's a measly shame to keep a good man bottled up that way, but it can't be helped."

WILLIAMS TO MEET MAHER

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Jack Williams, the clever Philadelphia middleweight, and Peter Maher have signed to meet before the New Manhattan A. C. of Philadelphia, which will open its doors shortly. They are to clash for six rounds at catchweights, in which Maher will have fully fifteen pounds advantage. Williams knockout of Charley Haines a few months ago entitles him as a comer among the middleweights.

HARVARD VETERANS WIN.

NEW YORK, June 22.—In the Crescent A. C. tennis tourney at Bay Ridge, the Harvard veterans, Ward and Wright, defeated Hobart and Millett in straight sets. Alexander Smith, of the Princeton team, won from Whitman and Carleton, while the Princeton veterans, Larned and Wrenn and Hackett and Allen was unfinished, each having won two sets.

GOOD SCHEDULE FOR AMATEURS

At a meeting of the directors of the Hub Amateur Baseball League, President Joe Wagner, Secretary J. Hawkes, L. R. Lamphy, John McCarthy, Fred C. Smith and J. Poltrast, adopted an interesting schedule of games.

As the league was formed rather late in the season, each team will be able to play only two games with the other teams in the league. The first game will be played Aug. 20, and on Aug. 27, Sept. 3 and 5 the final games for the championship of the league will be played.

This will undoubtedly settle the 18-year-old championship of the State as only the 18-year-old teams in the State were picked for the league.

All of the teams won the majority of their games from some of the best teams around Boston.

Teams having dates with the Amateur League Clubs will be expected to cancel their dates on account of the forming of this league. The schedule:

JUNE 25—Juniors vs. 5th, Roxbury, at Dorchester.

Brookside vs. Warren, at Somerville.

Wollaston vs. Wakefield, at Chelsea.

JULY 2—Mt. Bowdoin A. A. vs. Brookside, at Dorchester.

Warren vs. Crescents, at Cambridge.

Wollaston vs. Juniors, at Jamaica Plain.

JULY 4—Mt. Bowdoin vs. Brookside, at Somerville.

Mt. Bowdoin vs. Crescent, at Cambridge.

Wollaston vs. Warren, at Jamaica Plain.

JULY 9—Warren vs. Mt. Bowdoin, at Neponset.

Crescent vs. Wollaston, at Somerville.

Juniors vs. Brookside, at Dorchester.

JULY 11—Juniors vs. Wollaston, at Jamaica Plain.

Mt. Bowdoin vs. Crescent, at Cambridge.

Brookside vs. Warren, at Somerville.

JULY 16—Crescents vs. Brookside, at Somerville.

Juniors vs. Mt. Bowdoin, at Dorchester.

JULY 23—Juniors vs. Mt. Bowdoin, at Jamaica Plain.

Brookside vs. Warren, at Somerville.

JULY 30—Mt. Bowdoin vs. Crescents, at Neponset.

Warren vs. Crescents, at Neponset.

Juniors vs. Wollaston, at Jamaica.

AUGUST 6—Warren vs. Mt. Bowdoin, at Dorchester.

Crescents vs. Juniors, at Cambridge.

Brookside vs. Wollaston, at Somerville.

AUGUST 13—Juniors vs. Warren, at Dorchester.

Crescents vs. Mt. Bowdoin, at Cambridge.

Wollaston vs. Brookside, at Jamaica Plain.

AUGUST 20—Juniors vs. Brookside, at Mt. Bowdoin A. C. vs. Crescents, at Dorchester.

Nothing Box Home vs. Warren, at Boston.

WAKEFIELD IS FINAL VICTOR

Wakefield High were declared champions of the Suburban Interscholastic League by defeating Melrose High in the athletic game of the season by a score of 6 to 1. Wakefield High has a reputation to live up to, and this is the third successive year the championship has come to the school.

YOUNG HOWARDS WON.

On the Music playground, in Charlestown, the Young Howards, of Charlestown, defeated the Travelers of the same place by a score of 10 to 1. Batteries—Young Howards, Hodgdon and the batting of Hodgdon. To Barnes could were made straight hits for the Travelers. The Young Howards are a fast team and want games with strong teams. Address Hodgdon, uniformed team, 250 Cross and Bunker Hill Hodgdon, manager. No. 250 Cross street, Charlestown.

COLLEGE STARS FOR W. ROXBURY

With a crack team made up of semi-professional stars and college players, the West Roxburys will play such strong clubs as Greenfield, Woonsocket Gyms, River Points, Milfords, Lynns and Epsworth.

They will play two or three games a week and may take a tour through New Hampshire and Vermont to play some of the fast teams in the Green and White Mountain States. Among the players are Barrington, of Salem, catcher; Grimes, of Dartmouth, pitcher; Smith, of Williams, first base; Manning, of Dartmouth, second base; Nagle, of Georgetown, third base; Mahan, of Williams, shortstop; Sullivan, of Providence, left field; Lampe, of Teck, centre field; Moran, of Georgetown, or Cote, of Amherst, right field. William Nagle, manager, 48 Bellevue street, West Roxbury, will handle the club and arrange dates.

LIVELY PRACTICE GAME.

There will be a lively practice game between candidates of the BOSTON AMERICAN team, of the Newspaper League, up at American League Park, after a regular game between the Tavern and St. Botolph Club nines.

Captain "Hi" Henry will try to lead one picked team to victory, while a strong bunch of diamond stars of the news and publishing business will pull the BOSTON AMERICAN will also go after the honors. Play will be called by Umpire Ducker at 5:30 p. m.

YANKEE WILL RUN ABROAD

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 22.—P. J. Walsh, of the New York A. C., sailed for England to-day on board the Majestic. He will compete under the Mercury Foot emblem in the English championship athletic meeting that will be held near Liverpool on July 2.

Walsh has been running in excellent form during the past few months, and is regarded as in prime condition to return one or two of the English titles at the short distances to America.

In 1902 Walsh won the national championship in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Last year he won the Metropolitan championship at these distances, and has gained minor honors in the dashes and sprints.

CARTER HAS THE GOODS.

As several of the clever little chaps around the Hub have recently been flaunting challenges at him, Young Carter, of Chelsea, writes to the BOSTON AMERICAN as follows:

"Seeing Perry's challenge to me and about a dozen more challenges, if the chaps mean business let them meet me at the BOSTON AMERICAN office and I will accommodate them all. Here are the ones I have on hand: Perry O'Neil, the strong Young Barish, whom I boxed at Cambridge a six round draw. I have boxed the last three draws already, and will put a little money on the side this time. I fight at Lincoln Club next meeting."

HOT OLD GAME WON BY SAINTS

One of the greatest diamond struggles that ever happened took place up at American League Park between the St. Rafaels and Tavern Clubs, the Saints getting there with both feet, 26 to 25, after a fierce battle of rounds of baseball. Sure field stunts filled every inning.

There was a fine house of fans and rooters present, including many fair ladies, ready to cheer on the sport. Besides a brass band, there was the gent with the megaphone and a big saxophone bunch, who tried to rattle the opposing pitchers. Though the park became a pond for a time, both batches played right on through the noise and rain. The only thing that got wet was a keg, in a little express wagon, from which they drew it right from the wood. It was announced that the game would go for a finish, and the play continued from 1:30 till 5:30, before a winner was picked. Each side of course carried tiny flags with the club named inscribed. A flag marked "three-mile finish" was posted near third base, where the express wagon was guarded by six Emmets, ready at their anxiety to reach third, several players slid over the bag and under the wagon, where they were declared safe by the umpire. It was a hot old battle, and was the annual game between the two swell clubs.

WALCOTT TO TRY AGAIN.

BALTIMORE, June 22.—Joe Walcott and Jimmy Handlon, of Rochester, are to fight Friday night in the star bout at the Eureka A. C. for fifteen rounds at 125 pounds weights. Walcott and Donovan have met twice, a hot old battle, and the last time the colors of the New York State man. They having fought ten rounds to a draw on both occasions.

PENNSY DOES NOT FEAR THROW-DOWN

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 22.—The report that Harvard athletic authorities would displace Pennsylvania on their schedules and substitute Princeton for the Quakers was given new life by a statement this morning sent out from Boston, but despite the evident desire of some enthusiastic alumni of either Harvard or Princeton to bring about the severance, a "throw down" is not at all likely or even contemplated.

Charles S. Packard, chairman of the football advisory board, said: "If Princeton and Harvard should decide to come together it will not affect our relations with Harvard. But the signing of an agreement between the two colleges is entirely another matter.

"Any will not sign any agreement with any institution for a longer period than one year at a time. Should the Ivy league is being made, they will not do so now, particularly with the Quakers, for whom there has always been so much dissension, and especially on top of the recent furore caused by the criticism in the Harvard Crimson over the methods employed by Princeton students at the baseball game this spring. The whole trouble is most likely directed by the Princeton-New York alumni, who are very powerful and desirous of bringing about such an alliance.

"Pennsylvania does not enter into the controversy at all, because, should the football team put up as poor an exhibition next Fall as she has done in the past few years, it will be relegated to the second class, and the fear of too many hard games will be removed, and should we show form sufficient to give us championship pretensions, the Harvard boys will need the game to assist in diminishing the $70,000 we now resting upon her new athletic debt."

MORAN IS KING OF RIDERS.

Jimmy Moran is quoted as saying that he is just as good behind the big motors as the little ones. He bases his assertion on the ground that the fourteen-horse power machines draw a man along, while those of smaller power demand a lot of energy of hold them.

And this is the general sentiment among the riders, so that the conclusion is Caldwell is already a beaten man for the race at Charles River on Tuesday last, as Moran is unbeatable behind four-horse-power motors.

MEN, PAY ME WHEN CURED

There is but one test for genuine medical treatment, and that is the result it produces. No man should pay his money and risk it in the hands of a specialist who has confidence enough in his own ability to say:

"I will not ask you for a penny unless I produce a cure, is perfected, to your entire satisfaction, in every case on this condition, and I offer a bond of $1,000 as a guaranteeing guarantee to cure or refund every penny paid me for treatment."

Consult me free. If you cannot call at my office call for blank for history. Address, DR. COLLINS MEDICAL OFFICE, 77 Boylston St., Boston, Mass. Office hours, 9 to 5 daily, except Sundays. Evenings, 7 to 8.

DR. COLLINS Medical Office

Varicocele, Stricture, Blood Poison, Kidney Diseases, Rupture, Piles, Catarrh, Nervousness, Loss of Vitality, Impotency, Rheumatism, Skin Diseases, Bladder Troubles, Drains or Discharges of the Urinary Organs and all Private Diseases of Men.

Male weakness or personal neglect or evil habits of manhood, wasted vitality, nervousness, lack of energy, loss of ambition, lame back, kidneys, bladder, prostatic troubles, unnatural discharges, stricture, sexual weakness, impotency, blood poison, pimples, eruptions, sore throat, mouth or tongue, rheumatism, piles, fistula, rupture, varicocele, hydrocele, gleet, gonorrhoea, syphilis, unnatural losses, sexual debility, kidney and bladder troubles, all private diseases of men, no matter how obstinate or long standing, no matter who has failed to cure you, no matter what you have taken or how much you have been swindled, I will cure you and give you a legal contract to that effect, backed by a bond of $1,000 to show that I mean exactly what I say. Consultation free. Call or write. Office hours, 9 to 5 daily. Sundays, 10 to 1. Evenings, 7 to 8.

DR. COLLINS MEDICAL OFFICE, 77 Boylston St., Opp. Hotel Plaza, Boston, Mass.

O'KEEFE HAS ISSUED DEFI

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—John O'Keefe, the Chicago welterweight, who fought Billy Mellody of Boston a twenty-round draw in Butte, Mont., last Thursday night, has returned to Chicago and issued a defi to Jimmy Gardner, the Lowell, Mass., light weight.

O'Keefe states that he will take Gardner on at 138 pounds for six rounds. Odds of two weeks. Gardner gave O'Keefe a good beating the last time they met.

GARDNER FIT TO FIGHT NOW

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—That George Gardner, the Lowell light heavyweight, intends to take no chances in his coming fight with John Willie, of Chicago, on July 1 at the Battery D. A. C., can be seen by the way in which he has buckled down to work. Gardner knows that by defeating Willie he can get on a return match with Jack Root, who recently beat him in six rounds in the Windy City. His brother, Jimmy Gardner, is training him.

Amateur Games Wanted.

Garfield A. C. want games with any 15-16-year-old teams in the State. Frank Anderson, manager, No. 43 Dean avenue, Somerville.

Preston Juniors, Dorchester, want to play any 15-year-old uniformed team in or around Boston. Address Preston Juniors, Dorchester, manager, No. 50 Lexington street, Charlestown.

Hodgdon, of Malden, want games with any 14-15-year-old teams. Call or write Hodgdon, No. 250 Cross street, Malden.

Rockbury A. C. want to play any 14-15 uniformed team on July 4, morning or afternoon. Address Frank Harvey, manager, Hotel Navarre, Columbia avenue.

Rockbury A. C. have organized a strong team and want games with the following clubs away from home: Belmont A. A., Malden; Reading, Newton Upper Falls, Waverly, Beverly and Athletic, of Cambridge. Call or write Frank Harvey, manager, No. 1625 Tremont street, Roxbury.

Hodgdon, of Charlestown, want games with 16-and 17-year-old teams. They want a game Saturday with some strong team. Hendricks, any Saturday in August, and the Hendricks to name the grounds to play on, preferred. The Hendricks think the St. Marys are too small, but the St. Marys say they can make the Hendricks hustle to win. Ross Corcoran, manager, No. 69 Austin street, Charlestown.

Everett wants to hear from Melrose, Stoneham, Stoughton, Belmont A. A., Newton Upper Falls, Hardings and other strong teams having a fair team. Address Fred McGinnis, manager, Everett, Everett.

St. Philip's A. A. have organized one of the fastest ball teams in the South End of players former with the South Ends, Highland Union and St. Patrick's teams. James Carty is doing the managing and will be pleased to hear from fast New York Leaguers, the battery is probably as good as any in the business. In the outfield are Connolly, Collins and Owen, a fine trio, can gainst in anything that comes their way. Magee and J. Collins are playing a short field and second. Newell is playing first and Barry second. Both have batted in the fifties this season and have easily defeated Neponset last year, and would like to hear from them again, also from Quincy and South Quincy, away from home. John J. Barry, manager, No. 1824 Washington street, Boston.

MOTOR RACES AT PORTLAND

Special to the Boston American.

PORTLAND, Me., June 22.—In plain view of spectators on Peak's Island, from a point off Forest City pier, past Cushing's Island and return, a distance of four miles, an interesting motor boat races, to which there are numerous entries, will be a feature of the sports here on Independence Day next.

CORNELL PICK OF THE CREWS

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 22.—Cornell has become the favorite in the intercollegiate race that comes next week, notwithstanding the reports that the crew was far behind that of last year.

Columbia is expected to be Cornell's most dangerous foe, with Wisconsin as an unknown quantity.

Pennsylvania does not receive much consideration in the selection, but Coach Ward says that his crew is going considerably faster than a year ago. In a two-mile trial with the freshmen the varsity led by a couple of lengths

BASEBALL GIANTS AGAIN TO-DAY BOXING FITZ TO FIGHT RYAN RACING AND ALL ATHLETICS

Plunger Wins $40,000 On One Race FOUR SPEEDY GOTHAM GIANTS

NEW YORK, June 22.—The magic of Plunger C. Yeager's luck was in evidence as strongly yesterday as it was before the Cincinnati turfman went to Chicago to see Highball, which he backed heavily to win the American Derby.

Two big winnings were credited to Yeager at Sheepshead Bay track, the largest being made over the victory of the Plunger's filly Mimosa, bought by Yeager at the sale of the horses of the Whitney stable at Morris Park. Yeager's commissions on Mimosa were heavy and netted the owner of the mare a sum that was estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000. Yeager's jockey, Hildebrand, who rode Mimosa, also rode the winner of the last race, which Yeager also backed heavily at odds ranging from 8 to 5 and 2 to 1.

JOHN L. WELL RECEIVED.

It was a warm reception John L. Sullivan received at the house of the Tammany Club. The great fighter was introduced by Alderman John Baldwin, and was loudly cheered. An entertainment followed.

M'GRAW. BRESNAHAN.

The BOSTON AMERICAN photographer caught these Giants at the South End Grounds yesterday before the game. Three of the men whose pictures are printed here are well known to Hub fans. They are Johnny McGraw, Roger Bresnahan and Dummy Taylor. The fourth is Wiltse, who is doing good work in the box for the New Yorkers.

TAYLOR.

WILTSE.

RUST WON'T BE ON HARVARD'S TEAM

It was stated by the Harvard athletic authorities this morning that Rust, who was captain of the Harvard track team until succeeded by Schick early this month, would not go to Europe with the international team, which leaves New York for England on July 8.

Dyer, the quarter-miler, has been selected to represent the Crimson in the 440 yard run, so he will go in place of Rust.

The team will start training to-day and will be given all the work they can stand by Trainer John Graham. The team will not go to New York for practice as was originally contemplated, but will do all its training in the Stadium. Hard work will be kept up all next week, and then the team will go to New York and take the steamship for England.

Schick will act as captain of the team, now that it has been decided to leave Rust behind. This is something new in Harvard athletics.

The team went to the training table for the first time this morning.

The second surprise of the day in the announcement of the make-up of the Harvard team for the international track meet was that Harry Le Mayne will not go to England with the team. In the practice work last week his shot putting and hammer throwing showed so much improvement over his work in the dual games, so it was decided after a conference with Captain Cahill, of Yale, to enter only Shea and Sheviin in these field events.

The Crimson team now consists of the following men: Caswell, King, Bird, Schick, Dyer, Ayres, Young and Mugler.

Bookies Fall Into Trap.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Hand book and poolroom men in Chicago and other cities enlisted their losses to-day into the tens of thousands as the result of a sudden and overwhelming coup on the last race at Washington Park.

The race in which Action was the winner was run an hour before the scheduled time. Bets were being taken by the usual pool room and hand book men up to within ten minutes of the scheduled post time at 3 o'clock, when they learned they had been trapped.

The race was run at 4 o'clock, and the result had been quickly communicated to agents in the city and the country, who laid thousands of dollars on the winning horse. The losses throughout the country were estimated as amounting nearly to a quarter of a million dollars.

"DEAL SOLELY TO BETTER OUR CLUB"

—President John I. Taylor

President John I. Taylor, of the Boston American League baseball team, arrived in town this morning, coming direct from Chicago, where he remained after his team had left to talk over some baseball matters with Ban Johnson.

When that all-important subject, the Dougherty deal was fired at him, the genial owner of the Champs smiled and then looked serious.

"You can say for me that the trade of Dougherty to the New Yorks was done for the welfare of the Boston team.

"Captain Collins has been contemplating the matter for several months, as Dougherty's work has not equalled that of the past, and we had a fast fielder in O'Neil, who will prove a better man.

"While we were in St. Louis the deal was made, and when Chicago was reached it had been completed.

"We needed a utility infielder, which was evident when Parent was laid up, and in securing Unglaub the best man available was captured.

"Neither Captain Collins nor myself has any personal feeling in the matter. It is simply a change for the best interests of the team, and by this it is hoped that the team will be greatly benefited.

"O'Neil will have to make good or another man will cover left field. It is not our intention to stop at anything in order to get the strongest possible aggregation of players.

"Ban Johnson had nothing to do with the deal, and he knew nothing about it till the reports came out.

"If President Pulliam, of the National League, has made some derogatory remarks about the deal then it must be his purpose to strike a blow at the American League, as there has never been any idea of allowing a Boston player going to some other club in order to strengthen it.

"Unglaub is entirely recovered from his sprain, as his case was thoroughly investigated before we would consider him, and at present is taking light practice in New York. He will be here the last of the week, when the Bostons return.

"O'Neil was a bit nervous in the first game he played in Chicago, but steadied down afterward, and seems to be all right.

"I enjoyed myself immensely on the trip, and was well received all along the line, getting acquainted with the owners and managers of the different clubs."

DOE WANTS HIS DOUGH BACK.

WORCESTER, June 22.—Trouble has been caused by the refusal of the directors of the Connecticut Baseball League to sanction the sale of five Worcester players to New Bedford, and then transferring the best club to Norwich. Manager Doe of New Bedford had paid $1,000 to Kittredge for the men, and unless he gets the money back or the players will apply for an injunction restraining the men from playing.

ATHLETICS UP AGAINST IT

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—Yesterday's layoff for the Champions did not please Captain Collins any too much, as it means a postponed matinee later in the season, and his crew is on edge now.

All the boys were disappointed that they couldn't get at the Athletics and begin the series in good shape, but the deluge flooded the Parks, and Odd Sox's non-appearance caused the conduct to be declared off till to-day.

Ty Young and Rube Waddell are slated to do the box stunts. Young was to have gone in yesterday and will be done the worse for a lay over.

Waddell would pitch every game, as he likes to get up against the real article in the baseball line.

HARVARD READY TO MEET ELI'S NINE

THE BATTING ORDER.

HARVARD.		YALE.
Carr, 3b.		O'Brien, s.s.
Stephenson, c.		Hubbard, 3b.
Randall, 1b.		Bowman, 2b.
Matthews, s.s.		Miller, c.f.
Flechel, l.f.		Chittenden, 1b.
McCarty, c.f.		Cote, l.f.
Greenough, r.f.		Winslow, c.
Kernan, 2b.		Barnes, r.f.
Coburn, p.		Jackson, p.

All is in readiness at Harvard for to-morrow's big game with Yale. The members of the nine are all feeling in tip-top condition and are prepared to do some hard playing when the National League umpire cries "play ball" at 2 o'clock.

The team remained longer than usual at the training table this morning, the extra time being spent in listening to Head Coach Frants and Captain Carr unfold the plan of to-morrow's battle. Later the team gathered for final practice on Soldier's Field.

While the working out of the men was very light, it was snappy, and the captain and coach were much pleased with the showing made by the members of the nine.

The batting order contains no surprises, but shows that the team is the same one which has represented Harvard all year on Soldiers' Field. A shake-up is pretty near an impossibility at Harvard, because the bench is almost a minus quantity as far as containing any reserve players is concerned.

Quigley, the substitute catcher; Bolton, who has played one game at third, and Castle, the extra pitcher, are the only good men held in reserve, but will be given a chance in the Yale game only in case some of the men are injured or are taken sick.

Graduate Manager Ernst said to-day that as far as the matter of taking care of the great crowd was concerned the preparations were complete. Several extra grandstands have been built. It is expected that between 6,000 and 8,000 people will attend the game, if the day is a bright one. Two hundred of these will be Yale rooters, who will accompany the team from New Haven.

The members of the nine will be given an airing in a sail down the bay this afternoon.

YALE TEAM GETS A GREAT SEND-OFF

NEW HAVEN, Ct., June 22.—Yale's baseball nine got an enthusiastic parting send-off this afternoon when it left for Boston. It is due to arrive on the 7 o'clock train and remain there till to-morrow morning, when it goes to Cambridge to tackle Harvard in the first game of the annual series.

Although Don Mackay pitched a little yesterday, he will not be able to occupy the box. Freshman Jackson, the former Exeter fairtier, being placed on the firing line by Captain Winslow. The nine has picked up considerable courage the past three days, and will make a gallant fight for victory.

Coach Ivy Murphy accompanied the nine to Boston. Mackay went with the team. Bowman goes as the first substitute pitcher, and if for any reason Jackson is obliged to retire, Bowman will face Harvard, and Freshman Wallace will be placed on second base, only a handful of Yale students sent with the team, although probably about 200 will be present at the game. The nine took no practice to-day, its light work yesterday being the last drill in preparation for the game. The players are in much better physical condition than last Saturday, when Princeton whipped them so easily.

COOK SATISFIED WITH YALE CREW

YALE'S CREW HEADQUARTERS, Gale's Ferry, Conn., June 22.—Yale's crew is at the highest point of perfection at the present time and it is doubtful if many more time trials will be taken before the big race is on.

The last time the course was gone over, the time was so satisfactory that Coach Kennedy has dispensed with further attempts to better it.

Poor rowing water has acted as an obstacle and balked the crew in its intention to take a slap at the time for four miles, and only three miles were covered.

In the last few years Yale has reached top form some time before the race, so that it is not giving any alarm just now and the same results are looked for.

According to Coach Kennedy he would prefer to have Captain Cross at stroke, but with Chase going out of the boat, the change was necessary and it was a case of making the best of the situation.

Bob Cook, who still remains at headquarters, seems satisfied with the crew and compares it with winning eights of the past.

Coach Adams has taken Blagden's seat at stroke in the varsity four, because of an injury to the latter's hand. He has occupied the seat for two years, and is eligible again.

The substitutes of the crews of both colleges get a lot of amusement out of racing contests against each other and a final event will come off to-day.

HARVARD'S SLOW STROKE CAUSES SOME CONCERN

HARVARD CREW QUARTERS, Red Top, Conn., June 22.—Hot weather and rough water hold few terrors for the Crimson oarsmen now as they are training as a Harvard crew never did before. After two trips over the regular four-mile course, the men showed no ill effects, but were perfectly willing to rest up after the ordeal. That the condition of the crew is all that could be desired was ascertained by the fine manner in which the long race was finished up.

The horsemanship is not what it should be, as an inclination of some members to shorten the stroke deflected from the smoothness.

On account of rough water no time is taken on the long stretches, but just as soon as favorable conditions prevail the crew will go under the watch.

The low stroke is creating some concern, as it rarely gets above thirty in the four-mile row, but when better conditions allow, the stroke will probably be more snappy.

With the presence of F. L. Higginson, Jr., and E. C. Storrow at the quarters, the men are straining themselves to please, and they give a good impression. Morning practice is indulged in by the freshmen, as their race comes at that time, and they want to get used to the kind of water. Sherman, rowing at No. 3, was badly poisoned by ivy, but it will not effect his rowing.

BUTLER IN FOR MORAN.

Nat Butler will take Jimmy Moran's place in the twenty five-mile team race at Manhattan Beach on Saturday night, as Moran will be busy with Louis Mettling against MacLean and Stinson.

Moran rowed at Manhattan Beach on Saturday night, but was beaten out.

Butler has done a lot of riding in the long distance and is ready for a hard race. MacLean is sorry Moran is not going to ride, as he had figured on taking a fall out of the milkman.

Dr. WILLIAMS

Cures Men

My specialty is treating diseases of men. By special methods I have cured thousands with absolute safety. Many of these have been here. Come and see me. A

VARICOCELE

Quickly cured in 5 to 10 days. No cutting. Method is painless. My

Trade Mark Registered

STRICTURE

treatment dissolves the stricture, allays inflammation, and a permanent cure is effected. The most advanced method of treating is followed without pain. Hundreds who have been given up as incurable

IMPOTENCY OR INABILITY

the symptoms of which are lack of vitality, despondency, pimples, which are loss of manhood, nervousness, etc., are thoroughly and permanently cured. All stages and forms of

SPECIAL DISEASES

cured. All diseases of the kidneys and bladder, no matter what the trouble, receive my most careful attention. Consultation free. Call or write for my

Dr. L. R. Williams
MEDICAL OFFICE 6 WINTER ST. BOSTON
Hours 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Sundays 10 A. M. to 12 M.

DR. HALLOCK
MEDICAL INSTITUTE
The Oldest and Only Reliable
Institute Established 53 Years Ago
For the Cure of

DISEASES OF MEN,

Lost Manhood, Stricture, Varicocele and all Bladder and Kidney Troubles. Private Diseases, Blood Poison. Wasting Discharges stopped in a few days or money refunded.

Call for book and question list for home treatment; sent sealed free.

Office hours, daily, 9 to 5. Sundays, 10 to 1.

HALLOCK MEDICAL INSTITUTE,
510 COURT ST., BOSTON, MASS.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

HOW THE CLUBS STAND.

	W.	L.	P.C.		W.	L.	P.C.
BOSTON	31	17	.667	Phila.	27	26	.509
New York	29	21	.580	St. Louis	25	25	.500
Chicago	30	22	.577	Detroit	23	27	.460
Cleveland	30	22	.541	Washington	9	40	.184

GAMES SCHEDULED TO-DAY.

Boston at Philadelphia.
New York at Washington.
Detroit at St. Louis.
Cleveland at Chicago.

GAMES YESTERDAY.

At Philadelphia—Philadelphia Boston game, postponed; rain.
At Washington—New York 2, Washington 0.
At Chicago—Chicago 2, Cleveland 1.
At St. Louis—Detroit 5, St. Louis 0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

HOW THE CLUB STAND.

	W.	L.	P.C.		W.	L.	P.C.
New York	36	16	.692	St. Louis	25	25	.500
Cincinnati	34	19	.641	BOSTON	21	32	.396
Chicago	31	19	.620	Brooklyn	21	32	.396
Pittsburg	28	25	.528	Philadelphia	12	37	.245

GAMES SCHEDULED TO-DAY.

New York at Boston.
Philadelphia at Brooklyn.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
Pittsburg at Cincinnati

GAMES YESTERDAY.

At Boston—New York 8, Boston 4.
At Brooklyn—Philadelphia 4, Brooklyn 3.
At Cincinnati—Cincinnati 5, Chicago 0.
At St. Louis—Pittsburg 9, St. Louis 6.

WILTSE WILL DO SLAB DUTY TO-DAY

A number of the five fans were driven indoors this morning on account of the sweltering heat. Many of them hied themselves to the billiard room of Quincy House, where Christy Matthewson and Bowerman were giving an exhibition of fancy billiard playing. Both did remarkably well and pleased the fans, who were surprised that both were so handy with the cues.

Mike Sullivan, now a member of the Governor's Council and formerly one of the New Yorks, was down at the hostelry and visited Muggsy McGraw, one of his closest friends in the baseball world. They fanned over old times. Although they never played with the Giants together, the reputation of Big Mike, when he was on the five-line was a matter of tradition, and Johnny McGraw succeeded in getting a knockdown to the Peninsula district boy. That was some years ago. Since then there has been a warm friendship existing between them.

"Why don't you join the baseball ranks again?" inquired Muggsy.

"I'm getting rather old," replied Mike. "That doesn't cut any ice, so long as you can hurl the spheres," countered the New York Manager. "You would certainly make a good Giant, as you certainly have the build."

Wiltse will be used in the box this afternoon against the Giants. He is now pitching the game of his life, and hopes to beat his opponents to a standstill.

Pitcher Dupee, of the Portland, Me., team, has been signed by the New Yorks.

TENNEYITES THINK THEY'RE DUE TO WIN

Those Giants are a hard bunch for any team to buck up against, but they are due to get theirs at the South End stand this afternoon. The round-up for practice after breakfast was sufficient to show that Tenney's gladiators are out for the stuff on this occasion.

With Willy Pittenger on the stump to make figures out of the Giants there will be something doing. Its always a treat to see Pitt work when the opposition looks so ominous. Nothing too big for Pitt to bring down with his boomerang shoots.

Cassidy, a new player, from the Lowell team, put on a uniform and did some practice stunts. Manager Buck is looking him over as a possibility. Shorty Geier could not wait to get into his togs and cracked the sphere out as natural as when wearing the spangles.

N. E. LEAGUE STANDING.

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Lawrence	25	10	.714
Haverhill	25	16	.609
Lowell	23	18	.590
Concord	21	19	.525
Manchester	19	21	.475
New Bedford	17	23	.425
Lawrence	14	25	.359

CONN. LEAGUE STANDING.

	W.	L.	P.C.
Bridgeport	30	12	.714
Norwich	26	13	.667
New Haven	26	16	.619
Hartford	21	21	.500
Meriden	14	26	.350
Springfield	10	32	.238

CLARKSON TO BE PRESENT

Walter Clarkson, ex-captain of the Harvard baseball nine, will make his first appearance before his school-students since he was declared a professional by the Athletic Committee and forced to resign from the team to-night at the Harvard Union. He, as well as all members of last year's baseball team, will be presented with miniature gold baseballs by the Athletic Association of Harvard Graduates.

Though Clarkson was captain of this year's team, he will not respond to the presentation speech of D. S. Dean, '01, who will give the players the baseballs. Carr will do the honors of thanking the graduates for the presents.

LITTLE JOHN L. IN THE WEST

A progressive scrapper, that boy, John L. Sullivan, the lightweight from Bellows Falls, who did a lot of work around here last year, and is known throughout New England as a crack lightweight.

He writes the BOSTON AMERICAN from Chicago that his friends might know where he is, that he is on with Gus Gardner in the semi-windup at the Battery D Club on July 1, when George Gardner and John Willie fight in the main bout.

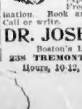
NORWOODS HOLD CUP

NORWOOD, Mass., June 22.—The Norwood High School baseball team holds the silver league cup and the championship of the Norfolk Interscholastic League, which represents the high school ball teams in a number of towns in southern and south western Norfolk county. The Norwood team holds the cup by reason of having won it for three successive years.

This season the Norwood team has won every league game and every exhibition game excepting two, namely those with the Dorchester and Somerville teams. The season for school games has now closed and the high school team's remaining games will be exhibition ones, played with athletic teams in this vicinity.

The game next Saturday will be with the Norwood Baseball Club, a regular adult team. The league cup is now deposited in the library in the main hall of the Norwood High School. It is of solid silver, lined with gold, and stands about twelve inches high.

DISEASES OF MEN



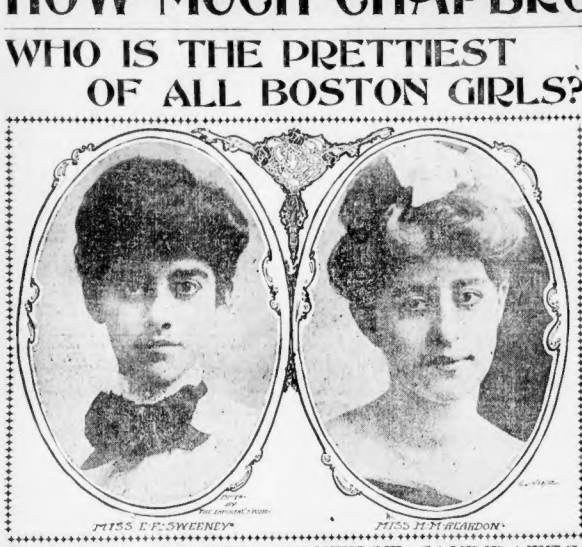
PAY WHEN CURED

is proof that I positively cure the worst cases of Varicocele, Rupture and Stricture by my original treatment, without cutting, pain, blood or detention from business. I treat all diseases of men. 25 years' experience. 2000,000 cures. Free consultation and examination. Book and symptom blank free. Call or write.

DR. JOSEPH GRADY,
Boston's Leading Specialist.
238 TREMONT STREET, BOSTON.
Hours, 10-12, 2-5, 7-8; Sun., 10-12

HOW MUCH CHAPERONAGE DOES A GIRL NEED?

WHO IS THE PRETTIEST OF ALL BOSTON GIRLS?



MISS E. F. SWEENEY. MISS H. M. BLARDON.

TO-DAY'S BEAUTY CONTEST CANDIDATES.

HERE are two more Boston girls, who, it is evident from their photographs, are well qualified to go before the great jury of AMERICAN readers that is to decide the interesting question: "Who Is the Prettiest Girl in Boston?"

Interest in this competition is growing apace, and photographs of beautiful young women of this city are coming in rapidly. They will be published from time to time for the delectation of the readers of the AMERICAN. All the charming Boston girls who feel that their claims to the foremost place in the contest ought to be recognized should send their photographs to the AMERICAN at once, so that the friendly and discriminating jury may get an early opportunity to pass upon their pretty features.

THE STEPMOTHER;

OR, TWO LITTLE SAILOR BOYS.

ADAPTED FROM WALTER HOWARD'S PLAY, "TWO LITTLE SAILOR BOYS."

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

"Well, then, I'll tell you. My name's Timothy Tweedle. I'm a waterman born, as you'd know yourself by the out of 'em if you was one yourself. I'm waitin' around here in hopes of ketching some of the sailors that are having a little spree on shore, and rowing 'em in my boat back to their ship."

"Huh! So that's it?"

"That's it, Mister. Wouldn't you like to go for a little spell across the sound yourself? A quarter an hour and a dime extra if the boat gets upset. Now that you know all about me, suppose you tell me about yourself, old cockalorum."

This with a facetious poke in the ribs.

"Look out what you're doin', Jim Royston's hand went to the hilt of his ready knife. "You want to know something about me, did you say?"

"Yes, collie, yup." Another facetious thrust in the neighborhood of the sixth rib that brought a snort from Jim Royston.

"Who are you anyways?"

"Oh, I'm nobody."

"He! he! he!" Again the whiskered man bent forward in an ecstasy of mirth. "You are one, you are, you are!"

"Is he drunk?"

"Naw, worse than that; he's crazy."

The whiskered man trembled as Jim Royston stepped with his hand on the door knob.

"What's the matter, man? You're shaking like a leaf."

"It's fear for my third shake. I always shake three times a day. Was the rich Royston murdered?"

There was a noise within. Bilsker, the landlord of the Black Dog, was pushing the windows rattle with his commands.

"Every one you get back to your ship."

"Not till I've found Benjamin. It was Jack Jolly I was after."

"That's the chap," said Jim Royston.

"Yes, that's what I thought. You don't mind me. I'm going to shake again."

Bilsker's voice came from a room.

The door flew open.

"Now, then, you go."

Bilsker's voice, and Jack Jolly followed it impetuously into the outer darkness.

Jim Royston, with a laugh, disappeared into the house. Jack Jolly picked himself up and eyed the whiskered stranger. Minding his dignity, he brushed himself against a bogshead.

"Where is he?" he demanded.

"Who?"

"Benjamin. I'll have his blood."

"Benjamin! The strange shaking continued. "I know him, I wouldn't, Mr. Sailor. He might want it."

"Do you know him?"

"Who?"

"Benjamin?"

"No, no. I don't know him. I wouldn't know him. The stranger answered with what seemed intense conviction.

"He robbed me of my sweetheart, Lucy."

"Has he?" The stranger stepped back, eyed a little nervously the knife in Jack's hand. "He ought to be pulverized or flattened," he thought to himself. Jack clutched wildly at an imaginary throat.

"I would," said the stranger, backing off. "I'll shout him. Jack pointed an imaginary knife.

"So would I, in the lay."

"I'll help."

"No, no." Don't go so far as that. Strength and skill don't always settle the bout, but don't kill him."

Jack sighed with eyes, looked past the stranger.

"If I could only get near him. If could only see him in front of me as I see you now."

"Yes."

"Do you see this knife?" Jack drew a long sailor's knife from his pocket.

"Yes." The stranger's knees quaked.

"I'd plunge it into his discard like this." Jo's plunged the gleaming knife down wards, but, mind me." The man's knees knocked together like castanets. "I belong to the Shakers."

"I'd grab him like this." Jack Jolly pinioned the whiskered man's arms.

"I'd take him by the whiskers."

The stranger made a feint in Jack's hand.

"Benjamin."

"Yes, yes." The stranger fell upon his knees. "I won't deny it. I'm Benjamin."

"Have you robbed me of Lucy?"

"No, no! Let me go and say good-bye to her now. I'll come back to be killed. I'll take my oath I will."

Jack clutched his rival's throat with one hand and with the other drew the long knife back and forth across his trousers legs to sharpen it.

"You're going to die now."

"No, Jack, no!" Benjamin Baxter writhed in his effort to free himself. "Never let it be said that an American sailor took advantage of a man when he was unarmed. Give me the knife and let us fight it out on equal terms."

Jack reflected, bold and meditated. As an acquaintance is refection he leaned against the wall.

"Then I would be unarmed. I've only got one knife," he said.

"Would you? So you would. I never thought of that. Then let us wait until to-morrow—till we've both got knives."

"Till to-morrow?"

"Yes, to-morrow. We're friends to-night. To-morrow we fight."

"Right."

"Shake hands."

Jack's anger faded into a smile as a mist disappears before the sun. The men warmly each other's hands.

"Come and have a drink," Benjamin said, affably. "Hello! A cab is coming this way. That's strange. And a lady getting out of it. That's stranger still. Jack, as I live, it's the Admiral's wife."

CHAPTER XXVI.

"I Left You for Dead."

A WOMAN in a long, dark cloak stepped from the cab, paid the cabman and dismissed him. After the cab had rattled away she stood for a moment looking about as though to assure herself that she was in the right place.

Benjamin, with whiskers restored, and a respectful mien, stepped forward and bowed as he addressed him with an obsequious forehanger.

"Lucy, pardon, Miss. Was you looking for a boarding house?"

"No, I am looking for a sailors' hotel, called the Black Dog."

With his thumb Benjamin pointed over his shoulder at the house, whence issued the drunken voices raised in the chorus of a sailor song.

"You're standing right above it, Miss, it's an ugly place for a pretty young lady like you to go to at this time of night."

"Are you the man I was told about?" I'm used to it." The fine inflection of Miss Lucy's voice was gone. She spoke in a rapid, expulsive manner, and eyed Benjamin with open suspicion.

"Oh, I'm Timothy Tweedle, the boat man."

"All right, my man!" Mrs. Grey handed him a gold piece. "Here's enough for you to get drunk with, but choose another place."

"Thank you, ma'am. Thank you!" Benjamin touched his oilskin helmet thrice. "I'll be lost and blind in half an hour, Miss. Lord bless you, ma'am! Good night!"

The door opened. For an instant Mrs. Grey's dark figure stood in the doorway, the target of the bloodshot eyes of twenty drunken sailors and more things that intensed the water front. Then she went within. She inquired for Bilsker the landlord of the house of his guests.

"I'll send for him," said Bilskers, and she passed into a room.

Outside a boy was leading Noel Tregarthen to the door of the Black Dog.

"This is it, Cap'n," he said.

"Thank you, Tom. I suppose Benjamin's inside?"

"Yes, sir." The voice was at his elbow in the darkness. "Sure, Benjamin's out here."

The two withdrew further from the house and whispered together in confidence.

"What have you found out?" asked Tregarthen.

Benjamin indicated the house with a thumb. "Out of his hands, sir, I've done the deed."

"The man who robbed the Admiral's safe is in there."

"I know that."

Benjamin's lower jaw betokened his belief in strength.

"How the dickens did you find that out?"

"I never asked. What else do you know?"

"She's there, too."

"Who?"

"Mrs. Admiral."

"Is possible?"

Benjamin grinned and rattled the coin in his pocket.

"Well, if it ain't her it's her ghost and ghosts don't give a man a half a dollar and tell him to go and get drunk."

Tom's eyeful grew opened wider, as though he beheld a terrifying object, unseen of the rest, looming out of the night. The adamantine fingers quivered as he clutched his ragged jacket. He searched Captain Tregarthen's face in an agony of apprehension.

"What does he say? Is it true that the lady is there?"

"Yes. Now come in and take us straight to Hester's room."

"But—the lady?"

"Well?"

"You won't do her any harm?"

Noel Tregarthen stopped and peered ominously into the quivering white face.

"Who's what difference does that make to you?"

The boy stopped and looked at his companion with dogged eyes. He was immovable, as though he had taken root in the ground beneath him.

"Just this, that I won't take another step if you're going to do her any harm."

"No, no." Noel Tregarthen's tone was reassuring. "We will do her no harm."

"On, now? he looked up, will she?"

"No. There was a bitter accent in the young officer's laugh. "Bad as she is, I don't think she has done anything to earn such her up for."

"No." Benjamin's voice made dubious echo. "For breaking a man's either or half the women in the United States would be in jail."

"Then I'll take you, sir."

Again Noel Tregarthen's keen glance read the child's face, penetrated his troubled soul.

"In second thought, Tom, I believe I shall go alone."

"Why, sir?" The small voice trembled with anxiety.

"Why should I drag you into danger?" So fervent was the grasp upon its coffee, my that none of the trio noticed the advent of a tall man with a military figure, a lonely, eagle like face and prematurely whitened hair, a man who stopped to note them the way, but courteously waited that he might not interrupt the speech.

"I will take the risk." went on Noel Tregarthen, "because I am fighting for my own honor."

"And I with take the risk." the stranger spoke in a voice like the deep tones of an organ, "for the sake of old times. Noel Tregarthen."

He stretched forth his hand and a smile lent a mocking irony to the sad, stern face.

"Mr. Cook! Tony Yorke! Why, man, I left you for dead."

CHAPTER XXVII.

"I'd Rather Go with You."

THE men clasped hands and looked into each other's eyes in a long silence.

"Man, the undemonstrative animal, is always ashamed to reveal his joy or sorrow to another of his own sex. In times of deep emotion speech deserts him. In this instance Tony Yorke was the first to recover the faculty.

"You, every one thought so." His smile was grim. "And so also which the joy of the sudden meeting with an old friend had driven from his face returned. "Death and I must postpone our joyful meeting a little longer. There is still a flicker of life in me and fanned it up, Noel."

"My dear boy, I can't say how glad—I think you understand."

Ashamed of the tremor in his voice, Noel asked the most matter-of fact ques tion.

"When did you land?"

"Just in time to be sad, stern fate."

"You must tell me."

"Not now, Tregarthen. You must tell me first. Have you found my boy?"

"Not yet."

"And no trace of his mother?"

"None."

"But the man Royston?"

"Yes. But we must hope, old chap."

"Hope? Yes, that's what's keeping me alive in my darkness. The door in here invaded the house, and given me a year to live. Noel, I've been a dying man these two years, but no longer."

The tall, military figure turned its back from the little group. The sad face was hidden. Noel Tregarthen's eyes searched the dark sea of the water for a single light. Small fingers plucked at Tom Yorke's coat. A boyish voice offered him consolation.

"I know a lot of boys without fathers and mothers. I'll help you find your boy, sir."

The stern face took on a strange tenderness as it looked down upon the small, wistful figure. This small night but of a great city.

"Will you, little fellow?" His voice had a woman's tenderness. "Thank you. What is your name?"

"Tom."

"Tom! That was my boy's name." He placed his hand gently on the child's shoulder. "You remind me of my little boy, Dr. Tregarthen."

The man's voice shook with emotion uncontrollable.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Beatrice Fairfax Discusses the Question and Asks for Opinions of Readers on the Subject.

By Beatrice Fairfax.

A SHORT time ago I received the following letter from a young man:

I am twenty-two years of age and am keeping company with a young lady three years my junior about a year. I am living in the city and my lady friend lives a little way from the city, about an hour's ride. Generally when we go out during the week to the theatres or places of amusement she comes to the city to meet me, either at my house or at some railroad station, because it is impossible for me to get to her home early enough to get back to the city in time. Now, what I want to ask you is: Do you think it is proper for this young lady to meet me at the places I have mentioned? Her parents have nothing against it, as far as I know. If she would not do this we could not go out together so often.

HELPLESS.

My answer was as follows:

Considering the circumstances, I think it quite proper for her to meet you at your home or at the station. I suppose her parents know she comes into town to go to the theatre with you. I do not approve of a young girl being out so late at night as she must be if she has an hour's ride home after the play. Why not take her less frequently and ask her mother or sister to go along, too? I know that young people like to get off by themselves when they are interested in each other, but young girls cannot have too much protection, and if you love her it is your duty to take the best of care of her.

A reader of the paper takes exception to the answer. He says:

"My advice to this young man is; if he has any gratitude, love or respect for the girl he will not under any consideration allow the girl to meet him anywhere. It is his place to escort her both to and from home, as any gentleman should do. This young lady has no right to leave her home without him when she has any engagement with him, and I think Miss Fairfax has made quite a mistake in her advice to him.

H. A. R."

I am sorry that "H. A. R." thinks I have made a mistake.

If these young people are to go out together at all it is necessary that the girl should come to town to meet the young man.

He probably works until six, then has to go home, dress and eat his dinner. If, after all this, he were to go an hour's journey to call for the girl, they would be so late that there would be little object left in going to the theatre or any place of amusement.

As a rule I am absolutely averse to young girls meeting men outside their own homes or those of their friends.

In this case the circumstances seem a little different. The friendship is of a year's standing, and is sanctioned by the girl's parents, who allow her to come to town to meet her friend.

The real question is, I think, "Is it proper that she should be out until so late an hour, as she must be when she has an hour's journey home after the play?"

Girls cannot be too carefully chaperoned. As long as they have fathers, mothers and brothers there is no reason why they should not generally be under the care of one of the three when it comes to a question of late hours.

Girls sometimes fuss and fret over being too carefully watched over by their parents.

I tell you, girls, that you can't be too carefully looked after.

The girl who is fortunate enough to have a brother who makes it his business to protect her name, to see that she knows the right kind of men, is indeed fortunate.

I do not mean to imply that a girl should never be allowed to see her men friends alone; that would be ridiculous; young people would never grow to know each other in those circumstances. But I do think they should not be allowed to keep late hours unchaperoned.

Of course no man with a spark of gallantry or even common politeness allows a girl to go home alone at night, so part of "H. A. R.s" advice is unnecessary.

As to whether in all circumstances it is necessary that a man should call for the girl, that is open to opinion.

As a rule it is considered proper that when a man invites a girl out to spend the evening he should call for her.

But circumstances can always alter cases, and in this case I consider that if the girl went out with the man at all it was not improper that she should meet him at his mother's house or at the station.

I would like the opinion of some of our readers on this matter.

It is a subject on which most people have strong theories. I would like to know. Do they agree with me or with "H. A. R."?

A Too Ethereal Princess.

BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.

The role of fairy queen does not seem to entirely satisfy the Princess of Monaco. Perhaps she would have preferred to receive fewer honors at the hands of her subjects and a little more affection from her husband.

Unfortunately for wishes have not been realized, and her divorce from the Prince will be one of the society events of the near future. As a matter of fact, she has been virtually separated from her husband for more than two years.

The Princess of Monaco, widow, before her second marriage, of the Duke de Richelieu, was born a "Heine," and as such is of Jewish origin. This and fragile looking, with light golden-colored hair, she has quite an ethereal appearance.

Only a man possessed of a temperament tinged with mysticism could thoroughly appreciate her, and it can hardly be said that the Prince of Monaco possesses this quality of mind. He seems to understand yachts and submarine monsters better than feminine hearts.

This is the sole reason of his disappointments, and proves once more the truth of La Fontaine's utterance:

"Riches and pleasure do not give happiness."

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been keeping company with a young lady for two years and am very fond of her, but my mother has always been against me on account of his age. I am twenty-one and am seventeen, but I cannot give him up, as I love him with all my heart and soul. What I wish to know is whether I should obey my mother or not.

R. D.

If you really love him and your mother's only objection to him is his age, I think it would be best for you to marry him. But you are very young, you know, and your mother should be the best judge of what your friends should be. Have you had better talk it all over with her and find out just what her objections are and then act accordingly. If she knows that you had better talk it all over with her and find out just what her objections are and then act accordingly. If she knows him to be a good, but I don't know if I would be doing right or wrong on account of my age.

ANXIOUS.

You are very young to marry, and I do not know that matrimony will cure the young man's jealousy. A jealous husband is not very satisfactory. Why do you give him cause for jealousy? If so take my advice and try and help him conquer the miserable feeling by giving him no cause for it. If I were you I would wait a year or so before marrying. You are both too young.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl and I want to go on the stage. Will you please tell me how I can get a position in a good company? I am very pretty. I think I have talent for the stage—at least I have been told so by some of my friends. I am fond of it and I will be very much obliged to you for your candid advice.

MARIE GOODE.

My dear girl, have you any idea of what going on the stage means? There is no profession which requires such hard work. When you see a girl dancing prettily, singing or dancing to the applause of the audience, you imagine that it is all like that. It is not all like that by any means. Those girls have to work long and hard to make even the smallest kind of a success. Singing and reciting that sound very well in private life would not do at all in public. You need training. The public does not pay to hear amateur singing. No actress ever advises a girl to go on the stage. Stay at home, dear girl, and be content with home life.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

There is a young man boarding at my house and I fell in love. He loves me, but I do not love him. My parents like this young man very much and are always urging me to go out with him, and what I want to know is this. Should I tell this young man that I do not love him or go out with him to please my parents?

ANXIOUS.

TELL him that you do not love him, but if he cares to have you go with him on a visit you will be glad to go. I am sure your parents would not want you to marry a man you did not love.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Not long ago I was going down street, and accidentally dropped my purse. A young gentleman about nineteen picked me the trouble of stooping for it, and kindly handed it to me. Now whenever we meet he always speaks to me. Do you think I would be doing right or wrong in speaking to him? I will tell you that he is very handsome and your mother would not like me to speak to him. I am only seventeen and would appreciate your advice very much.

ANXIOUS.

IT IS NOT rude in a woman to refuse to talk with a young man if she does not care to. It is her privilege.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a married woman. I will be married three years in July. I have a little girl when I married. My parents were dead, and my aunt dared me to do it. I loved my husband, but he loves me and I try to make him happy. He thinks I love him. I am very unhappy, and it is killing me. I am so afraid he will find it out. I do not love him! I hate to have to on account of my child.

D. F.

NO. Try to love him. You must not be lenient to yourself. You have done wrong and must suffer for it. You owe it both to your husband and your child. I am sorry for you; but I know that I am right, and you will be thankful if you do. Forget yourself. Living for others brings a sure reward.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you kindly enlighten my mind as to what course I should pursue to avoid the trouble I am about to put before you? I am a young man of twenty-one and work in a downtown office. I happen to be living next door on either side of me, and I feel quite annoyed at times trying to study when they are at it. Should I persist in teasing me. They are both decent girls in love with me, and I think they are charming. Now, what I want to know is how I can avoid hurting them both. You will help a poor chap by giving your advice through the AMERICAN columns.

MISERABLE MIKE.

YOU can't avoid loving both. But you must not let either fall in love with you, because you would be then a cause of grief. You must not cause anybody to grieve.

A DAINTY JUNE BRIDE.

BRIDAL GOWN OF WASH NET.

"HAPPY is the bride the sun shines on." June is the month of roses and brides—two very sweet productions. Every bride wants to wear a white gown and veil if possible. Here is a bridal gown that is at once pretty and cheap. It can be made by the bride's own fingers, and as pretty as tulle and is not nearly as expensive.

It is made of wash net or organdie muslin (either can be bought at 25 cents a yard), and is made with a fichu, so that afterward the robe can be taken out and it will make a pretty evening gown. The veil is of very fine net. It will look quite well if only one net is used. Quite the newest trimming for dressed silks are the pinked ruching of same or plain color.

The full skirt is one of the season's latest styles, having a narrow front gore and all the fullness in the side gores. The shaped bands are only a suggestion of trimming, as plain, "ruffled-fold" ruffles or ruching might be used.

Hints for Housewives

HOUSE FLIES may be effectually destroyed by the use of the following mixture: Take half a spoonful of black pepper in powder, one teaspoonful of brown sugar and one teaspoonful of cream. Mix them well together and place them on a plate in a room where the flies are trouble some, and they will very soon disappear.

A pleasant household deodorizer is made by pouring spirits of lavender over lumps of bicarbonate of soda.

A teaspoonful of mustard to a gallon of water will destroy vermin in the earth.

Sprinkle whole cloves or salt on your pantry shelves, if troubled with ants.

Salt dissolved in alcohol is often found to be a good thing to remove grease spots from cloth.

It is said that hot milk will take out any kind of fruit stain. Sometimes boiling water will remove them.

Paint spots on glass may be removed by rubbing with alcohol and a soft cloth, or by the use of salerstus water in the same way.

Home Decoration.

DESPITE all the discussions as to whether women are or are not as clever as men, there is one fact that remains unchanged—the happiest woman on earth is the one who makes a success of her home. An attractive home is woman's greatest triumph. No amount of male intelligence or good will can make up for the lack of her efforts in that direction. Many delight to her husband and comfort to her women fiends is the maker of a cosy home. It is not always the result of a neat and prim housewife; it is the true artist who has, perhaps, received the highest education that achieves success in the direction. When ambitious women declare that they could not endure a domestic life, it is evident that they do not understand the art of being domestic.

In it there is scope for the display of every talent and artistic taste. Take the case of arranging flowers, for example. Few women have any idea of the possibilities in that line. The same bunch of flowers would be hardly recognizable at the hands of different women. By the way, speaking of flowers reminds me of the clever idea which the Japanese have on this subject, instead of adding a few sprays of green to a bunch of flowers they fill the vase with green and add a few flowers here and there. The contrast is much less and the effect perfectly charming. Two pennyworth of asparagus green and four sprays of anthemums would make a huge floral display in a large dining room. Greens are always delightfully refreshing, and I often wonder why it is used so sparingly in English banquets. Every one is consciously or unconsciously affected by the cheerfulness of a room. Flowers have a potent charm of their own, and a few pennyworth will last a week if properly cared for. The best way is to remove them at night to a cool place. If that is impracticable, keep them away from the direct rays of gas or electric light. Cut the stems each morning, singe the cut ends, and replace them in fresh water.

At the Races.

"Dar ain' no sympathy at a race track," said Uncle Eben. "De man dat bets his money den' deserve it, an' de bookmaker don' need it."—Washington Star.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

Ladies' Costume.

In the design shown here we have the same pretty quaintness that distinguishes all the season's models. The waist, which is on the regular shirt waist lines, is elevated by a deep collar, which comes well down over the shoulder and forming a wide effect in the front. This collar affords a place for one to display one's originality in trimming. The circular frills with rounded ends may be edged with pink ruching or may be braided or finished with narrow ecl lace ruffles. Any of the above would make pretty decorations for a checked taffeta, wash silk or light-weight wool dress. Quite the newest trimming for dressed silks are the pinked ruching of same or plain color.

The full skirt is one of the season's latest styles, having a narrow front gore and all the fullness in the side gores. The shaped bands are only a suggestion of trimming, as plain, "ruffled-fold" ruffles or ruching might be used.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail a pattern of either the waist or skirt on receipt of 10 cents, or both on receipt of 20 cents, to cover all cost of handling, etc.

All orders should be directed to HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 2329, Boston, Mass.

Kindly write name and address plainly.

Waist No. 6139—Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure.

Skirt No. 6148—Sizes for 20, 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure.

No. .....

Size .....

Name .....

Address .....

3 SCHOOLBOYS TO BE PICKED TO-DAY

Hearst St. Louis Team to Be Filled by Settling Ties at Stadium.

THIS afternoon at the Charlesbank playgrounds the three boys will be selected to complete the team of twenty Public School Athletes whom Congressman William Randolph Hearst will take to the St. Louis Fair to compete in the games to be held there on July 4, 5 and 6.

Two of the three boys will be selected after a contest in the 220-yard dash and the other after the high jump. Masters Mann, Casey and Lincoln have been very careful in making up the team, and it is believed that the Boston boys will be able to give the other competitors from the cities of the United States a "good run for their money."

All of the boys are working hard every afternoon and endeavoring to beat all of their previous records. This Landseman, of the English High, was able to do yesterday in the hand jump. This promising young athlete succeeded in covering a distance of twenty feet.

Hopes to Better It.

This, athletes say, is very fine business, and the young man expects to do even better by the time of the start for the Fair. Within a few days all the arrangements will be published in the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Of the greatest interest and benefit to the boys who are training for the St. Louis competition will be the following article on "Putting the Shot":

By L. E. J. Feuerbach,

American, Canadian and Metropolitan Champion, 1903.

Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner.

AT all athletic games of any prominence will be found among the field events the putting of the shot.

This contest has become popular because it is not confined to any particular class of men. A short man, with training, has the opportunity of becoming as good as the tall man, or the middle weight as good as his heavier rival. It is a mistake to imagine that it is brute strength that makes a shot putter. It is not. It is rather a combination of training and head work, studying of effects of movement. In learning to put the shot it must be done from the feet up. The principal thing to learn is the accurate movement of the feet and legs within the circle.

Get the Combination.

In acquiring the three steps or shifts which comprise the leg action it is not necessary to use a shot or do any actual putting.

Get the combination of movement down accurately first.

First stand at the back of the ring on the left of the right foot, about a foot too to balance with. The right hand should be close up to the shoulder, elbow well in to side. Having made up your mind that you are prepared, take a side step forward of about two and a half feet. This will bring the left toe well up to the mark, with the right leg about two feet behind the knee, well bent. Without hesitating make a quick right turn of the body, reversing the position of the feet by a lightning shift. At the same time that this shift is being made and the body is coming around, shoot the right leg well forward and upward at an angle of 44 or 45 degrees. The arm movement should be timed so that its complete extension will occur at the same time as the shoulders are reversed.

This motion is the secret of success in shot putting, and must be practised assiduously with two objects in view: one to acquire speed in the combination and the other to finish the feet as close to the footboard as possible.

Be Careful of Style.

In making the foot movements take care that the feet are not lifted from the ground, as it has a tendency to transform the arm motion into an overhead throw instead of a "put" in an upward direction.

As soon as the athlete thinks he has got the various motions down to a fine point he may commence handling the shot. This should be held in front of his shoulder, with the elbow well in.

Don't try right away to make records, but be sure that every one is made in perfect style. Distance will come later. In practice it is well not to put the shot more than a dozen times in one day; rather do a little work with it every day.

Should the arm and shoulder become tired it is wise to stop, for these muscles are delicate ones, and in a weakened condition are liable to a strain.

There are many ways in which the arms and legs can be assisted for this event. Light dumbbells and chest machines worked with movements similar to the "put" will strengthen without injuring the pliability of the body muscles, while jumping with weights and skipping the rope will materially increase the ability of the leg muscles for the shift.

Good Nerves Essential.

There is one thing that I would like to impress on the shot putter who is after a championship, and that is that at this game "he who hesitates is lost." When once he starts to go he must complete the series of leg and arm movements, which terminate in the shot being delivered into the air.

Everything must fit in and add to the impetus. A halt would mean the loss of previous motion, and consequently of the final momentum.

I would advise all athletes who wish to excel at this sport that if they expect to have complete control over the nerves which command the limbs, smoking and drinking must be avoided. Alcohol should be taken of the stomach; a bad one takes the life out of a man. The muscles should be kept warm; cold muscles won't work in the way they are desired by the brain.

If any athlete is trying to attain championship form in a way which is not in conformity with the suggestions herein laid down he would do well to start all over again, and learn the movements I have described and which won me many championships last year.

This method is also the one used by Gray, Horgan and Beck, who have held successively many records at putting the shot.

MISS FOX'S LAST SONG RECITAL MONDAY NEXT

Miss Blanche Hamilton Fox will give a farewell song recital Monday evening, June 27, at 8.15, at William L. Whitney's International School of Music, No. 240 Huntington, corner Massachusetts avenue.

Miss Fox sails for Europe about the first of August to continue her studies in grand opera.

LABOR

THE lockout of 55,000 garment workers which is in force in New York today, is not likely to end soon. It continues immediately, although every trade union meeting in the city last night passed the following resolution:

Whereas, The sweat-shop system still exists in this and other large cities, and is a menace to this country, and which has been condemned by pulpit and press;

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to hereafter purchase only union label clothing, and persistently urge by committees and by individual effort our dealers to provide the same.

Although the Boston locals have pledged themselves to respond in a call for a sympathetic strike should one be issued from headquarters of the Garment Workers' Union in New York, it is not think Boston will be involved in the present difficulty.

Frank Label Secretary Tobin of the local District Council, No. 9, to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

"The manufacturers in this city have not yet declared themselves in favor of the open shop, and it would be unreasonable to expect us to rebel against our employers when everything is coming our way.

"The Boston union has been notified that all cutters and tailors in New York have quit work, but the members of the local union are against a strike because of the favorable conditions that obtain here.

Last night the number of men out in New York was 50,000. To-day this had been increased to 45,000.

This is the busy season in the tailoring trade, and the strike leaders say the manufacturers will be compelled to submit to the demands for the "closed shop," which, if interpreted, means the employment of union members only.

M'HALE REINSTATED.

At the meeting of the Barbers' Union, held last night, the official communication from the international reinstating Martin McHale as president of the organization, was read by the secretary. The communication was as follows:

Charles E. O'Donnell, Esq.

Dear Sir and Brother—You are hereby officially informed that the general executive board of the J. B. I. U. of America has unanimously voted that Brother Martin McHale has been illegally removed from office, and in the face of all the evidence which proves conclusively that Brother McHale and McAvoy were equal owners of the barbers' fixtures in question.

The members of the general executive board, whose decision in final, vote that Brother McHale be reinstated to the office of president by Local Union 182 at their next regular meeting following the receipt of this official notice. Trusting that this will be the end of this trouble, I am,

Yours fraternally,

FRANK H. NOSCHANG,

General International President.

Union politics will go to the front in the union, and President McHale was not permitted to be in office after he had been duly elected. His appeal to the executive board was sustained, but even then the union refused to recognize him and a second appeal was taken. It was claimed that he was an employer and therefore not entitled to hold office.

14 NEW MEMBERS.

Fourteen new members have been added to Boston Electrical Workers' Union 104, and the report of the Organizing Committee was to the effect that the work of organizing the linemen of the city is meeting with great success.

Arrangements are being made to celebrate the growth of the union by giving a banquet. All linemen and members of the union will be invited to this meeting.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

The new officers elected by Boston Gilders' Union, L. 6026, at the meeting held last night, are: Daniel H. Farren, president; vice-president, Jonathan Atkinson; recording secretary, John J. McGrath; financial secretary, John J. Quinn; treasurer, James D. Mahon.

TALKS TO WOODWORKERS.

Miss Mary Lutz, of Gloversville, N. Y., who is in the city in the interests of the striking glove makers of Gloversville, N. Y., addressed the meeting of Woodworkers' Union 24 last night. When she concluded the union purchased a number of tickets to the concert in the Hub Theatre on Saturday, July 9.

PHOTO-ENGRAVERS MEET.

The National Association of Photo-Engravers is holding a three-day convention in St. Louis, where the national electrotypers are also holding an annual session in that city. Charles H. Wolfman, of Cleveland, presided at the convention of photo-engravers. Both organizations will continue in convention three days.

MEN FIGHT FIRMLY.

The striking street car conductors and motormen of the Templeton Street Railway continues. The men are making a firm stand for the odd rate of wages and are conducting an opposition bus line between Garland's corner and East Templeton. Working men in particular refuse to ride on the street cars while the strike is in progress.

W. E. Barrett, of Boston, owner of the road, has hired six non-union men, who with Superintendent Hamilton and manager Bodeke, are running four cars, one on the Athol line and two on the Baldwinsville branch.

BAYONET RULE STILL ON.

General Bell continues to rule the Cripple Creek mining district in Colorado. The Portland mine, which was closed down on his orders because employment was being given to union men has reopened with a penal force of forty. The Findley Construction, which decides who may live and work in the district, met at the Portland to pass upon application for employment.

600 OUT OF WORK.

Six hundred mill operatives will be thrown out of work in Lowell as a result of the announcement that the Middlesex woolen mills there will shut down Friday for several weeks. The company management says repairs are needed, which cannot be made while the mills are running. It is also between seasons and business is of a character that does not warrant manufacturing goods at the present rate of raw material.

LABOR MEETINGS TO-NIGHT.

Carriage and Wagon Workers, at Machinists' Hall, No. 887 Washington street.

Carpenters' Union No. 67, at Roxbury Hall, No. 67 Warren street, Roxbury.

Carpenters' Union No. 841, at No. 622 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

Carpenters' Union No. 1554 (Hebrew), at Swartz Hall, Leverett street.

Electrical Workers' Union No. 103, at Wells Memorial.

Electrical Finishers' Union No. 109, at No. 45 Bromfield street.

Housesmiths' Union No. 89, at Machinists' Hall, No. 887 Washington street.

Hoisting Engineers' Union No. 4, at Steinert Hall.

Lathers' Union, at Wells Memorial.

Metal Polishers' Union No. 33, at Redmen's Hall, No. 33 Bromfield street.

Pattern Makers, at No. 724 Washington street.

Plumbers' Union No. 12, at Wells Memorial.

Stonecutters' Assembly No. 1626, K. of L., at No. 45 Eliot street.

LABOR NOTES.

Carpenters' Union No. 67, Roxbury, will observe its nineteenth anniversary tonight with an entertainment and ball in Dudley Opera House, Washington street, Roxbury.

Bakers' and Waiters' Union No. 80 will hold its election to-night at Pythian Temple, Berkeley street, corner Broadway. The polls will be open from 7 to 9 p. m.

The Executive Council of the Boston Central Labor Union will meet this evening at Wells Memorial.

The annual international convention will be elected at the meeting of Cigarmakers' International Investigation Hall, No. 9 Appleton street, Friday night. The fellers will also report on the recent election.

WEDDINGS YESTERDAY

KNOX—BRADWAY—In the Grace Congregational Church at South Framingham, Miss Ruth Niles Bradway was married to Chester Wight Knox, of Winchester, by the pastor, Rev. Charles H. Daniels.

BARTLETT—BROWN—The wedding of Miss Susan H. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Brown, to Attorney Charles H. Bartlett was at the Harvard Congregational Church. The couple will live at No. 50 Willow street, Wollaston, after October 7.

BURGESS—ROY—In the North Church, Newton, Miss Winona W. Roy, of Watertown, became the bride of Leslie A. Burgess. The couple will be at home after the 1st of July.

CLARKSON—MOUAT—Miss Hall, Dorchester, was filled to overflowing at the wedding of Miss Lydia Jaconia to Samuel Horatio. The wedding took place at 8 p. m. in St. Louis.

JONES—SEPP—Miss Margaretta D. Sepp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noel B. Sepp, and Frederick Joseph Rosbury were married under an arch of flowers at the home of the bride's parents, 1 Berwick street, Dorchester.

OLIVER—NOLAN—In St. John's Chapel, North Cambridge, Miss Margaret A. Nolan was made the wife of Clarence Oliver.

PHILLIP—AMRIT—At the house of Mr. and Mrs. L. Amrit, Elmo street, Dorchester, Miss Bertha L. Amrit was married to Mr. Phillip by Rev. Mr. Shuster.

SAYE—MYERS—Miss Jennie Myers was united in marriage to Mr. Louis the couple will reside in Arlington.

SAYE—MYERS—Miss Jennie Myers and Herman Levy were married to Julia Ward Howe Hall, by Rabbi Solomon Schindler. The bride was given away by her father, Louis Myers.

SILVERMAN—ROSE—Miss Rose Silverman and Harriet Mosel and Hyman Myer, Mr. and Mrs. Myer will live in Boston.

BREED—THOMSON—The marriage of Miss Effie C. Thomson and Dr. Nathaniel Breed took place at 141 Broadway, Lynn. Rev. C. W. Nichol, of the Central Church, officiated. The couple will be at home after the 1st of July.

WHITNEY—STILLMAN—Only the immediate relatives were present at the wedding of Miss Estelle Stillman, daughter of the late Captain and Mrs. Charles A. Stillman, to Robert Whitney, son of Lawrence street, Winchester. Rev. J. W. Suter, of the Church of the Redeemer, officiated.

FROM SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

Graduation exercises commence to-day in the Boston grammar and high schools.

The classes of 90 and 04 have held class day exercises in Charlestown High School.

At the Worcester State Normal School only one class was in the class of history, that of 1904.

A class of 241 pupils has been graduated at Smith College, 120 of whom are residents of New England.

The commencement exercises of Hendren College have been held in Memorial Hall of the college at Roxbury, Me.

A meeting of the alumni opened the class day exercises at Williams College. Four survivors of the class of '44 were present.

The graduation exercises of Cambridge Latin School have been held in the hall of the school. The diplomas were presented by Mayor Daly.

The eleventh annual exercises of the Malden High School alumni in High School Hall has been attended by a large number of the former pupils.

The try exercises and presentation of the traditional scale to the junior class marked the commencement exercises of Phillips Andover Academy.

The dedication of the McKeen memorial building was the feature of the commencement at Abbot Academy, Andover. Twenty-one young women received diplomas.

Owing to the illness of the valedictorian, Miss Alla Foster Sisson, an essay was read by Miss Aimee Edna Currier in place of the valedictory address at Everett High School commencement.

Bishop William Lawrence delivered the invocation at Wellesley College commencement exercises in Houghton Memorial Chapel. The graduate will contained 168 names. Ten masters of arts degrees were conferred.

The New England Conservatory of Music has graduated the first class day with exercises in Jordan Hall. The programme included musical and literary selections, followed by a "recital" in the gymnasium.

L. E. J. FEUERBANK.

Champion American-Canadian shot-putter about to cast the shot in an athletic tournament.

THE CHAPERON ON SOCIETY

Box Parties at Vaudeville the Fad at Newport—Boston People Entertain.

TWO WEDDINGS TO-DAY

By the Chaperon.

I HEAR that vaudeville has taken New-port by storm again this season, but newport always was a place of fads, and this fad in particular has been in vogue before, but it promises now to furnish a lot of amusement.

The opening of Pressbody Park, which contains a delightful open-air theatre, received the fad, and every performance a gay with an attendance of society people.

The way to entertain in this manner is to give a box party and wind up the evening by an informal dinner at one's house. This is the mode followed by all good Newporters, and it has become decidedly the rage. I see that a number of Boston people have followed the lead taken by some of the Newport residents, and are entertaining quite extensively in this manner.

The box seats presents a brilliant appearance at these affairs, as the boxes are filled with pretty women in stunning frocks.

Not usually am I given to gossip, but I am wondering if it is merely a coincidence that Miss Dora Longworth is to join his mother and sister, the Countess de Chambrun, at the former's North Shore home, and at the same time the announcement is made that Miss Alice Roosevelt will visit her kinspeople at Chestnut Hill and to attend Class Day and other exercises at Harvard.

Last winter we all knew of Mr. Longworth's devotion to the President's daughter and of his attendance with her at the Chevy Chase races and the St. Louis Fair this Spring. Later Hedge takes a deep interest in this strenuous daughter of the President.

* * *

Two weddings are booked for to-day that will claim the attendance of society people. Although the participants are all prominent socially, I understand that neither will be a large affair.

The first one is to be at 4.30 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson Jenkins, of Wellington Farms, when Miss Isabella Stuart, Miss Stuart Babcock Jenkins, will become the wife of Harry Ward Foote. This is to be a quiet, sweet, quiet affair, owing to recent bereavements in both the interested families. The couple will leave at once on a trip, and will be at home after September 1.

The other wedding, which is an evening affair, to be followed by a reception, is that of Miss Susan Stewart Vilas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Vilas, to Dr. William Edward McCoy. This will be at the home of the bride's parents, on Commonwealth avenue. The receiving hours will be from 8 till 10.

* * *

It seems that Mrs. Blair Fairchild is entertaining at a series of dinner parties at her Newport cottage, preparatory for herself the enviable reputation of being one of the most popular of the younger matrons at Newport. Those of us who knew her as Edith Tyler have easily imagine that she is well worthy of the title.

* * *

The Lenox colony, which, I understand, is unusually brilliant this year, is also calling with a great deal of interest two weddings that are to be solemnized in the church the Folsom family will furnish both the brides, and will be that of Miss Maude Folsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson Folsom, to Mr. Clark G. Voorhees, the scion of a well-known New York family. The ceremony is to be at Sonnyside, the Folsom summer place, as will be the reception which is to follow. Mr. Voorhees will take his bride to Lyme, Conn., for their honeymoon, and will then a charming Summer studio. In the Fall they will go to New York to winter.

Then the other wedding will be a fifth week in September. Miss Winifred Folsom is to be the bride, and the groom will be Edward Bonsall Trinity Church has been selected for the scene. "Sunnyside" will be the scene of the reception to follow.

I am willing to predict that the Folsom family will over these weddings, as four daughters are left who are all attractive girls.

* * *

Miss Rosamond Dixey, who is at the Dixey place, at Lenox, for the Summer, has gone to Islip, L. I., where she is a member of a house party.

* * *

There was a jolly party yesterday when Lieutenant Guenther Prien, according to his custom, entertained Governor and Mrs. Bates, the members of the Executive Council and their wives, and Secretary and Mrs. Barburtis, at his Summer home at Nahant. Dinner was served at the Nahant Club, after which the party motored back to the Lieutenant's home on the shore. They returned by boat early in the evening.

MRS. A. SHUMAN PASSES AWAY

An earnest and self-sacrificing worker in the cause of charity was lost in the death of Mrs. Hettie Lang Shuman, wife of Abraham Shuman, which occurred at her home in Beverly, yesterday afternoon. She was fifty-nine years of age and was Miss Hettie Lang before her marriage. She was married to Mr. Shuman in 1861, and leaves, besides her husband, seven children. They are Mrs. Augusta Weil, Mrs. Rosa Sydney, Alexander Shuman and Mrs. I. Rathesky of Boston, Mrs. Bertha Levy of Providence, George Shuman, of New York, Sydney Shuman, of Boston, and Mrs. Lena Bonnie.

Mrs. Shuman was prominent in many charities, and with her husband did much for the City Hospital. For the last two years she was ill, and was unable, owing to failing health, to take an active part in those charities, but she gave them much attention.

Sale Ten Million Boxes a Year.
The BEST HOT WEATHER MEDICINE
Cascarets
CANDY CATHARTIC
10c. 25c. 50c. THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP. All Druggists
PREVENT ALL SUMMER BOWEL TROUBLES
Undigested food in the human body will ferment a hundred times as quickly in summer as in winter. Consequence—stomach, liver, bowels poisoned, thrown out of order; sour stomach, gases, colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera, approach. Some regrettable fever and the plague. Little children suffer terribly everywhere. The proper thing is to send all impure and unnecessary matter out of the body every day—not give it a chance to soar in the stomach and bowels. You will stop hot, feverish conditions and keep your insides cool and healthy. To do it, use a medicine that is pleasant to the taste and not harsh and violent in its action. The only safe system-cleaner to take in summer, because it will not cause diarrhœa or griping, is Cascarets. All druggists, 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C.C.C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. Sample and booklet free. Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

When summer's heat frowns on us the natural moisture of the body is insufficient; drink freely; water is good sometimes—
Bunker Hill Lager
Pure, Vivifying, Pleasurable
OH! THAT'S GOOD ALL TIMES
Order by 'phone, 101 Charlestown, or by mail to Brewery, or through dealers.
Case, 2 Dozen Crown Cork, Pints $2.25
$1 allowed for bottles when returned.

VAN NOSTRAND'S Bunker Hill LAGER

It Fills the Bill
This is the business man's verdict concerning the
New Remington Billing Typewriter
It writes neat, compact, legible bills, with twice the speed of the pen.
Adaptable to all billing systems.

REMINGTON TYPEWRITER COMPANY, 61 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Cool TREMONT
HARVARD "CLASS NIGHT" FRIDAY
Henry W. Savage Offers
WOODLAND
A Musical Fantasy of the Forest, by Fairy and Leaders, Knights of "Prince of Pilsen" Fame and "King Dodo."
Evgs. at 8. Mats. Wed. & Sat. at 2
THIRD MONTH—SO MUCH PRICES.

COLONIAL THEATRE
Chas. Frohman, Rich & Harris ... Lessees & Mgrs.
Evenings at 8. Saturday Matinee at 2.
Engagement Prolonged on Account of CONTINUED SUCCESS
THE BOSTONIANS
In Their Genuine Comic Opera,
THE QUEEN OF LAUGHTER
By Augustus Thomas and Augustus Mitchell.
Mr. ANDREW MACKAY and Mr. WM. BRADY.
Next week—Sothern and Marlowe.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Cor. Columbus Ave. and Walnole St.
Ladies' Days, Tuesdays and Fridays
June 21, 22, 23 and 24, at 3:30,
NEW YORK
vs
BOSTON
Reserved seat tickets on sale at Connette's cigar stores, Revere House, and Gen. B. Appleton, Old South Building.

GLOBE
EVENINGS at 8.
MATINEE TO-DAY
Lower Floor 25c & 50c
Reserved Seats 50c & 75c
Wouldn't these cool prices make you feel warm on the 4th of July
Seats Selling Now for 4th of July and Mat. and Night
ISLE OF SPICE

BASS POINT—NAHANT
Get to Boston's favorite seashore resort. The new Bathing Pavilion, Dancing Pavilion, Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, Shoot-the-Chutes, Scenic Railway, Miniature Railway, Shooting Gallery, Bowling Alleys, Restaurant, Cafe, Soda Fountain, Ice Cream Parlor, Candy Kitchen, Photograph Gallery, Ladies' Parlor, Children's Playground, Bathing Suits for Rent, Lockers, Showers, Fresh and Salt Water Baths, Boating, Fishing, Clambakes, Shore Dinners, Lunches, Refreshments, Souvenirs, Postcards, Etc. Boats leave Boston every hour from Battery Wharf, foot of Atlantic avenue, 9 a. m. to 11 p. m. Special rates to parties. Take Eastern Railroad to Lynn, thence by electric cars to Bass Point. Map, 10c. Washington st., Boston. GEO. W. BEERS, Gen. Mgr. 1904 Washington st., Boston.

NORUMBEGA PARK
OPEN DAILY | At Auburndale on the Charles
"Most Complete Amusement Resort"
Covered Open Air Theatre Evs. 8:30 Mats. 2:30
Free Concerts Afternoon and Evening by Famous Musicians. Canoe Service on Charles River. Dancing Pavilion. Take electric cars marked Norumbega Park.

NANTASKET POINT
Steamer Pleasure Bay will make regular trips from Rowes Wharf, Boston, to Nantasket, Atlantic, Sea End of Oliver st., at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m. Sundays, 10:30 a. m., 2:30 p. m., connecting at Hull with electric cars to Nantasket Beach. Return 12 M., 4, 6, 10:30 p. m.
Fare 15 Cents Each Way.

The Most Interesting and Amusing Entertainment in Boston is Given at Keith's
"The Model Playhouse of the Country."
Continuous, from 1:30 till 10:30 P. M.

Austin & Stone's Museum
Ressner's Electric Incubators
Latest Infant Incubators
Largest Museum in the World
Two Great Vaudeville SHOWS
Admission only 10c

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE
Telephone Tremont 9 and Oxford 1.
Daily 2, 8:15 and 8.
MOTHS
Next Week—THE MASQUERADERS.

FOR THE FISHING GROUNDS
STEAMER KING PHILIP
Leaves Commercial wharf daily and Sunday at 10 o'clock. Lines, bait and shoveler free. Fare, 65c.

THE THRILLING SPECTACLE,
Johnstown Flood
AT REVERE BEACH,
OPEN FOR THE SEASON.

LEXINGTON PARK
Opens daily at 2 p. m. Sundays at 1 p. m.
Ladies' Orchestra. Electric Arcade. Geological Exhibit.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE
Every Evening at 8.
TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR ROOM
Next Week—"THE HEIRESS."

PALACE
SPORTY WIDOWS

HAVE THEM COME YOUR WAY
By a judicious use of the BOSTON AMERICAN WANT DEPT. you have a guarantee of the largest circulation in New England and quickest results.
DO YOU WANT A CIGAR STORE?
DO YOU WANT A GROCERY STORE?
DO YOU WANT A RESTAURANT?

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JUNE 22, 1904.

Remarkable and widespread interest has been aroused among the great army of BOSTON AMERICAN readers by the now famous Brick-and-a-Half Puzzle. It has furnished thousands a chance to give their brains a good, keen bit of exercise. Hundreds of letters offering solutions have been printed in the columns of this newspaper, and thousands have been received. It has been decided that no more letters on this subject shall be printed. This was the problem: "If a brick weighs seven pounds and a half a brick, what does a brick and a half weigh?" The correct answer is: "Twenty-one pounds."

How Much for a Murderer's Body?

He Wants to Sell It, but Its Chance to Be Valuable Has Gone By.

Frank Burness, about to be executed at Sing Sing for murdering a sea captain, asks permission to sell his body. He owes some money, and would like to pay his debts before starting out on his strange voyage, via the electric chair.

How many serious thoughts are aroused by that short statement among the news items of the day.

We learn that the murderer, besides giving up his life for his crime, must also give up the right to his own body.

Those of us innocent of murder may sell our bodies if we choose, and if we can find an obliging scientific purchaser. But the murderer's body is not his to sell. It must be burned in quick lime—after being cut up by prison doctors, unless his relatives ask for it.

The murderer's religious faith usually tells him that his soul is lost when he commits the great crime, and the jail warden tells him that his body is lost to him as well. Truly, with a lost soul, a body burned in quick lime, and a death by the mysterious electric current, the murderer's future and destiny would seem uncertain and interesting.

But MOST interesting and most suggestive of thought is the utter worthlessness of that body that might have been worth so much, to itself and to others.

The human body is a wonderful machine, all school children read Shakespeare's marvellous eulogy of it. But it is admirable only when, and IF, a noble spirit animates it.

When the soul's work is done, and the spirit has gone; when the chances to do good have been missed forever—how worthless and forlorn is that poor carcass to which we pay so much attention.

The murderer wants to sell his body and the warden will not let him. But if he would let him, what could he get for it? What would its value be? It might interest or instruct some doctors in the dissecting room if it were strangely and unusually diseased. Beyond that its sole value would be as a fertilizing material—something to make cabbages or potatoes grow—twice the value of a Newfoundland dog's body.

The hide is worthless as leather—no low animal that dies offers so little to the finder of its body.

We keep the bodies of men sometimes—the great Moliere's jawbone rests in a box with red velvet lining in the Musee de Cluny in Paris. A more ingenious satire on human nature than any invented by the genius that created Tartuffe.

Napoleon's corpse lies under a great gilt dome, where the restless may worship and imagine themselves Napoleonic.

But Moliere's body complete, or Napoleon's body complete, would be worth no more than that now offered for sale by the murderer, were it not for the work which those men's souls did in the body.

Is there not a lesson for many of us, for all of us, in this story of the murderer seeking to sell that which will be left of him, after the current shall have gone through his brain?

Vividly we are made to realize the fact that the body itself is worthless, that the work of the spirit inside alone counts.

But how much attention we pay to the body, and how little to its animating essence.

That poor, worthless body, how it engrosses our thoughts!

How shall we dress it? What shall we feed it? With what alcoholic compounds shall we stir up its energies? How shall others be made to realize its importance?

Fellow-citizens, millions of us try to keep the upper end of our bodies from getting bald, much more earnestly than we ever try to develop ourselves spiritually.

The best tailor can make ten times more money than the best teacher. The brewer is richer than the writer, or even the publisher of books. Let a man come along with a new idea—the nearer he gets to the soul, the nearer he gets to the poorhouse. He must talk to the body directly, if he would interest the sluggish spirit that inhabits it.

When we go sailing off "away from here," as that unhappy man will soon go, how shall we feel as we look back at the discarded body feeding the worms, or crumbled into ashes at the crematory?

How we shall wish that we had given a little less thought to keeping that carcass fat and gay, and more thought to developing the usefulness and nobility of the soul that is immortal.

Our murderer Frank Burness was not a useful man. He confessed to many crimes, and declared himself the worst of all the bad men.

But his life might be very useful, so useful as to secure another chance for him, if a million men could learn the lesson that is taught in his fruitless effort to sell his body.

FOR A QUIET DAY AT THE BEACH.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.

GETTING USED TO IT.

"What's he doing dat fer?"
"He's going ter be a Injun fighter some day, an' he wants ter git his hand in."

WHY HE PULLED IT.

"What yer pulling my nose fer?"
"What yer got sech a easy nose ter pull fer?"

ORDER THE SUNDAY AMERICAN
FROM YOUR NEWSDEALER
IN TIME

The Millionaire's Marriage.

BY JAMES MONTAGUE.

Oh! hasten to the altar, love,
The mob awaits us there;
They've wrecked the pews and organ, love,
And blocked the thoroughfare.
They'll fall on us with cheers and jeers,
Pull down the church about our ears
And take our clothes for souvenirs,
And howl, and hoot, and stare.

Put on your glad array, love,
For them to rend and tear;
They all must carry home, love,
The furbelows you wear.
A football player's pretty tough,
A soldier's life is rather rough,
But neither would be brave enough
To wed a millionaire.

Fable of the Bashful Wooer That Couldn't Take a Hint.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY AMERICAN-JOURNAL-EXAMINER.

THERE was once a handsome young Sheep whose Paternal Ancestor had left him a Fortune that was All Wool and a Yard Wide, and who was, in consequence the Matrimonial It of the community in which he lived. Now, the Sheep's pile of Tin and his blameless life made him a Shining Mark, and all the Managing Mammas were after him Hot Foot; but, unfortunately, he was so Bashful that every time he saw a Piece of Calico coming he got Stage Fright and made a Break for the Pines.

This was not because he had any Grouch against Females. On the contrary, he was one of the Sentimental Muffs who worship the Sex from afar, and who go about in a Mazarine Daze, thinking what a killing they could make if their Adam's Apple would not choke them whenever they tried to get off any of the Soft Talk they had Framed up.

For a Long Time the Sheep was enabled to keep a safe distance between himself and his Pursuers, but finally a young Tigress, who was something of a sprinter herself, overtook him and succeeded in hypnotizing him so that he would come at her Call and eat out of her hand.

But although she had him on the String, all right, all right, she could never make him Toe the Mark, or come to the Point where she would be justified in advertising the Wedding and blackmailing her Friends for Wedding Presents. He would sit around the House all day, making Goo-Goo eyes at her, but whenever he attempted to speak he would have Heart Failure and back away, until it began to look as if instead of Pulling off a Match it would be a False Alarm.

This was not the Tigress's fault, for she was a Cheerful Worker, and she gave him every Opportunity. She reduced Papa's Gas bill by Half, by turning down the Lights in the Back Parlor, but Mr. Sheep put the Tip on Ice, and instead of Clinching Fins with her in the Gloaming he sat on his side of the Hearth and spieled about the President's chance of Re-election.

Seeing that this had failed the Tigress meandered with him by the Sea, where the little waves kissed each other, but there was nothing doing in the Osculation Line, so far as the Sheep was concerned, nor did he rise to the Bait even when she fished for him with Sentimental Songs. He merely Gulped Hard and sat Silent.

At last all of this Dumb Adoration, with nothing to show for it, began to get upon the Tigress's nerves. "I do not mind," she said to herself, "being the pacemaker in the Matrimonial Race, but it makes me dead tired to have to do all the running, with no prospect of pulling down the Purse, so it's me to the Lioness, and get next to some system by which I can induce the Sheep to Face the Flag." With these words the Tigress hied away to the Lioness and told her sad, sad story.

"I seem to be up against It Good and Hard," she said, "for, while I have Pulverized Mr. Sheep's affection until he is Simply Mushy, he lacks the Ginger to come to Time with a Bona Fide Offer, and I see my finish in the Old Maid's Class unless you can Tout me to some way to Corkscrew a proposal out of a Bashful Suitor. Personally I do not care for an oversupply of Caloric Sentiment, but this thing of a Wordless Courtship is a little Slow, and I am getting tired of handing out Dares to a creature who has not spunk enough to take them."

"In a Breach of Promise Suit," quoth the Lioness, "you can always put in a claim for Wasted Time."

"You are nix there," returned the Tigress, "for Mr. Sheep has also swiped my heart, and my life without him will be damaged goods."

"In that case," replied the Lioness, "your only hope is to Lead him up to the Point, and mayhap he will fall over."

"There's nothing in it," replied the Tigress, "for he is a Dead One, and is not alive enough to take a Cue when you shove it at him."

Nevertheless, the next time the Sheep called upon the Tigress he found her weeping bitterly.

"Why those tears?" inquired the Sheep, doping out the sympathy.

"Alas," cried the Tigress, turning on the brine afresh, "I weep because No One Loves me, and I long for Affection."

"Do Not Weep," returned the Sheep with emotion. "One loves you."

"Who?" inquired the Tigress eagerly.

"God does," replied the Sheep.

"Chump!" cried the Tigress, as she arose and began to swat him over the head, and after that she passed up the Bashful Suitor and married the first lifty Gazabo who asked her.

Moral: This Fable teaches that a Hint to the Wise Suitor ought to be sufficient.

TO OBEY WOULD HAVE BEEN WELL FOR THIS WIFE.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

In spite of the sadness and sympathy with which people have not yet ceased to regard the terrible holocaust at Hell Gate, I cannot refrain from alluding to one moral to which an incident of that terrible affair points with severe directness.

A woman who spoke to her husband of going on the fatal excursion was told by the latter not to do so, and to remain at home. Later, hearing of the fire and loss of life, he returned home to congratulate his wife, and when he arrived there found that she had disobeyed him, and gone on the steamer.

A little more attention to the little word "obey," so often spoken carelessly in the marriage vow, might get revolutionize the world, but there would be times when its value would be appreciated.

MARIA V. SUDBURY.

Winthrop.

HAVE FOREMEN FAVORITES?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Knowing that your paper always takes a stand against any unfairness, I send the following, hoping you will give it a little space so that parties who can remedy the evil, of which I am sure they are absolutely ignorant, may know of it and act accordingly.

There are a number of men taken on by the Boston & Northern railroad every week twice a week, and, after learning their various duties, they are supposed to report to their respective foremen for whatever work he may have for them. When the foremen has any work he marks it out twice a day and divides as he sees fit. The officials of the company expect him to treat all men alike, but the foreman generally has his favorites, to whom he gives more work than they can attend to, while the other poor fellows, who in most cases have families depending upon them, are hanging around day and night in the hope of getting a few hours' work. It happens so that the favorite may be marked to take the places of a dozen men for as many trips, and no amount of protesting on the part of the others will help them—if it does not affect them the other way.

It is very hard for a man to give up after having paid out considerable for the "pull" that got him the place, then the uniform, cap and incidentals, and with perhaps six months or so between him and a regular car. There is generally about enough work to give the spare men more than half the regular pay, but the trouble is that only a few get all the "thick" and the rest all the "thin." The men generally don't dare to make complaint to the superior officers of the company, who no doubt would not tolerate anything of the kind if they knew of it. SUFFERER.

Boston.

NO ATTENTION PAID TO COMMUNICATIONS UNSIGNED.

JUST KIDS.

THE KID—Chiminy, he looks as if he'd et regular fifteen cent meals t'ree times a day all his life.

THE KID (proudly)—De dentist pulled out a tooth fer me.
THE OTHER—Pooh! Left Hook Bill knocked mine out.

"So youse a prize fighter's son, hey? Well, dere ain't nuttin' in inheritance after all."

"De bumps on yer head say dat you is of such er generous disposition dat you are going ter glb a friend half of dat bag of peppermint drops you've got in yer pocket."